Shoplifting Is Theme of FBI Agent Tuesday

Merchants Told How to Detect Offenders in Talk by Glewwe

Approximately 150 local merchants, employees and other interested persons were on hand Tuesday evening when a lecture on methods used by shoplifters was given by Wes Glewwe of the FBI in the auditorium.

Interest in the lecture was high and J. M. Roche, Chamber of Commerce executive secretary, and local law enforcement officials who cooperated in sponsoring the session were pleased at the good turnout.

A film on how shoplifters cost merchants huge monetary sums through stolen merchandise was shown in addition to talks by Glewwe, Roche, Police Chief Elton Cummings and County Attorney L. W. Rullen.

Glewwe advised merchants that the simplest "gimmicks" often serve as shoplifting deterrents. Such gimmicks, he said, as signs threatening prosecution, etc., ceiling mirrors and others either scare off shoplifters or aid in their detection.

Another means of curbing shoplifters is to avoid merchandising methods that provide the shoplifter a convenient alibi. Attentive clerks, especially can do much to prevent merchandise loss through shoplifting as this makes it difficult for the shoplifter to operate unseen, Glewwe said.

Rullen explained changes in the newly-enacted shoplifting law, outlining as the main feature the stated legality of apprehending the suspected shoplifter before he or she leaves store premises. The merchant or employee can now employ "reasonable" force in apprehending a shoplifter if he has "reasonable cause to believe an individual is shoplifting."

Cummings said that while many merchants are unwilling to prosecute shoplifters because of possible adverse publicity, they should nevertheless report all such instances to the police or sheriff's office for reference.

By doing this, Cummings emphasized, the police are able to have a record of shopliftings and shoplifters. The seemingly petty offender, he said, could easily be an habitual offender with a long record of such thefts.

Local merchants who lose thousands of dollars annually to shoplifters seemed impressed at the points brought out during the discussion.

Blanks for Korea Bonus Available at Legion Sept. 11

Typists Will Be on Hand to Assist Veterans in Making out Applications

Application blanks for the Korea veterans' bonus will be available starting Sept. 10 at the office of H. B. Rafteseth, Pennington county veterans service officer, in the court house here, Rafteseth stated this week.

He also announced that in cooperation with veterans' groups, he has arranged for applications to be filled out in the American Legion club rooms Wednesday evening, September 11, when a staff of typists will be present to give assistance.

Rafteseth said that those qualifying for the bonus include men who have served 30 days or longer during the period from June 25, 1950, to July 27, 1953. It is necessary, he added, for applicants to supply a certified or photostat copy of their separation or discharge papers.

He cautioned against using ball-point pen or a pencil in filling out the application blank, as they are not suitable for the microfilming process thru which the forms must go.

Payment of the bonus is not scheduled to be made until January, 1958.

Jones Returns from Training Course on Victims of Disaster

What's it like to be a member of a rescue party entering a bombed city and to begin hunting through the debris of shattered, burning, smoke filled buildings for trapped, helpless victims? According to Quentin Jones, of the Lincoln high school faculty, who last weekend returned from the civil defense rescue school at Olney, Maryland, it is quite an experience.

"Why," said Jones, "they have constructed a bombed city right down to the smallest detail. If a person were suddenly dropped into the center of the training area unexpectedly he would never know it was a mock setup."

The buildings of the "bombed city" and the surrounding streets were designed in every detail to simulate an actual section of any municipality that had been hit by a destructive force—man made or natural.

The buildings are characteristic of all types of construction—frame, concrete block, and steel construction, from one floor ranch type homes to five story apartment houses. All have been destroyed in such a way as to permit various types of rescue operations. Some have the walls leaning at a dangerous angle; some have the floors collapsed and others have their interiors gutted and charred by fire.

It was in this "bombed city" that Jones and 24 other men from states all over the nation received on-the-spot training in light rescue operations. For one week, from 8:30 in the morning till 5 at night, the 25 men went to school. And, said Jones, sometimes at night members of the group would get together to do some homework practicing various rescue operations or viewing movies on different rescue procedures.

During the first part of the week it was mostly theory, said Jones. Later in the week the men went into the field for actual training. The group was divided into teams of eight men each, under one instructor. Each day they had to go through different rescue operations. The instructors, said Jones, were all experts and experienced men at rescue operations.

The men were introduced to many different types of rescue operations, from getting a victim down from the roof of a five story building to cutting their way through a concrete slab to rescue a trapped victim.

The problem of getting the victim out of the building is secondary, said Jones; first they had to know where to look for victims.

Jones also received training in the use of rescue equipment.

Much of the equipment that he used for rescue work will be included on the light rescue truck this city will receive from the government in the near future. To qualify for the light rescue vehicle the city had to send one man to the rescue school.

Jones was selected for this training and was sponsored by

79 Teachers Are State Fair Guests

C. W. Pope Is Included in Group Honored Monday

Minnesota has a serious and growing teacher shortage, Gov. Freeman warned Monday night as 79 state's elementary and high school instructors were honored at the state fair.

The governor said that instead of the 2,000 teachers now entering the profession yearly in Minnesota, the state will need 3,000 to take care of increasing enrollments.

Freeman reported that the shortage heretofore has been met by recruiting some teachers back into service. But he said even this thin backlog is now nearly exhausted.

Feted at the dinner and later introduced in front of the grandstand audience at the fair were 79 teachers, cited for their length of service to education. Included was C. W. Pope of Thief River Falls.

Top honors went to Miss Ida A. Koivisto, who has taught 49 of her 67 years. Runnersup at the fete were Miss Edna Glenn, Minneapolis, and Mrs. Nellie M. Cummings, St. Paul, each a teacher for 48 years.

School at Grygla to Open Tuesday

225 Elementary Pupils Expected to Register

Newly painted, waxed floors and bright varnished desks will greet 225 elementary school children Tuesday, September 3rd when the schools open in Grygla.

Mrs. C. Boyum, principal, reported that the 225 total is just a little bit under last years attendance. The small drop, she said, is due to a smaller number of children registered for the first grade. This, she added, is not unusual. The number of children beginning school varies from year to year.

Mrs. Boyum announced the appointment of three new teachers, all graduates of the Thief River Falls teachers training course. They are: Mr. Leslie Galland, Mentor, who will teach 5th and 6th grades; Miss Mary Erickson, Bagley, new 1st and 2nd grade teacher; and Mrs. Bernice Jelle, who will teach 4th and 5th grades and music.

New Washington Equipment Placed

Store patrons are reminded to keep the holiday in mind in attending to their week-end shopping needs.

Concert Assn. to Open Membership Campaign Sept. 11

Norman Peterson Heads Committee in Charge of Signing up Members

The Thief River Falls Community Concert association will officially launch its 1957 season with the opening of the annual membership drive on September 11th. The drive, which is under the direction of Norman Peterson, will continue until late September.

Although renewals were taken from former members last spring, during the above period season membership in the association will again be open to anyone in the area who wishes to join. The directors of the association emphasize that it is only through the season membership plan that artists of the caliber engaged for the local series can be presented here, and they urge everyone who is interested in maintaining an excellent artist series in this area to join the association during the drive. No single concert admissions will be available and the membership will be closed during the concert season.

The directors, of which Curtis Harris is chairman, met with the Allied Concert Services representative earlier this year to select talent for the coming season. Talent selections were made on several bases: to provide as much contrast and variety as possible from previous seasons, to present the type of attractions and program that is most enjoyed in this area, and to offer members an opportunity to hear artists of superb musicianship and national repute. Each artist's program will be varied to include many types of music so that each member of the audience will find something especially enjoyable.

Norman Peterson, membership chairman, will be assisted by five division captains and a staff of workers. There are three types of membership available: adult, student, and family.

AFRICA MISSIONARY AT GRYGLA THIS EVENING

Seek Advance in Date of Soil Bank Payment

Times Asks Speeding Up of Conservation Reserve Payments

In a telephone call from Washington to the Times Tuesday, Senator Edward J. Thye stated that the Department of Agriculture is giving further consideration to the possibility of advancing the annual payments on Conservation Reserve Soil Bank contracts. A recent announcement by the department said these payments would not be made until at the end of the contract period, December 31.

The Times had wired Senator Thye, on Monday urging that these payments be speeded up; that the withholding of the payments until the end of the contract period would, in some instances, result in unnecessary hardship.

According to Pat Culkins, manager of the local office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, 70 percent of the contracts had already been checked and approved for payment.

In recommending a more prompt settlement, especially in the northern areas of the country, Senator Thye pointed out that the crop year would definitely end with the coming of frost and snow. In some of the southern areas where up to three crops are produced within the contract period, withholding payment until the end of the contract period probably was justified, he said.

That is not the case in Minnesota. He is asking that the final settlement on fully approved contracts be made in the latter part of October, in time to make the money available for November 1 tax settlements.

For Pennington county farmers the sum involved totals about $287,000, according to Culkins, and the total probably would be proportionately great in neighboring counties.

For taking wheat land out of production about $06,000 has already been paid to farmers in the county, and the first checks for the compliance with conservation practices requirements are being mailed this week. These checks will total $122,000 in Pennington county.

St. Hilaire Youth Wins Scholarship Given by Two T. R. Falls Banks

Larry Johnson, son of Lloyd Johnson, Route No. 1, St. Hilaire, a 1957 graduate of Lincoln high school, has been named winner of a two year, six months-each-year scholarship to the University of Minnesota school of agriculture, S. Paul, according to Elmer W. Bratsch, associate councilman for the Minnesota Bankers Association.

The scholarship, sponsored in conjunction with the bankers association, was given by the Northern State Bank and the Union State Bank of this city.

Larry Johnson will receive $400 to apply toward his expenses at the school of agriculture, $200 being allocated for each school year of two terms each.

Eligibility for the scholarship is determined on the following points: All young men must agree to make farming their vocation; candidates must show willingness to apply themselves to the fullest extent, both in gaining and in using the training provided; applicants must be high school graduates; all young men must be living or have lived on farms; preference will be given to young men who have not made definite plans to enroll in a four-year course pointed to a degree; past accomplishments and leadership ability.

A background of membership and participation in 4-H club work, Rural Youth, Future Farmers of America, farm organizations and community betterment programs through the home, school, and church are also considered in determinating the eligibility of an applicant.

Larry has been active in 4-H work since 1947, having completed approximately thirty 4-H projects and has made five trips to the Minnesota State Fair. He also is a member of the Future Farmers of America and is active in his church.

The school of agriculture at St. Paul offers the two-year program especially for young people who do not intend to take a four-year course for a degree, but wish to get further vocational leadership training for the purpose of returning to the home community and continuing in the business of farming.

Complex Dial Phone System Explained by Bacon, TRF Manager

The electrical brain which will complete your calls when you start using the dial telephone early Sunday morning, September 8, is one of the most complex machines ever designed for general use.

A. K. Bacon, Northwestern Bell Telephone Company manager, said the equipment is actually operated entirely by telephone users whenever they dial a number. It sets up a connection between any two telephones—a total of about 4,807,000 possible combinations. It rings distant telephones and reports back to the calling party what it is doing—ringing a telephone, encountering a "busy" or "no such number."

The dial switching equipment is housed in a room with neat rows of apparatus extending from floor to ceilings. Power apparatus is in a separate room.

Heart of the equipment is the marker, of which there are four. Each marker contains approximately 700 relays. All told, as many as 1,100 separate relay operations are made in completing a single call through the dial mechanism.

The power to ring the distant telephone, the dial tone, busy tone and other service signals, are all produced by a ringing machine introduced into the telephone line at the proper time by the dial mechanism.

The new dial switching equipment is engineered to handle far more calls than the present switchboards, and it can handle a full load 24 hours a day without relief. It's always ready to handle a sudden spurt of calls, such as might come during a storm, after a disaster or a local event of great interest.

"If experience gained elsewhere is any guide," Bacon said, "Thief River Falls exchange customers will make more calls than previously and we have engineered the dial equipment to handle a greater volume of calls."

Studies show that in the past, telephone users have made approximately 17,000 calls on a busy day. "We expect usage may jump as much as 10 per cent, and we have provided equipment to handle that kind of load without delay," he said.

To assist in maintaining telephone service at all times, a 50,000 watt portable generator is located here to provide power in case of emergency.

Work Started on '58 City Directory

Terry stated that the last local compilation was made 12 years ago in 1945, and that there has been an extensive turnover in city residents in the intervening years. The new book, he added, will be available around the first of the year.

Eight or ten persons will be engaged shortly in making the tabulation, Terry said. He has his headquarters in the Pennington Hotel.

Schenkey Bid Accepted for Street Work

Middle River Man's Bid of $71,[illegible] Is Lowest of Three

The city council at an adjourned meeting Tuesday evening awarded to Oscar Schenkey, of Middle River the contract for an extensive street surfacing and curb and gutter project on the east side, the successful bid being in the amount of $71,[illegible]. Two other bids were received, ranging up to $77,348.10.

At the same time the council accepted the bid of $3,661.[illegible] submitted by Ripley Plumbing & Heating Co., city, for installing necessary service connections.

Schenkey's bid set the completion date at July 15, 1958. City Engineer Douglas Stewart stated that in view of the lateness of the season, it is not probable, tho not impossible, that the actual surfacing work will get under way this fall, altho much of the preliminary work can be done.

Stewart said that the city's share of the cost of the project will be about $10,000, the remainder to be covered by assessments against benefited property owners. The engineer's estimate on the cost of the project had been $[illegible].

New Varieties of Rye Are Available to Local Growers

Adams and Caribou rye are now available to local seed growers, according to County Agent Paul Steimnachuk. Both varieties are on the recommended list, and both foundation and registered seed may be obtained. Both varieties are good yielders and Caribou rye has very good winter hardiness which is important in Northwestern Minnesota.

Both varieties of rye are of medium maturity and are tall. The 1957 crop will be alloted to growers on a first come-first served basis.

Seed growers can also secure Park Kentucky Bluegrass and Merion Bluegrass.

Rain, Cloudy Weather Delays Harvest End

The week's weather, generally speaking, has not been conducive to harvesting; for that matter the weather hasn't been conducive to anything else because of the cloudy blanket over northwest Minnesota and parts of North Dakota.

A thumbnail aerial survey Wednesday disclosed that some area farmers are still engaged in harvesting what remains of the small grain crop, despite the gloomy weather.

A few farmers have also swathed early-maturing flax, as the survey disclosed. No accurate estimate of the small grain remaining to be combined was available today because County Agent Paul Steimaschuk is at the Minnesota State Fair but the figure would probably be 20 per cent or less.

Very little, if any, flax has been combined to date.

Despite the heavy clouds that hung over the area this week, only .08 inch of rain has fallen, that coming as a drizzle Tuesday. Adverse drying conditions have prevailed, however, so little progress has been made in the harvest wind-up. Some plowing is in progress where the harvest is finished.

Temperatures during the week have ranged from a low of 41 Monday to a high of 63 Wednesday. Frost forecast for Tuesday didn't materialize, much to the relief of area gardeners.

The forecast, according to KTRF, is for more of the same weather we've been having. Cloudiness will slowly decrease today and temperatures will climb somewhat but skies will probably be very cloudy again tonight and Friday, with possible showers and warmer temperatures.

Highs today will be in the 60's and the lows in the 50's. Winds will be light, variable, becoming southeasterly Friday, with rising humidity.

HIGHWAY DEATH EVERY 13 MINUTES IN U. S.

The nation's total of approximately 40,000 traffic fatalities last year was an average of one highway death every 13 minutes around the clock. Let's be alert and determined always to drive so that we protect lives, our own and others.

Flying Club Piper Cruiser Now in Use

Major Overhaul of Plane Was Recently Completed

The Thief River Falls Flying club now is operating with its full complement of aircraft since the completion of major overhaul to the club's Piper Cruiser, club officers announced this week.

The Cruiser has been laid up most of the summer while new fabric covering was put on by Elwood Ehrenstrom. The engine was also overhauled and the plane, resplendent in an unusual white and light-green finish, is practically new, both in looks and performance. It is now available for local and cross-country flying by club members.

All club members are urged to fly the two club planes as often as possible now that they are available. Members of the club here enjoy hourly rental rates that rank among the lowest of any flying clubs throughout the U. S. and the more the planes are flown the better, as regards the club's well-being.

Club Treasurer Allen Larson also reminded the members that Sept. 4 is the cut-off date for paying the special assessment levied early this summer. Those members who have not paid by Sept. 4 will be declared members not in good standing, Larson said.

Soil Tests

Fall is the time to consider taking a soil test. Your soil test is good for about two years. Why not pick up a box and sheet at the office and send a cup full of soil to the University.

You may be surprised what they find in the dab of soil. Besides your next year's crop profits may be higher if you knew what that soil was like on the west forty. It takes a certain amount of nitrogen, phosphate, and potash to give you a certain yield. How much have you got in your soil? If you want 100 bushels of oats it will take 83 pounds of nitrogen, 34 pounds of phosphate, and 70 pounds of potash. For 40 bushels of what you need 70 pounds of nitrogen, 28 pounds of phosphate and 47 pounds of potash.

If you haven't got that much in your soil then fertilization is needed. Since some fertilizers is "fixed" or tied up with minerals which the plant can't use, then we have to put more into the soil than just the difference between what we have and what we need.

Take a soil test now and plan your fertilizer later.

If you find traces of milk stone in your milk cans, give them a good scrubbing with an acid dairy cleaner. Daily rinsing with a sanitizing agent is necessary, but that treatment alone won't remove milk stone and the bacteria in it. Remember that you are paid on the basis of quality.

• • •

Cows need good pasture in the fall for maximum production. Where the pasture starts drying up feed some hay or silage. About one half of the winter grain ration is needed to supplement pasture feeding. The heifers which will freshen this fall need to be fed grain for three months prior to calving and be in good condition. If the heifers are thin at calving they wouldn't produce what they could produce if they were in good condition. Some fall pastures are no more than gymnasiums. A good pasture program requires permanent and supplement forage and grain feeding at this time of the year of you would like additional ideas on grain feeding on pasture, pick up Bulletin 218, "Feeding the Dairy Herd", at the Extension Office.

Ehrenstrom Gets Plane Inspecter License Tuesday

Manager of Municipal Airport Passes Tests Conducted at Fargo

Elwood Ehrenstrom, manager of Thief River Falls municipal airport and operator of the local airport's aircraft and maintenance shop, took the CAA aircraft inspector examination in Fargo Tuesday and in passing the examination became a licensed aircraft inspector, he announced here today.

Prior to becoming an inspector, Ehrenstrom was not permitted to pass on aircraft periodic inspections and all local craft had to be flown to an airport which had an inspector in order to be relicensed.

All aircraft must be relicensed each 12 calendar months in a procedure which determines the airworthiness of the aircraft before the owner can legally fly it.

Because there is now an inspector at the Thief River Falls airport aircraft owners in the area will get faster service in relicensing in the future. The local airport handles a large number of transient aircraft brought here for repairs, maintenance and relicensing.

Lawn Renovation In The Fall

Late August or early September is the best time during the fall to begin a new lawn or renovate an old one. When the grass is thin or uneven or shows other signs of low fertility, a soil test might be beneficial. Contact your county agricultural agent about sending a soil sample to the Institute of Agriculture in St. Paul.

• • •

Start your lawn renovation by raking the bare spots or those containing weeds or moss. Use a steel rake. Then apply a top dressing of about two inches of black soil.

• • •

One or two pounds of soybean meal or 5-10-5 fertilizer per 100 feet will provide nutrients necessary for fall growth. Each 1,000 square feet of lawn should receive one pound of actual nitrogen. If you are using an 8-10-4 fertilizer, you should apply 12½ pounds to 1,000 square feet.

• • •

Spread the fertilizer evenly over the lawn either by hand or with the spreader. Apply it when the soil is moist, but when the blades of grass are dry. Rake the fertilizer in and make it very smooth before seeding. Just after applying fertilizer and seed, water thoroughly to avoid burning the already established grass. Use a similar fertilizer application for starting a new lawn.

• • •

Kentucky bluegrass is a good grass for a sunny lawn and should be sowed at the rate of one to two pounds per 1,000 square feet. For a shady lawn, plant chewings or red fescue.

• • •

Be sure to keep the seeded areas moist with frequent sprinklings until the grass is thick and a good covering is visible. After this, it's best to water only about once or twice a week to encourage deep rooting of the grass. When grass is watered very shallowly the roots develop close to the surface and the grass seedlings will not withstand winter conditions or drought.

Only Few Cases of Malaria Treated at VA Hospitals

Malaria is a vanishing disease in Veterans Administration hospitals, the VA said today.

Of the hundreds of thousands of veterans who contracted malaria overseas during World War II and the Korean conflict, almost none now require treatment by VA for the disease.

Only nine cases of malaria were treated in VA's 173 hospitals and 101 outpatients clinics during the first three months of 1957. Only two of the nine were hospitalized.

Use of the drugs primaquine and chloroquine has given excellent results in treatment of malaria, VA said.

Wins City Title By One Stroke

Mrs. Donald (Sylvia) Olson, left, defended her city golf championship title successfully Wednesday afternoon by edging out Mrs. Harold (Sam) Rasmussen by one stroke. The match took place at the Thief River Falls golf course. Mrs. Olson led by a one stroke lead at the end of the first nine holes. She turned in a 90 for the 18 hole match.

Mrs. Donald L. Olson Retains Golf Crown

Mrs. Don (Sylvia) Olson made a successful defense of her women's city golf championship when, in an eighteen-hole finals match played Wednesday afternoon, she defeated Mrs. Harold (Sam) Rasmussen by a 1-up margin.

In opening round play in the championship flight, played in the drizzle on Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Olson defeated Mrs. Robert (Yvonne) Bredeson in a first round match, and then eliminated Mrs. Jack (Sylvia) Edmston in the semi-finals. Mrs. Rasmussen, in a first round match, defeated Mrs. Ray (Kay) Offerdahl, and then edged out Mrs. Ted (Iran) Hellie in a nip-and-tuck semi-finals encounter.

In the championship flight consolation play, Mrs. Ole (Lu) Ekeren, by a 2-up margin, defeated Mrs. Offerdahl in the finals to win the consolation honors.

In the championship flight finals, Mrs. Olson held a 1-up lead at the end of the first nine holes of play, and when Sylvia opened the second round by taking the 1st hole with a par five, her lead was 2-up. Mrs. Rasmussen won the 2nd hole with a bogey five when Mrs. Olson three-putted for a six.

Mrs. Olson won the long par five 5th hole with a six to go 2-up. Coming up to the 8th tee, Mrs. Rasmussen was dormie, being two down and two to play. On the 8th, Mrs. Rasmussen chipped to within ten feet of the pin, and dropped a neat putt to card a three and win the hole. The win pared Mrs. Olson's lead to 1 up.

On the long 9th hole, both golfers were out in front of the green, about fifty yards short of the pin, with their third shots. Mrs. Olson missed her approach, dubbing the ball about ten yards. Mrs. Rasmussen's approach was short, stopping just at the edge of the green. Mrs. Olson made a fine recovery, chipping to within 18 inches of the cup. Mrs. Rasmussen attempted to sink her long putt, but when the ball carried a bit off to the right and foot beyond the pin, Mrs. Olson won the match by sinking her short putt. Mrs. Rasmussen canned her putt to halve the hole with a 6.

The cards:

Par	[illegible]	—36
Mrs. Olson	[illegible]	—45
Mrs. Rasmussen	[illegible]	—46
Par	[illegible]	—36—36—72
Mrs. Olson	[illegible]	—45—45—90
Mrs. Rasmussen	[illegible]	—45—46—91

Practice Set for Newfolden Squad

Football Equipment to Be Issued This Evening

First call for the Newfolden community school 8-man football squad has been set for 6:30 p. m. today, at which time equipment will be issued to the gridders for the coming year. John R. Junker, Stillwater, is the new coach at Newfolden in football, basketball, and baseball for the coming year.

Junker is an August graduate of the University of Denver, and will arrive in Newfolden on Friday, August 30th. He has issued a call for the first practice at 6:00 P. M. on Friday. Another practice will be held on Saturday and Monday before school starts. These early sessions are necessary to get in the allotted time set up by the Minnesota State High School League preparatory to the first game at Newfolde on September 13.

It is hoped that a large squad of boys will turn out to greet the new coach and especially that the boys will be in to draw equipment this evening so that they may commence practice without interruption Friday evening.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

The Rangiest Ever

The Prowlers football coaches, Joe Mrkonich, Ralph Skay, and Dick Edlund, have shaken down the bulky squad into a workable unit.

There's one thing that is apparent to the sideline observers, and that is that this edition of the football Prowlers will be the rangiest ever to represent the local school.

We always believed that the Prowlers of 1919, coached by Albert Tommerasen, and with such players on the squad as captain Denny McGinn, Gordon (Tubby) LaBree, Rube Hadrath, Ernie Zeh, Chuck Herron, Joe Weirus, Vic Norquist, LeLand Schuster, Elmer Larson, and others was the biggest team to play for Lincoln high. But that's not true anymore.

And another good-sized Prowler team was coach Roger Dooley's club of 1933. That team was co-captained by Paul Dahl and Robert Chommie, and had such big boys as John (Snort) Langseth, Tommy Fuller, Lloyd Bradley, George Battleson, Wayne Kielty, Art Nelson, Jim VanPelt, and Gib Granum on the roster.

But to return to the 1957 Prowlers. As coach Skay commented, after working with ends Dave Hanson and Kenny DeLap, "Those two boys are the tallest ends with which I've ever worked." That is a believable quote, for with Dave reaching up to the six feet, five inch mark, and Kenny stretching out at nearly six feet, four inches, the Prowlers do have a pair of lofty ends.

What gives the sideliners an inkling as the the ranginess of the squad is that Hanson and DeLap do not tower over their teammates. Dave and Ken are noticeable, of course, but not spectacularly so. They do not have more than a couple of inches on some of the boys.

A look at the backfield, the unit that has been getting most of the offensive attention, reveals that Phil Hanson, at quarterback, is six feet, and inch or so in height; Jim Bennes at fullback, is six feet, two inches; left halfback Dave Rasmussen is just a fraction of an inch shy of the six foot mark; and right halfback Lynn Nicholson is the "midget" at five feet, nine inches.

While the 1957 Prowlers will have undoubted height, whether or not they will have the necessary team-speed is a question that will have to await actual competition before being answered. It's a certainty that the present Prowlers will not have the line speed possessed by the Prowlers of 1944 and 1945. Remember those linemen? Billy Nelson, Ralph Foster, Cliff Anse, Chuck Richards, Bob Melby, Glen Berg, and the rest.

Divots

A ten-man delegation of local golfers participated in the sand-green shortstop tournament played at Roseau on Sunday. Included in this contingent were such golfers as Stan Larson, Phil LeGault, Jerry Tygeson, Ed Boughton, and Jack Boyer, but none of these boys were able to qualify for the eight-man championship flight.

Sixteen top-ranked golfers teed off for a nine holes of qualifying play, and Stan Larson's 39 was the lowest score posted by the local golfers. Not good enough to make the championship, which, incidentally, was composed of eight Roseau golfers.

The winner of the championship flight honors was H. F. (Red) Peterson, who defeated Rube Bjorkman in the finals. Red, who is a veteran tournament player, defeated Bob Harris in a semi-finals match.

We've watched the colorful Red play in numerous tournaments, and we can recall one Sunday back in 1941, in a shortstop tournament played here, when Peterson, with his unorthodox swing, took the measure of Grand Forks' highly-rated Phil Olson in a championship finals match. Red, playing out of Bemidji in those days, came over here quite unheralded, with most of the attention being focused on the Grand Forks golfers, but he waded through those boys to a well-deserved win.

Reminder

Don't forget that tonight is the night when the Thief River Trap Shoot league concludes its 1957 schedule. And tonight, too, the league matches will be held under the lights. It's not too early to mention, too, that a trap shoot will be conducted on the local grounds on Sunday, Sept. 8th. According to present plans, this shoot will be gala event.

With the sharptailed grouse season set to open on Saturday, Sept. 21st, it behooves all the sportsmen to condition their reflexes and their shooting irons. No better place than at the trap shooting grounds.

Ada vs The Field

The Region 28 baseball tournament gets under way this evening, Thursday, at the Ada ball park, with the Ada Athletics of the Norman-Polk league meeting the Bagley Merchants of the Northern Minny league in the opening game. Play ball is at 8:00 p.m.

In addition to Ada and Bagley, Climax of the Dakota-Red River league and Warren of the Red River Valley league are entered in the regional tourney. These two teams will meet in the first round game on Friday night.

The tournament, which is conducted on a double-elimination basis, will continue on Saturday night, Sunday afternoon and Sunday night, and Monday afternoon.

On the basis of their season's record, and considering the fact that the tournament is being played on their home field, Tony Sipe's Ada Athletics must be given the role of favorites. But not by too much. If the Bagley Merchants had a stronger pitching staff, or if lefty Ken Severud was in top shape, Mel Brustad's Northern Minny league champions would rate as co-favorites.

The Northern Minny league this past season didn't produce a stand-out hurler. The league's pitchers, Dave and Ken Severud, Stan Otness of Bagley, Sid Vraa of the Thieves, and Ronnie LaChance of Red Lake Falls, would turn in a fine game now and then, but they lacked consistency.

And don't forget this Warren club. On Tuesday night, behind Dick Palmer's shutout pitching, Warren defeated Alvarado, 8 to 0, scoring all of their runs in the top half of the 9th inning to win a regional berth. On Sunday, also in a playoff game, Palmer defeated Alvarado by a 1 to 0 score, so Tuesday night's performance marked the second time in three days that the strong-armed Palmer had shut out the Farmers.

Draft choices for Warren, and they prepare for their regional opener against Climax on Friday night, are Ken Thalge, pitcher, of Oslo, Orvis Bergman, pitcher, of Alvarado, and Larry Bogenstad, catcher.

G. L. Biddick Tells of Churchill, Man., Trip

By G. L. Biddick

We have just returned from a weeks trip to Churchill, Manitoba in northern Canada, which is a port on Hudson Bay. We left Winnipeg Canada on August 16th via Canadian National Railway. Our reservations had been made since May, but there were some of the passengers that had made their reservations as early as December, 1956.

There were 210 passengers, 36 were from Minnesota, 56 from Canada, and the rest came from California, Texas, Oklahoma, Wisconsin, and some of the eastern states. Our train had two diners, and two recreation cars, a baggage car besides the Pullmans. The engine was a steamer almost too small for the load it was pulling, but the right weight for the road bed which is muskeg for the most part. Starting and stopping was the major affair, always with a jerk. At night we were lulled to sleep with "rock and roll" and now that we are home it is missed. All train personnel were young men, some college students. Our car porter was from Trinidad, a University student in the school of engineering at Winnipeg.

When we boarded the train we found our names and addresses on large buttons pinned to the backs of our seats. These we wore all of the time and it admitted us free any place we wanted to go during stops enroute. There was also an envelope for each passenger containing a roster of passengers, a schedule of the stops, and quantities of reading matter about Manitoba. Our neighbors across the aisle were Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Brown of Princeton, Minnesota, former residents of Thief River Falls.

The first stop of any length was at Dauphin where we were greeted by city officials. The ladies served soft drinks and cakes and had a flower show in the depot. Buses and cars were provided and we were taken on a tour of the town, shown the new Indian school and taken to a State Park 20 miles away. When we got back a band concert was in progress in the depot park.

Our next stop was at Flin Flon, a mining city of some size built on solid rock. The water system is on the surface and runs all of the time to keep it from freezing solid in the winter. I have since wondered if the kitchen taps were left open too. Here we were taken to Beaver Lake, about 10 miles from town, shown a mink farm and a fish cleaning and packing plant. A picnic lunch was served by the waiters from the diner and we were guests at a dance in the Jubilee Hall.

Sunday we stopped at Cranberry Portage, a small place but a paradise for fishermen. There were 2 churches there for us to attend. The next stop was a short one at Kettle River Rapids for the scenery only, no village.

Our destination was reached Monday at 1:30 p.m. where we remained until Tuesday 6:30p.m. Cars and busses were at the depot to take us wherever we wanted to go. Our trip was to the Army-Navy base. Jerry Vatsaas, a young man from Thief River Falls, is stationed there. We visited with him, and also met a young man from Warren and one from Mayville, No. Dak. Jerry's duties are to see that the rockets are properly prepared for launching. We were fortunate enough to watch one go up 156 miles. These are radar controlled.

Returning to the depot, we walked to the pier, which had two ships docked. One was being loaded with wheat from the elevator, and the other waiting which we could board if we wished. The pilot and his wife were aboard. From there we went to the place where they processed white whales for mink and chicken feed. These mammals are beautiful, with skin as shimmering white and soft as satin but much tougher of course. Every part of the animal is used. The liver had its special use, as food for female mink. Here too, there was a dance in the evening to which our badges admitted us free.

In Churchill, there are no sidewalks; no traffic rules and no street lights. Also no highways leading in or out of the town. Raw furs were offered for sale along with beautiful English woolens. The ground thaws out only 20 inches deep so that the telephone poles have three legs instead of one as we are used to. The longest one at the top holds the cross arm. Grass grows and scrub spruce in spite of the permanently frozen ground. The trees have no branches on the north side. We did not find out why.

Leaving Churchill, our next stop was The Pas, (pronounced The Paw). We were again provided with cars. We stopped at a wonderful flower and vegetable show, then to the old Anglican church, a boat ride, and a trip around town. A saw mill belonging to the Winton Nichols Company was open to us also. Before we made these various stops, someone from the town would board the train and pass out printed matter giving us its history, industry and other pertinent facts.

Our fare was $141.00 complete with meals, berth, and side trips. These excursions are offered by the Canadian National Railway, two weeks in August only. The first excursion was August 9-15, and our excursion the 16-22.

The Navy has developed a versatile device called the UNIMIKE which cooks, mixes, refrigerates, and performs a variety of other food functions.

State Breweries Had Record Beer Output Last Year

Minnesota's 14 breweries used 215,387,989 pounds of agricultural products in rolling a record 3,838,159 barrels of beer and ale off their production lines last year, 84,445 barrels more than in 1955, the United States Brewers Foundation reported today in a special economic review.

With the state's breweries having increased their beer and ale production some 38 per cent over the last five years, Minnesota was the 10th ranking state in production in 1956, the economic review revealed.

Taxes on beer and ale produced by Minnesota breweries and that consumed in Minnesota showed similar increases over the same period to reach $35,477,000 last year.

As an important farm customer, the state's breweries purchased 159,497,840 pounds of barley, 52,068,784 pounds of corn, 788,000 pounds of rice, 4,228 pounds of soy beans, 1,801,127 pounds of sugar and syrups, and 1,248,010 pounds of hops and hop extracts.

"If I had my life to live over again, I would have made a rule to read some poetry and listen to some music at least once a week; for perhaps the parts of my brain now atrophied would thus have been kept active thru use. The loss of these tastes is a loss of happiness, and may possibly be injurious to the intellect, and more probably to the moral character, by enfeebling the emotional part of our nature.

Drive Carefully—Soberly

Dangers ahead. A double holiday always brings increased traffic on our highways and increased traffic means extra hazards. This is a good time to drive extra carefully.

There is another factor far more serious than increased traffic that enters into the higher death toll on these double holidays. Holidays are celebration days.

Last year drinking was a factor in 48 percent of the fatal highway crashes nationally over the Labor Day weekend, twice as many as normally attributed in whole or in part to this cause.

If you must drink, don't drive. If you must drive, don't drink.

Whose Error Please?

Governor Freeman says he has advanced the return to standard time because of his concern for the special problems of rural children, leaving for school in the darkness of the early morning hours. He thinks the legislature should have given more consideration to this situation before passing the law.

The fact however that he, as Governor has now changed the date that he, as Governor decreed, is fairly convincing evidence that the error was his and not the legislature's. The only error that could properly be charged against the legislature, besides that of passing the bill, was giving to the Governor authority to fix the dates.

It would have been gracious of the Governor if, in announcing the change, he had accepted the responsibility for making a mistake.

Learning How To Drive

We are glad to pass along the following comments clipped from the Staples World on the bicycle problem:

We have noticed, time and time again, children riding bicycles in the middle and on the left side of the street. This is taking place not only in the residential areas, but also in the business district.

Most car drivers will go out of their way, slow down and even stop in order to allow them safe passage.

But it is hazardous for children on bikes to meet a car on the same side of the street. At the very least it makes for confusion. A law is being broken, a law designated for their protection. When a motorist swings out of his lane in order to avoid the child on a bicycle, he is also risking a collision with traffic in the left lane.

Children, for their own protection, should not ride bikes on streets as though they were on a playground.

Maybe the proper time to start teaching our youngsters how to drive automobiles safely and considerately would be when they are riding bicycles. In our city, and our fair city probably is typical, the kid on a bicycle has the undisputed right-of-way not only on the streets, but also on the sidewalks. There apparently is neither law nor order in the regulation of this traffic. And it is not uncommon for pedestrains to be forced to walk around and about and in and out among the bicycles that are parked wherever they happen to be dropped on the sidewalks.

Political Pork Costly

Government reclamation projects, scheduled for fiscal year 1958, will bring more than 150,000 acres of new crop land into production, according to the Wall Street Journal, and production-hiking water will be made available to nearly another 100,000 acres.

"A six-year program ending in 1960 is scheduled to bring a total of one million acres of new land while furnishing supplementary water to another 1.5 million acres", the Journal reports. And the cost will run from $200 to $800 per acre and up.

While these projects are being developed by the Bureau of Reclamation, following the instructions of Congress, the Department of Agriculture will be spending billions of dollars taking land out of production, or to buy surplus crops grown on lands still in production, also following the instructions of Congress.

Pressure for the reclamation projects comes from 17 western states, strong in Congress because they support the program as a unit. If Minnesota's Senators were to question the need for any one of these projects then Minnesota's money wasting proposal, floating river barges up over St. Anthony Falls at the behest of a few selfish and short-sighted Minneapolis bosses, would be lost.

So goes the merry political battle. The chief concern of too many members of Congress is getting themselves reelected. The welfare of the country is a matter of secondary importance. As long as economy is popular we may expect a few melodramatic appropriation cuts but it is not likely that the taxpayer will receive congressional relief from the high cost of political pork.

Reckless Boating

(St. Paul Pioneer Press)

Rice county authorities have announced a crackdown on reckless boating in their area after conviction last week of a motorboat operator who injured three swimmers at Cannon Lake.

Commenting on the "shocking accident," the Faribault Daily News said editorally that the sheriff's office, with the manpower available, can't do the job alone. This is a problem that is facing the entire state. With so many boats on the state's thousands of lakes, it is becoming increasingly difficult for authorities to enforce water safety laws and regulations.

"The cooperation of resort owners, lake residents and others in promptly reporting any cases of excessive carelessness and recklessness in the operation of water craft is necessary," the editorial said. "With so many boats now on our lakes, swimming and fishing activities have become restricted. But there still is room for all types of water activities if those who use the lakes make up their minds they will be safety-minded and law abiding."

Just what is reckless use of a boat? State law defines it: "Reckless navigation of a motorboat shall include operating the same in a manner wherein it interferes with the free and proper use of navigable waters of a state, or unnecessarily endangers other boats therein or the life and limb of any person."

Thus, cutting close to a canoe or an anchored fishing boat is just as much a violation of state law as towing a water skier through a swimming area. It's a good thing for all boating enthusiasts to remember.

This is getting to be a complicated old world. Blue Earth county has engaged a county psychologist to serve the public and parochial schools of the county. Perhaps the services of a psychologist may be helpful in instilling into youthful minds such prosaic subjects as spelling, mathematics, science and history.

Sen. Humphrey's Newsletter

Higher Education

The President's Committee on Education Beyond the High School, a group of outstanding citizens from all over the nation including some of our top educationalists deserves high praise for it's excellent and useful report. As I warned the Senate last week, in ten years the educational problem will very nearly have gotten out of our control. A tidal wave of young people, searching for educational opportunities, is practically on us. Our industry, our defense forces, are crying for skilled manpower. Our educational system is being forced to spread itself so thin that it threatens to collapse all really effective education.

All Experts Agree

It is interesting to note that the findings and recommendations of the President's Committee are consistent with those made by every other objective study group on the nation's educational structure. When the White House Conference group reached similar conclusions a little more than a year ago regarding our educational needs, it was my earnest hope that the urgent nature of these needs would be met by appropriate Congressional action. It is most regrettable that such action has not been taken. As a matter of fact, the Congress has exhibited a massive indifference to these needs to date. It is most unfortunate that the present session will close with not even a feeble start toward solution.

Humphrey Youth Bills

At the start of this session I had personally introduced legislation aimed at this purpose, in the Youth Opportunity Act. My legislation supports the recommendations of study commissions in this field by providing a federal scholarship program, a long-term, low-interest program of insured loans for college education, an income tax-credit for college tuition and fees, and grants to institutions of higher learning to assist with expanded facilities. Congress will have to consider some such aid to higher education as priority legislation at the next half of the 85th Congress or we will have permitted the oncoming wave of students to overwhelm us before we find solutions. I have written Senator Lister Hill, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Labor and Public Welfare, urging hearings in preparation for action next year, and also appealed on the Senate Floor my colleagues regardless of party, to join in a concerted effort to face up to the hard realities of the educational problem and to enact intelligent, effective legislation in this field before the 85th Congress ends next year. We cannot, with good conscience, neglect this worsening situation. A good educational system is the basis of real democracy; it is essential to the health and vitality of our economic and social system.

Sharptailed Grouse Season Sept. 21-Oct. 13

In St. Paul today, Clarence Prout, acting conservation commissioner, announced the 1957 hunting seasons on grouse, squirrels, rabbits, hares and raccoons.

Sharp-tailed grouse may be taken from September 21 to October 13 inclusive, in an area of the state generally north and west of a line running from the extreme northwest corner south and east through Crookston, Bagley, Park Rapids, Wadena, Brainerd, Foley, Cambridge, and ending at Taylors Falls on the St. Croix River. They may be taken from sunrise to sunset with a bag and possession limit of three and six. In adopting the boundary of the area to be open for sharptail shooting, careful attention was given to the remaining prairie chicken habitat, which was excluded. A slight increase in the sharp-tail population was noted by department technicians who conducted hundreds of miles of census this summer. This fall's season remains substantially the same as last year.

Ruffed grouse, which are beginning to climb out of the trough of their population cycle, may be taken statewide from September 28 through November 3 inclusive, with a bag and possession limit of three and six. This year's season represents an extension of one week over the 1956 season, with an earlier fixed opening date. Spring drumming counts, which provide an index to grouse populations, showed slight increases in both the northern and southern areas of the state. However, reports indicated that some local populations remained about the same as last year.

Squirrels, both grey and fox, may be taken statewide from October 12 through December 31 inclusive, with a bag and possession limit of five combined and ten combined.

Rabbits, both cottontails and jacks, may be taken statewide from September 28 through Mar. 1 inclusive. A bag and possession limit of ten and twenty has been set for cottontails. No limit has been set for jacks.

Snowshoe hares can also be taken statewide from September 28 through March 1, with a bag and possession limit of ten and twenty.

Raccoon hunting will be allowed statewide, twenty-four hours a day, from September 28 thru December 31, with no limit on the number of animals that can be taken.

Meanwhile, Prout indicated that further announcements of seasons on other species will soon be forthcoming.

Retail Assn. Adds Furniture Men

Merger of the Minnesota Retail Furniture association into the Minnesota Retail Federation, Inc. was completed by filings with the secretary of state Monday, according to William P. Stiles, Wells, Minn., chairman of the federation.

Under the merger agreement, he says, the federation becomes the surviving corporation and a special division has been established for the state's hundreds of furniture dealers.

Thomas H. Hodgson, the Federation's executive vice president, says the merger will strengthen the voice of retailing in Minnesota.

Warning Signs on Rural Roads Asked

91 Deaths in 1956 at Rural Intersections

All county boards and county engineers were asked by Governor Orville L. Freeman to place proper warning and directional signs on all county and township roads as soon as possible.

Speaking at the award dinner of the Minnesota Safety council's annual summer meeting Friday in Duluth, the governor pointed out that counties will receive greatly increased sums through the operation of Amendment No. 2 passed last election.

"Now that more money is available to the counties," he said, "we should be able to place stop signs and curve and dead-end warnings everywhere they are needed immediately. There are many dangerous corners and intersections which are obscured by crops and where signs are needed now and can be provided without additional planning or drawing of specifications."

He pointed out that during last year in Minnesota 91 fatal accidents occurred at rural intersections; many of the drivers did not have advance warning of the dangerous condition because signs were missing or knocked down.

The governor also asked local and county safety councils to assist their highway engineers in determining where such signs would be needed in order that the program might be completed as soon as possible. The governor asked that county boards and safety councils report to him by November 1 on the results of their work.

Internal Revenue Ruling Is Issued on Loss of Trees

A. R. Knox, district director of internal revenue, today cautioned taxpayers that no deduction may be taken on federal income tax returns for the loss of ornamental trees on their property resulting from disease.

Mr. Knox explained that he was calling attention to this rule because of an article appearing recently in a national magazine which stated that a home owner had been allowed a $700 income tax deduction for a tree killed by "Dutch elm" disease.

Mr. Knox pointed out that the Internal Revenue Code allows a deduction for loss of personal property only in cases where the loss results from fire, storm, shipwreck, or other casualty, or from theft. The Internal Revenue Service holds that a deductible casualty loss is one the results from a sudden destructive force, such as fire, storm, flood, hurricane, or other similar event.

The death of trees on residential property, resulting from "Dutch elm" or other disease, does not qualify as a deductible casualty loss due to absence of the "sudden force" requirement. This same rule would also apply to trees destroyed by fungus spread by various beetles, insects, worms, etc.

Mr. Knox advised that taxpayers having questions on this or others Federal tax matters may obtain help by calling or visiting the local Internal Revenue office nearest their home.

$22,187,000 Death Benefits in State in Past 6 Months

Substantial Rise in Life Insurance Payments Compared to Last Year

Minnesota families received $22,187,000 in life insurance death benefits in the first half of 1957, compared with $17,894,000 in the corresponding period of last year, it is reported by the Institute of Life Insurance. This year's payments were 90 percent greater than those in the corresponding period ten years ago, when the six-month total was $11,155,000.

The number of policies paid off in this state because of death in the first six months of 1957 was 10,489 which compared with 9,025 in the first half of 1956 and 6,791 in the first half of 1947.

"The rise in death benefit payments in the past ten years reflects the greatly increased holdings of life insurance by American families and the widened scope of insurance in family financial protection," Holgar J. Johnson, president of the Institute, said in announcing the figures. "Death benefits paid in the first half of this year thruout the country were 96 percent greater than in the corresponding period of 1947, even though mortality among policyholders generally appears to be near the record low rate, materially below the 1947 rate. Aggregate ownership of life insurance in this country has risen almost 150 percent in the past ten years."

Of the aggregate death benefit payments in this state during the first half of this year, $15,204,000 was under 4,860 ordinary policies; $6,061,000 was under 2,456 group life insurance certificates; and $922,000 was under 2,083 industrial policies.

Although the exact process of the formation of a hurricane is not known, conditions generally favorable for the start of a storm are light variable winds, high hummidity, low atmospheric pressure, and strong solar heat, according to data compiled by the Navy's Hurricane Hunters.

Labor day recipe:
Light refreshment

MODERN people have little time for yesterday's heavy foods. They pack their picnic baskets with light, less-filling food and drink—and they look and feel better for it.

Pepsi-Cola, too, takes this modern point of view about sensible diet. Never heavy, never too sweet, today's Pepsi is reduced in calories. Pick up a few cartons of Pepsi, to enjoy at the beach, to refresh without filling whenever you week-end.

Duck Season in State Set October 5-Dec. 13

This fall's duck hunting regulations were released today at St. Paul by James W. Kimball, director of game and fish, and they call for a 70 day continuous season beginning October 5 through December 13 inclusive, with a bag and possession limit of four and eight. The bag and possession limit on geese has been set at five.

Shooting will commence at noon on the opening day and one half hour before sunrise on the following days.

The U. S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife in establishing the 1957 waterfowl regulations took note of the continued low population of wood ducks in the Mississippi Flyway. In order to afford further protection to this endangered species, the states were offered the option of one wood duck in the daily bag and closing one-half hour before sunset, or a closed season on wood ducks and shooting allowed until sunset. Minnesota will again protect the wood duck and allow hunters to shoot until sunset.

In its [illegible] report, the [illegible] wildlife [illegible] duck pop[illegible] to be sub[illegible] as last year in the [illegible] flyway.

Local duck production is down however, reports Forest B. Lee, state waterfowl biologist. He indicates the principle puddle duck species, teal and mallard are 30-35 percent below last year's level and six percent below the previous five year average.

Local diving ducks, on the other hand, have shown good production this year.

At the same time Kimball announced the season on snipe would coincide with waterfowl with a bag and possession limit of eight. Coot will have a bag and possession limit of ten. Only one hooded merganser will be allowed in the daily bag and in possession.

Future Farmers Set Open House at State Fair Friday

Open house will be held at the new Future Farmers of America chapter house at the Minnesota state fair grounds between 2:00 and 4:30 P. M., Friday, August 30. The chapter house is located next door to the popular Children's Barnyard on the fair grounds.

State FFA Officers will conduct the visitors on a guided tour of the new farm cottage and barnyard. The Children's Barnyard, displaying young farm animals, is one of the interesting attractions at this year's State Fair.

The one-story chapter house has been patterned after a typical Minnesota farm home. The 28 by 33 foot frame building was planned and financed by the members of the Minnesota Future Farmers Association of America.

Firearms Safety Conference Set for Minneapolis

President of National Safety Council to Speak at Meeting September 7

Ned Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, will be the featured noon luncheon speaker at the Governor's firearms safety conference, September 7, at the Leamington Hotel in Minneapolis. Dearborn, top national safety figure, will discuss the relationship of firearms safety to the over-all national safety program. Last year for the first time a presentation was made on firearms safety before the National Safety Congress by Lee Kuluver, who heads Minnesota's youth firearms safety program.

Also at the luncheon Fred Roff, vice president of Colt's Patent Firearms Manufacturing co., one of the nation's leading authorities on antique firearms, will give a brief history of the old west. He will show the actual guns used in by-gone days. These guns will be from the million dollar Colt museum.

Gun safety instructors and persons interested in gun safety will be attending the conference, the only one of its kind in the nation. The conference is taking on special interest as the state firearms safety act becomes effective September 1. Youths from 12-16 years are urged to complete [illegible] before the fall hunting starts. Minnesota currently leads the nation in youth training.

WILDLIFE in Minnesota
by JIM KIMBALL
DIRECTOR of GAME & FISH

"Why should a state game and fish director write a newspaper column?" It can't be just to get his name in the paper. That happens too often anyway, and he shudders slightly everytime his wife, browsing through the newspaper, says, "You've been quoted again." It can't be [illegible] public servants don't get paid for this sort of thing. And believe me, it isn't because he finds his job so easy that time hangs heavy on his hands. The reason then? The reason is a wonderful thing called democracy.

In a democracy the people not only keep track of what their public servants are doing, but want to know, and have a right to know, why they are doing it. In the little more than two years which I have served you in this position, the newspapers of the state have done an excellent job of giving you the game and fish news.

This column will not replace nor alter that news corage. We may have some news now and then, but we will put more effort into giving you background information, telling you "why" certain things are done, and discuss with you other things being considered.

We will discuss your ideas as well as our own; practical ideas and wild ones, and some which may prove both wild and practical. Nor should we always confine ourselves to game and fish either. All wildlife is interesting and important, and many phases of conservation need to be understood and supported.

Did you know that we have over 700 sportsmen's clubs in Minnesota? That sounds like a heap of organized sportsmen. It is, but actually only about 10% of Minnesotans who hunt and fish belong to one of these clubs, and probably less than 5% are active. The organized groups are powerful and have done a lot of good, but some conservation matters require the support of all who are interested in the welfare of our soil, water, and all of God's creatures. So the hope is that this column will inform, possibly entertain and, most of all, create a greater active interest in conservation of our natural resources.

A short time ago, we held our annual meeting to discuss this fall's hunting and trapping seasons. This is a full day's discussion which culminates months of work in the field. In attendance are the ten warden supervisors who have each held previous meetings with the wardens in their areas.

The four regional game managers present their points of view and know the thinking of the area managers, the assistant area managers, and the refuge personnel. Of course, biologists from the Bureau of research and planning present the latest available data on the distribution and abundance of each species. Any additional space in the room is filled by the bureau chiefs, other staff members, yours truly, and the Commissioner and his deputy.

In addition to all the information these men have, two large state maps have been prepared for each game species. One shows the game abundance observations

This is not an easy way to set hunting and trapping seasons; but when the day grinds to an end, though you know mistakes may have been made, there is a sense of having put to use the best thinking of a lot of capable and well informed people.

Is it worth it? If you understand the principle of "harvested surplus" you know it is. To take more than the harvestable surplus means a reduction in breeding stock; to take less means that you have left more game than the range can support. It must die of other causes and be wasted in the woods and field. To err in either direction is not conservation.

Patrol Aspirants' School under Way

60 Men Are Receiving Training at Camp Ripley

The second 1957 candidate school for the Minnesota highway patrol opens Monday, August 26, at Camp Ripley, near Little Falls, with 60 men in the class, according to Paul R. Martz, patrol plans and training officer. the candidates will be put thru a rigorous 10-weeks course which includes 426 hours of training in 42 different subjects ranging from traffic control to first aid and Minnesota geography.

The school is being held to train men to fill 37 of the additional positions authorized by the 1957 legislature to bring the total strength of the Minnesota highway patrol to 330 officers and supervisors. Of the original increase of 75 officers, 38 weer appointed last May. In addition, 10 vacancies exist in the patrol resulting from promotions and retirements.

Faculty for the school will include veteran highway patrol sergeants, representatives of other state agencies and guest lecturers from federal enforcement agencies.

The 60 candidates were chosen from more than 900 applicants after thorough physical, mental and character and background examinations conducted by the state Civil Service department.

DON'T OVERDRIVE YOUR HEADLIGHTS, IS WARNING

If you drive 60 miles an hour at night, chances are you're overdriving your headlights!

That's the advice of Edward L. Smith, secretary of the National Safety Council's Committee on Speed.

Smith, a traffic engineer, pointed out that the Uniform Vehicle Code recommends that an auto's bright lights be capable of illuminating an object 350 feet away.

But at 60 miles an hour, a passenger car's stopping distance is 366 feet.

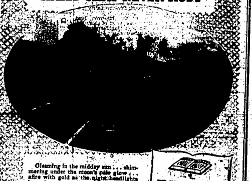
RAILS THAT NEVER RUST



Gleaming in the midday sun . . . shimmering under the moon's pale glow . . . afire with gold as the night headlights bear down . . . rails that never rust.

Rolling wheels won't let them!

Some folks wonder whether it's important to go to Church every Sunday. Why not twice a month—or now and then—or at certain special seasons?

When the wheels stop rolling: RUST! When we relax in our quest of God or interrupt our pursuit of faith, then all the destructive influences in life begin to attack the soul.

The Church helps us keep open our spiritual right of way. And not only church-worship, but personal prayer, Bible reading and family worship rightfully deserve a place on our timetable.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

RAILS THAT NEVER RUST

Gleaming in the midday sun . . . shimmering under the moon's pale glow . . . afire with gold as the night headlights bear down . . . rails that never rust.

Rolling wheels won't let them!

Some folks wonder whether it's important to go to Church every Sunday. Why not twice a month—or now and then—or at certain special seasons?

When the wheels stop rolling: RUST! When we relax in our quest of God or interrupt our pursuit of faith, then all the destructive influences in life begin to attack the soul.

The Church helps us keep open our spiritual right of way. And not only church-worship, but personal prayer, Bible reading and family worship rightfully deserve a place on our timetable.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

CALL FOR THE DOCTOR

By Kathryn Drummond

"DR. ALLISON IS WANTED IN THE LOBBY!"

The lop-sided message suddenly flashed on the screen of the little theatre was so unexpected that, for one second, young Doctor John did not recognize his own name.

Then he arose quickly, glad of the darkness which concealed his flurry.

A girl was waiting for him in the lobby. She had a mane of fluffy chestnut curls and big brown eyes which looked frightened. "Doctor Allison?" she asked anxiously.

"Yes. What is it?"

"Oh doctor, can you come out to the farm right away? It's a shame to ask you on Sunday afternoon but—"

"Of course I'll come."

"Then follow me. My car's out front and I'll lead the way."

Watching him in her mirror, she waved her arm, then pointed it to a huge grove of elms and evergreens towering off to the left. It was the old Page farm and the girl, then, was Joan Page.

Clara Andrews had pointed the place out to him when he had taken her for a ride, as he usually did every Sunday evening after their dinner at Judge Andrews' big house. The judge was Clara's uncle and, without saying so, he had conveyed the fact to John that his niece would make an ideal doctor's wife.

She would too, John thought. Clara was lovely, with a calm dignity and poise that made one proud to be seen with her. It was impossible to picture her perturbed, just as it was impossible to picture her nicely waved black hair awry or her daintily polished fingernails unkempt.

But somehow John had found things moving too swiftly and too inexorably. The Andrews seemed to impinge upon them. They invited him there too often. And today he had refused an invitation to lunch on the grounds of a previous engagement.

But now they had reached the Page farm, a pleasant dooryard with an old long-raftered shingled house riotously embraced with flowers. The girl had dismounted and was waiting tensely; then she led the doctor through a little red and white kitchen to a large living room beyond.

"Now then, where's the patient?" Doctor Allison asked briskly.

"The patient?" Her face was very grave. "You'd better sit down," she said solicitously, "because—" she suddenly giggled "there isn't any patient."

The doctor sat down in an arm chair with a violence that must have damaged the springs, aware that surprise and consternation were making him look naive as the greenest intern. "Just what is this?" he managed to utter.

Her giggle changed to open laughter. "Not [illegible], really. I just did it on the spur of the moment. Honest! And I did it to help you too."

"This is good! What in the world do you mean?"

"Well, I was home all alone today and I happened to drive past the State. First I noticed there was a full house; then I saw your car out in front. The idea came into my head that you'd appreciate a little free advertising, being so new here, and so I popped up to the ticket office and had you paged."

He laughed too. "Why—you—you little snide you!"

"I must go back to town," he said reluctantly.

"You'll come again, won't you?"

"Yes, I'll come again."

In his car, speeding toward the village, he thought suddenly of Clara. Yes, she'd make an ideal wife for some old doctor—a widower maybe. Then he thought of Joan and his pulse quickened.

"This call may have saved a life," he said to himself. "Mine!"

Final Tests Being Made This Week, Says Al Bacon, Manager

Dial telephone service for Thief River Falls starts Sunday, representing completion of an $900,000 project by the N. W. Bell Telephone Co.

In the new telephone central office, final tests are being made of the new dial switching equipment, and A. E. Bacon, Northwestern Bell Telephone Company local manager, reports that all is ready.

The change to dial will be made very early Sunday morning, September 1, when the volume of calling is low. Telephone crews, working in two teams, will snip the cable to the old switchboard and simultaneously connect the new equipment for [illegible] process taking [illegible] after many months of preparation.

[illegible] will know the [illegible] has been made when [illegible] a steady humming [illegible] in their telephone receivers. This is the dial tone, which is the equipment's way of saying it is ready for a call.

Another important change coinciding with the start of dial operation will be the adoption of new two-letter, five-figure telephone numbers. For this reason, Bacon emphasized that it will be very important for Thief River Falls patrons to remember to check the new telephone directory before dialing on and after Sunday. The Thief River Falls central office will be given the name of [illegible] 1 and the new numbers will consist of [illegible] 1 plus four other numbers.

A new telephone directory listing all the numbers will be delivered to customers this week [illegible] the start of dial service. The telephone company asks that the old directory be destroyed next Sunday. Customers also will receive a letter [illegible] Bacon [illegible] customers to read the booklet since it tells not only how to dial but also how to call [illegible] on a customer's own party line. The booklet also gives other handy information.

Coinciding with the dial changeover, a new long distance switchboard making possible faster long distance service for Thief River Falls will be placed in operation. The new switchboard has special apparatus which will enable long distance operators here to dial numbers in hundreds of other cities and towns directly without going through their operators—a faster method of handling calls.

Farm Home in Red Lake Co. Destroyed

Henry Moen Family Lose Most of Possessions

The Henry Moen farm home in Equality township, Red Lake county, was burned to the ground in a fire at about 5:30 p.m. last Monday, the Oklee Herald reports.

Although the Oklee fire department's rural truck rushed to the scene, the blaze was already beyond control. Virtually the entire contents of the home were also destroyed.

The fire started when a glass kerosene container was accidentally broken while Mrs. Moen was lighting a kitchen stove. The blaze caught in the spilled kerosene and spread rapidly.

Because the family was unable to save any of their household belongings, friends and neighbors began a collection of articles to help them through their emergency.

Being collected are articles of food, clothing (there are twin boys age 14 and twin boy and girl age 17), furniture, cooking utensils, bedding, etc., anything of value around a home.

Articles may be left either at Zion Lutheran Church in Oklee or the Salol Lutheran Church in Garnes township.

Mrs. O. F. Mellby returned Tuesday after spending several days visiting at the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Anderson of Clearbrook.

150-lb. Bear Is Killed in Rustad's Addition

There was excitement a-plenty in the Rustad's Addition area Friday night when a wandering black bear was spotted by Mrs. A. S. Stenberg as it roamed the neighborhood. Both she and Mrs. Sdy Holm, another resident of the area, reported the bear to local authorities.

A bear "hunt" was quickly organized with Game Warden Carl Sundstrom, Police Captain Larry Runger and Officer Benny Maramonties as the hunters.

Sundstrom said a preliminary search along the river failed to reveal bruin's whereabouts but a dog's barking led them to the M. W. Battleson residence.

There, Sundstrom said, he rounded the corner of the house and practically met the bear face to face. The Battleson dog, a spaniel, was still barking valiantly but confining its actions to exactly that, and was probably very relieved when the bear climbed a tree after a spotlight was thrown on it.

Sundstrom said Mrs. Battleson refused to believe there was a bear in their yard until the officers showed it to her.

The officers borrowed a rifle

Local Police, AAA to Stage 'School's Open' Safety Drive

Signs Urging Motorists to Use Extra Caution Are Posted around City

"Children will be crossing busy streets Tuesday — watch out," Chief of Police Elton Cummings warned motorists as he prepared to launch a safety campaign on the opening day of school.

Signs declaring, "School's Open, Drive Carefully," have been posted throughout Thief River Falls this week. The local police department is cooperating with the Minnesota State Automobile association (AAA) in the campaign.

Chief Cummings said, "School safety patrols and policemen can't be at every corner. So it is the driver's responsibility to do everything possible to protect children from traffic hazards.

"Many of the children going to and from school," he warned, "will be in traffic for the first time. Excitement of 'going to school' often causes them to forget mothers' warnings about crossing streets."

Glen L. Krenz, AAA representative for this area, urged parents to help their children find the safest route to school.

"Go with your child the first time," Krenz suggested, "and decide on a route which has the most traffic control devices, such as signals, stop signs and corners watched over by safety patrol members and police.

"Motorists should consider every child as a danger signal," he said, "and always drive at a speed which permits sudden stops to avoid children who may, without thinking, dart out into the street to play. It's up to the motorists to think for these children, too."

Marshall Co. Red Cross Revising Rural Districts

The Marshall county American Red Cross Chapter held a special executive board meeting Thursday evening at Warren to discuss the budget for the 1958 fund drive and to set up a plan for the reorganization of the rural districts.

Mr. Bills, the Red Cross field representative from Moorhead, was the main speaker.

The board will meet again on Sept. 17th to appoint sub-district chairmen for the 1958 fund drive.

Hamerski, superintendent, stated today, adding that Thursday, for example, 353 empty cars were on hand while orders were received for only 150. Hamerski said that threshing returns are spotted in Soo Line territory in North Dakota, but indications are that the total crop yield will be about the same as in 1956.

Brainerd Youths Who Killed Father Assigned to YCC

Youth Conservation Commission Gets Custody of Boys as Delinquents

The three Aamodt boys of rural Brainerd who signed a statement admitting a pact to slay their father were ordered Thursday to be committed to the Minnesota Youth Conservation Commission as "delinquents."

Richard Aamodt, 15, and his brothers, Billy, 13, and Ira, 10, were taken to the YCC reception center in Red Wing Friday morning. It is up to the YCC to determine how long the boys must remain YCC charges.

The boys were the sons of farmer Ole Aamodt, 55, who was found dead in woods near his home, July 27, the day after he was felled by a rifle bullet. The brothers, in their statement, said they had agreed to shoot their father because he had kicked and beaten them. Ira said he fired the fatal shot, from about 10 feet behind his father.

Judge Henry W. Longfellow of Brainerd adjudged the boys delinquent and ordered that Sheriff Roy Wicklund take them to the YCC center.

Mrs. Emma Aamodt, mother of the boys, is free on $5,000 bond until a grand jury meets to consider whether she shall be prosecuted. She was charged by County Atty. Carl Erickson on Aug. 8 of "aiding, abetting and encouraging" the boys in the shooting.

Donald Green returned to Moorhead where he will resume his studies at Concordia college.

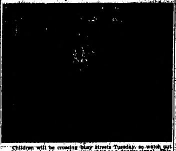
Even The School Cat Dropped In To Get Acquainted

Last Thursday while M. C. Don Olson was presenting and introducing the new teachers at the "get acquainted" reception held in the auditorium at Northrop elementary school, an unexpected feline visitor walked onto the floor. The result: a good laugh was had by all. The question is: who was more surprised, the cat or the people in the audience. After looking at the above picture, chances are you will agree it was the cat. Some of the new teachers are standing in the background looking on.

School's Open, Drive Carefully



Children will be crossing busy streets Tuesday, so watch out . . . Motorists should consider every child as a danger signal. This was the advice given by police Chief Cummings and Supt. Irwin T. Mickelson as they launched a safety campaign for the opening day of school Tuesday.

Motorists are asked to remember that many of the children going to and from school will be in traffic for the first time. Parents, too, are advised to go with their children on the first day.

Record Enrollment Is Anticipated in Thief River Falls

All members of the public faculty, numbering approximately 120, reported last Wednesday at Lincoln high school for the annual teachers' workshop, and they will be at their various posts when the fall term opens Tuesday morning, September 3. A record enrollment is anticipated.

School sessions the opening day will open at 9 a.m. and will continue into the afternoon. High school students will meet in the Lincoln auditorium for instructions, with [illegible] following. [illegible] students [illegible] 52 activities [illegible] covering [illegible] and admission [illegible].

It was announced that school bus schedules are being revamped, and rural students are requested to be ready to be picked up plenty early the first day.

Stanley Nelson, director of the area vocational school, stated that post-high school students should register Tuesday morning between the hours of 8 and 9 a. m. in the ground floor meeting room in the court house. Practical nursing students, however, will report at Northwestern Hospital during the same hours.

Most rural pupils in the elementary grades will attend the newly completed Washington school this fall, Supt. Irwin Mickelson stated. Rural kindergarten pupils will attend afternoon sessions and will be picked up by bus [illegible] the regular [illegible].

As a result of the completion of the new Washington grade school, the old Washington structure this year will house the junior high school classes, making more room in the Lincoln building available for senior high school students.

Also opening their fall terms Tuesday morning are the Goodridge high school, St. Hilaire elementary school, St. Bernard's parochial school and the few remaining Pennington county grade schools.

Reception Climaxes Business-Education Day Here Thursday

The second annual Business and Education Day, part two of a three day faculty workshop, came to a successful close last Thursday afternoon when businessmen, teachers and representatives of civic, religious and social groups gathered at Northrop elementary school for a teacher reception, coffee hour and a little good natured fun.

The coffee came after the introduction of teachers new to the system by Don L. Olson, president of the Chamber of Commerce; the reception and social hour came after the coffee, as for the fun, it was in the form of a variety of party hats and came in all colors and shapes. The hats were passed out to the new teachers so they could be identified.

Irwin Mickelson, superintendent of schools, was presented with a head piece worthy of his position: king size, cone-shaped sombrero.

Earlier in the day the 114 teachers participated in the B-E Day activities, a program sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce as an effort to help teachers and businessmen understand each other's contribution to the community.

Twenty-three representatives from business places in the city picked up the teachers Thursday morning and escorted them to their place of business where they spend the day discussing the many aspects of their day-by-day operations.

The primary purpose of the program was to equip teachers to give students counsel and guidance based on actual needs and opportunities in their community.

Wednesday, the first day of the faculty workshop, the teachers and administrators gathered at Lincoln high school for general sessions and smaller group and panel discussions.

In the morning session elementary, high school and area vocational teachers new to the system gathered with their respective department heads for a brief orientation. Presiding at these sessions were Kermit Eastman, elementary director; F. Miles Nelson, senior high school principal; Arnold Larson, junior high principal; and Stan Nelson, director of the area vocational school.

The [illegible] will remain on duty until Tuesday, Sept. 3.

Effectiveness of the highway patrol is greatly increased by having "two-man" cars on duty over the holiday period, Sieben declared. "Our cars will have wider range, covering more trunk highways, as well as having extra, experienced men to assist in emergencies."

Guardsmen were on duty over Memorial day and the Fourth of July when Minnesota's traffic accidents were much below anticipated totals. They assisted officers in the control of traffic, in first aid, in traffic direction at intersections and accidents.

$900,000 Dial Phone System in Use Sept. 1

Final Tests Being Made This Week, Says Al Bacon, Manager

Dial telephone service for Thief River Falls starts Sunday, representing completion of an $900,000 project by the N. W. Bell Telephone Co.

In the new telephone central office, final tests are being made of the new dial switching equipment, and A. K. Bacon, Northwestern Bell Telephone Company local manager, reports that all is ready.

The change to dial will be made very early Sunday morning, September 1, when the volume of calling is low. Telephone crews, working in two teams, will snip the cable to the old switchboard and simultaneously release the new equipment for dial operation—a process taking only a few seconds after many months of preparation.

Telephone users will know the changeover has been made when they hear a steady humming sound in their telephone receivers. This is the dial tone, which is the equipment's way of saying it is ready for a call.

Another important change coinciding with the start of dial operation will be the adoption of new two-letter, five-figure telephone numbers. For this reason, Bacon emphasized that it will be very important for Thief River Falls patrons to remember to check the new telephone directory before dialing on and after Sunday. The Thief River Falls central office will be given the name of Mutual 1 and the new numbers will consist of MU 1 plus four other numbers.

A new telephone directory listing all the numbers, will be delivered to customers this week to coincide with the start of dial service. The telephone company asks that the old directory be destroyed next Sunday. Customers also will receive a letter [illegible] telephone [illegible] on how to [illegible]. Bacon urged customers to read the [illegible] not only how to dial but also how to call [illegible] on a customer's own party line. The booklet also gives other handy information.

Coinciding with the dial changeover, a new long distance switchboard making possible faster long distance service for Thief River Falls will be placed in operation. The new switchboard has special apparatus which will enable long distance operators here to dial numbers in hundreds of other cities and towns directly without going through their operators—a faster method of handling calls.

Supply of Grain Cars on Winnipeg Division Is Ample

The Winnipeg division of the Soo Line has an ample supply of freight cars available to move the 1957 grain crop, E. A. Hamerski, superintendent, stated today, adding that Thursday, for example, 352 empty cars were on hand while orders were received for only 150. Hamerski said that threshing returns are spotted in Soo Line territory in North Dakota, but indications are that the total crop yield will be about the same as in 1956.

Brainerd Youths Who Killed Father Assigned to YCC

Youth Conservation Commission Gets Custody of Boys as Delinquents

The three Aamodt boys of rural Brainerd who signed a statement admitting a pact to slay their father were ordered Thursday to be committed to the Minnesota Youth Conservation Commission as "delinquents."

Richard Aamodt, 15, and his brothers, Billy, 13, and Ira, 10, were taken to the YCC reception center in Red Wing Friday morning. It is up to the YCC to determine how long the boys must remain YCC charges.

The boys were the sons of farmer Ole Aamodt, 55, who was found dead in woods near his home, July 27, the day after he was felled by a rifle bullet. The brothers, in their statement, said they had agreed to shoot their father because he had kicked and beaten them. Ira said he fired the fatal shot, from about 10 feet behind his father.

Judge Henry W. Longfellow of Brainerd adjudged the boys delinquent and ordered that Sheriff Roy Wicklund take them to the YCC center.

Mrs. Emma Aamodt, mother of the boys, is free on $5,000 bond until a grand jury meets to consider whether she shall be prosecuted. She was charged by County Atty. Carl Erickson on Aug. 8 of "aiding, abetting and encouraging" the boys in the shooting.

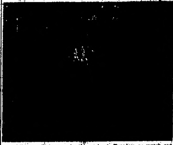
Schools to Open Tuesday, Sept. 3

School's Open, Drive Carefully



Children will be crossing busy streets Tuesday, so watch out . . . Motorists should consider every child as a danger signal. This was the advice given by police Chief Cummings and Supt. Irwin T. Mickelson as they launched a safety campaign for the opening day of school Tuesday.

Motorists are asked to remember that many of the children going to and from school will be in traffic for the first time. Parents, too, are advised to go with their children on the first day.

Record Enrollment Is Anticipated in Thief River Falls

All members of the public faculty, numbering approximately 100, reported last Wednesday at Lincoln high school for the annual teachers' workshop, and they will be at their various posts when the fall term opens Tuesday morning, September 3. A record enrollment is anticipated.

School [illegible] the opening day will open at [illegible] and will [illegible] high school students will [illegible] to the Lincoln auditorium for instructions [illegible] following [illegible] school [illegible] activities [illegible] and admission to school events.

It was announced that school bus schedules are being revamped, and rural students are requested to be ready to be picked up plenty early the first day.

Stanley Nelson, director of the area vocational school, stated that post-high school students should register Tuesday morning between the hours of 8 and 9 a. m. in the ground floor meeting room in the court house. Practical nursing students, however, will report at Northwestern Hospital during the same hours.

Most rural pupils in the elementary grades will attend the newly completed Washington school this fall, Supt. Irwin Mickelson stated. Rural kindergarten pupils will attend afternoon sessions and will be picked up by bus [illegible] home on the [illegible].

As a result of the completion of the new Washington grade school, the old Washington structure this year will house the junior high school classes, making more room in the Lincoln building available for senior high school students.

150-lb. Bear Is Killed in Rustad's Addition

There was excitement a-plenty in the Rustad's Addition area Friday night when a wandering black bear was spotted by Mrs. A. S. Stenberg as it roamed the neighborhood. Both she and Mrs. Ray Holm, another resident of the area, reported the bear to local authorities.

A "bear hunt" was quickly organized with Game Warden Carl Sundstrom, Police Captain Larry Runger and Officer Benny Mifamorijah as the hunters.

Sundstrom said a preliminary search along the river failed to reveal bruin's whereabouts but a dog's barking led them to the M. W. Battleson residence.

There, Sundstrom said, he rounded the corner of the house and practically met the bear face to face. The Battleson dog, a spaniel, was still barking valiantly but confining its actions to exactly that, and was probably very relieved when the bear climbed a tree after a spotlight was thrown on it.

Sundstrom said Mrs. Battleson refused to believe there was a bear in their yard until the officers showed it to her. The officers borrowed a rifle

Local Police, AAA to Stage 'School's Open' Safety Drive

Signs Urging Motorists to Use Extra Caution Are Posted around City

"Children will be crossing busy streets Tuesday — watch out," Chief of Police Elton Cummings warned motorists as he prepared to launch a safety campaign on the opening day of school.

Signs declaring, "School's Open, Drive Carefully," have ben posted throughout Thief River Falls this week. The local police department is cooperating with the Minnesota State Automobile association (AAA) in the campaign.

Chief Cummings said, "School safety patrols and policemen can't be at every corner. So it is the driver's responsibility to do everything possible to protect children from traffic hazards.

"Many of the children going to and from school," he warned, "will be in traffic for the first time. Excitement of 'going to school' often causes them to forget mothers' warnings about crossing streets."

Glen L. Krenz, AAA representative for this area, urged parents to help their children find the safest route to school.

"Go with your child the first time," Krenz suggested, "and decide on a route which has the most traffic control devices, such as signals, stop signs and corners watched over by safety patrol members and police.

"Motorists should consider every child as a danger signal," he said, "and always drive at a speed which permits sudden stops to avoid children who may, without thinking, dart out into the street to play. It's up to the motorists to think for these children, too."

Farm Home in Red Lake Co. Destroyed

Henry Moen Family Lose Most of Possessions

The Henry Moen farm home in Equality township, Red Lake county, was burned to the ground in a fire at about 5:30 a.m. last Monday, the Oklee Herald reports.

Although the Oklee fire department's rural truck rushed to the scene, the blaze was already beyond control. Virtually the entire contents of the home were also destroyed.

The fire started when a glass kerosene container was accidentally broken while Mrs. Moen was lighting a kitchen stove. The blaze caught in the spilled kerosene and spread rapidly.

Because the family was unable to save any of their household belongings, friends and neighbors began a collection of articles to help them through their emergency.

Being collected are articles of food, clothing (there are twin boys age 14 and twin boy and girl age 17), furniture, cooking utensils, bedding, etc., anything of value around a home.

Articles may be left either at Zion Lutheran Church in Oklee or the Salem Lutheran Church in Garnes township.

Mrs. C. F. Mellby returned Tuesday after spending several days visiting at the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Anderson of Clearbrook.

Marshall Co. Red Cross Revising Rural Districts

The Marshall county American Red Cross Chapter held a special executive board meeting Thursday evening at Warren to discuss the budget for the 1958 fund drive and to set up a plan for the reorganization of the rural districts.

Mr. Bills, the Red Cross field representative from Moorhead, was the main speaker.

The board will meet again on Sept. 17th to appoint sub-district chairmen for the 1958 fund drive.

Even The School Cat Dropped In To Get Acquainted

Last Thursday while M. C. Don Olson was presenting and introducing the new teachers at the "get acquainted" reception held in the auditorium at Northrop elementary school, an unexpected feline visitor walked onto the floor. The result: a good laugh was had by all. The question is: who was more surprised, the cat or the people in the audience. After looking at the above picture, chances are you will agree it was the cat. Some of the new teachers are standing in the background looking on.

Reception Climaxes Business-Education Day Here Thursday

The second annual Business and Education Day, part two of a three day faculty workshop came to a successful close last Thursday afternoon when businessmen, teachers and representatives of civic, religious and social groups gathered at Northrop elementary school for a teacher reception, coffee hour and a little good natured fun.

The coffee came after the introduction of teachers new to the system by Don L. Olson, president of the Chamber of Commerce; the reception and social hour came after the coffee, as for the fun, it was in the form of a variety of party hats and came in all colors and shapes. The hats were passed out to the new teachers so they could be identified.

Irwin Mickelson, superintendent of schools, was presented with a head piece worthy of his position: a king size, cone-shaped sombrero.

Earlier in the day the 114 teachers participated in the B-E Day activities, a program sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce as an effort to help teachers and businessmen understand each other's contribution to the community.

Twenty-three representatives from business places in the city picked up the teachers Thursday morning and escorted them to their place of business where they spend the day discussing the many aspects of their day-by-day operations.

The primary purpose of the program was to equip teachers to give students counsel and guidance based on actual needs and opportunities in their community.

Wednesday, the first day of the faculty workshop, the teachers and administrators gathered at Lincoln high school for general sessions and smaller group and panel discussions.

In the morning session elementary, high school and area vocational teachers new to the system gathered with their respective department heads for a brief orientation. Presiding at these sessions were Kermit Eastman, elementary director; F. Miles Nelson, senior high school principal; Arnold Larson, junior high principal; and Stan Nelson, director of the area vocational school.

Supt. Irwin T. Mickelson, welcomed the teachers—old and new—to the morning session.

RLF Farm Boy Wins National Award

Vernon Askegard Wins Flight Scholarship

A 1957 Northwest School of Agriculture graduate, Vernon Askegard of Red Lake Falls, was awarded the Al Ward Flying Scholarship at the National Flying Farmer's Conference just held in Chicago. The award was made at their banquet held in the Conrad Hilton Hotel on August, 24.

Vernon won the award in competition with about 2,800 contestants from all over the United States. The award is made annually to the high school age farm boy who writes the best 500-word essay on a topic selected by Mr. Al Ward, a flying farmer from Colorado, who is the donor of the flying scholarship.

Vernon became interested in this in the topic of flying through his studies in aeronautics under Gene Miller at the Northwest School of Agriculture. The topic of the essay this year was, "The History of Aviation between 1900 and 1910."

The award was made personally by Mr. Al Ward before a banquet audience of 2,200 people in the ballroom of the Conrad Hilton Hotel. Vernon received two nicely engraved plaques. In addition, he will receive 20 hours of dual flying instruction time paid for from the scholarship fund. This will be enough instructional time for Vernon to get his pilot's license as a young flying farmer.

Social Security Man Here Sept. 10

Earnings Ceilings Are Explained by Kistler

A representative of the Grand Forks District Office of the Social Security Administration will be in Thief River Falls, at the city auditorium, on Tuesday, September 10th, at 10:00 a.m. Individuals may contact him for information, or to file claims.

Walter D. Kistler, district manager of the Grand Forks social security office, today reminded social security beneficiaries, that they may earn as much as $1,200 a year and not give up any of their monthly benefit checks for the year.

This is the earnings test which is used to determine whether or not a beneficiary who is working, can get benefit payments. The $1,200 limitation, is a combination of all earnings during the year. "It includes earnings from both covered and non covered employment and self-employemnt," he said.

"For those earning over $1,200 but less than $2,080.01, we are concerned with the amount of wages earned or the amount of business management conducted in a month," he added. "Where the total does not exceed $1,200 for the year, neither of these events will cause the loss of any monthly checks. Most beneficiaries understand the retirement test," Mr. Kistler continued, "because we try to have at least on personal contact with each individual when he makes application for benefits."

The Grand Forks District Office has available Pamphlet No. OASI 1954-3 entitled "Facts About Earnings While Receiving Payments," as a guide for beneficiaries.

Relatives, Neighbors Tend to Farm Duties of Ill Fred Bruggeman

Yes sir! It just goes to prove that the future can be made to look a little brighter . . . when you have good neighbors, that is. Remember when the St. Hilaire, Dan Johnson, returned from the hospital a while back and found his neighbors busy harvesting his hay crop. (article in the Times, July 11th. "These People Took The Time To Be Neighborly.") Well, last week another group of neighbors went out into the fields to practice the "good neighbor policy."

The good deed took place on a section of the Fred Bruggeman farm, five miles east of the city on highway 59.

Bruggeman, who is a farmer and auctioneer, and is better known in the city as Colonel Fred Bruggeman, was hospitalized five weeks ago with heart trouble. For the very active, 56 year-old Bruggeman, it is bad enough just being in the hospital, and when it's the busy season of the year, with harvest and all, things can look a little dismal. But once again, a group of neighbors took the time to be neighborly. His friends, family and relatives all pitched in to harvest his crops and look after his farm and family.

Now that the harvest is finished they have gotten together again, this time to do a little plowing—100 acres to be exact. Last Wednesday they were on the job at 8 o'clock in the morning—six tractors and six people—side-by-side, turning 23 feet of soil at a time; 46 feet on every round.

According to his son, David Bruggeman, his father doesn't know about the plowing yet. But chances are that when Bruggeman senior, finds out about the "good turn," he will express himself in the same manner that farmer, Dan Johnson did: "It's certainly nice to have good neighbors."

Of course, Fred, will probably add: ". . . good neighbors, sons, and relatives." Four of the six tractors were operated by members of his relationship. But like his nephew, Don Bruggeman said, relation or not, we're still neighbors.

They All Pitched In To Help A Neighbor

When Fred Bruggeman was hospitalized five weeks ago, his relatives and friends pitched in to take care of his farm and family. Now that most of the harvest has been taken care of, they got together to do a little plowing. Last Wednesday they were all working as a team turning over 46 feet to a round. At work on the 100 acre field were, left to right: Neighbors, Dan Dowatchter and Leslie Gundhaus, and relatives David Bruggeman, son; Don Bruggeman, nephew, daughter Marie Bruggeman, and nephew Roger Bruggeman.

The animal weighed about 150 lbs. and was very thin, Syndstrom said. He reported there is very little food for the bear population in the woods this year, which could be the reason bruin came to town. As a result, the Battleson mink are going to be eating "high on the bear" the next few days.

4-H NEWS

— FROM YOUR —

4-H ASSISTANT

Marilyn Balstad

With Food Preservation at its peak I would like to share a few tips and new ideas for serving and preserving your fruits and vegetables to maintain that freshly picked flavor.

* * *

Fresh Vegetables

Spare no time when you cook green vegetables. And once cooked, serve the vegetables promptly.

Fresh green vegetables need not take on a washed-out look if they are cooked properly, says 4-H Assistant Marilyn Balstad. Cooked until just tender but still slightly crisp, and cooked under cover, they will look and taste good enough to bring calls for second helpings. But it's important, also, to serve the vegetables immediately; otherwise they lose flavor.

Cooking vegetables in the pressure saucepan is a quick method and one that will preserve vitamins. Boiling is another familiar and easy way to cook green vegetables, but to keep fresh color and flavor, take care not to overcook.

For boiling, use lighly salted water. Use as little water as practical and bring it to a boil before adding the vegetable. Cover the pan and when the water boils again, reduce the heat.

The water clinging to the leaves after washing spinach, chard or beet greens may be all that is needed in cooking, say etxension nutritionists at the University of Minnesota. Put the greens into the pan, adding salt in layers throughout. Reduce heat after the steam begins to escape and cook slowly to prevent sticking.

Some green vegetables such as shredded cabbage or spinach leaves may require as little as 3minutes to cook tender. Green lima beans may take 20 to 30 minutes, snap beans 15 to 30 minutes.

For a 5-minute cabbage, heat 3 cups of milk. Add 2 quarts of shredded cabbage and simmer for about 2 minutes. Mix 3 tablespoons of flour with an equal amount of melted fat. Add a little of the hot milk to this blend. Stir into the cabbage and cook for 3 minutes, stirring all the time. Season with salt and pepper and serve at once.

Frozen Muskmelon for Fruit Cup

Muskmelon, cubed or in balls, is delicious for salads or fruit cups if it is frozen in a sugar syrup. Cover the fruit with a syrup made of 2 cups of sugar to 1 quart of water. Be sure to serve the muskmelon with ice crystals still on the fruit.

* * *

Ascorbic Acid

If you've had trouble keeping your frozen peaches from darkening, ascorbic acid may solve your problem. Added to the sugar syrup in which peaches are frozen, ascorbic acid will prevent the fruit from darkening and at the same time help preserve the natural flavor of the fruit.

Here are the directions for freezing peaches from J. D. Winter and Shirley Trantanella of the University of Minnesota food processing laboratory. Dissolve 3 cups of sugar in a quart of cold water and let the syrup stand until clear. When you are ready to prepare the fruit, mix ½ tablespoonful of pure ascorbic acid in a small quantity of water and add it to the syrup, mixing thoroughly.

Peel only a few peaches at a time, and pack the halves or slices directly into the prepared syrup to which the ascorbic acid has been added. Keep top slices submerged in the syrup by placing a generous wad of crumpled locker paper under the lid. Use rigid containers for freezing peaches.

The fruit should be well ripened for best flavor.

Let Peaches Ripen

If you're buying peaches for canning or freezing and they're not fully ripe, it's best to let the fruit ripen at temperatures between 65 and 75. J. D. Winter, in charge of the University of Minnesota food processing laboratory, says that when peaches ripen at warmer temperatures they will have poorer flavor and color. A cool basement is a better place than a warm kitchen to let them ripen.

Sugar Beet Men to Meet at Fargo Thursday, Sept. 12

Western Beet Growers Association Will Meet in the Gardner Hotel

Sugar beet growers attending the nineteenth annual meeting of the Western Beet Growers association in Fargo, N. D. Thursday, September 12 will hear Neil Kelly, vice-president of Sugar Information, Inc., New York, report on research [illegible] the search for new uses for sugar.

Kelly, a former newspaperman in the midwest, Washington and New York, has long been associated with sugar and particularly the research phase of the industry. He became a director of the Sugar Research Foundation upon the incorporation of that agency in 1943. He is now a director of Sugar Information, Inc., in addition to his duties as vice-president.

The prospect of using vast quantities of beet sugar in non food products, a prospect viewed with considerable interest by growers and processors alike, will be covered thoroughly by Kelly. Latest developments in the most promising new use of sugar—detergents—will also be reported in the luncheon talk.

C. Einar Johnson, Warren, president of the association which represents growers in Minnesota, Iowa, North Dakota and the Pacific northwest, and E. M. Gregory, Fargo, program chairman, report considerable interest in the meeting and anticipate a record turnout.

The one-day meeting, scheduled to be held in the Gardner hotel, Fargo, will consist of business sessions and panel discussions in addition to the luncheon address by Kelly and the annual evening banquet which this year will feature Senator Wallace Bennett, Utah.

Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

No matter how a person dreads the winter ahead, there's a world of compensation for these icy blasts in the colorful fall display that precedes them.

We in northern Minnesota are very fortunate that we have a fairly wide variety of trees to provide this color in fall. The maples, birch, popple, etc. have their individual color schemes to provide a pleasing blend to folks who love the outdoors.

We feel sorry for those folks who live on the treeless prairies to the west of us. We're not saying the autumnal there are ugly by any means—but they certainly can't match fall in Minnesota!

The folks who make our hunting laws, etc., finally answered a lot of questions last week when they announced the hunting season opening dates. Some of us were rather surprised that the duck bag limit has been reduced to four birds. Even more surprising is the fact you can legally shoot more geese than ducks.

Note that we said "legally." You have to find 'em first . . . and then shoot 'em if you can. Our score so far? One-half goose, in about seven years.

(It's better than a big fat goose-EGG!)

Lots of conflicting reports on sharptail grouse numbers are floating around. Some say "plenty", others say "not as many as last year." Oh well—grouse, like gold, are where you find'em. We don't know of a single covey on E. 3rd St.

All this talk about hunting season revives some painful memories for us, so we've drawn a list of resolutions we plan to live up to during hunting this fall. They are:

1. Avoid high brush whenever possible.

2. Keep up with the others in our party.

3. Answer all incoming mail, if we're able!

The missus has been peeved all summer because insects have raised heb with her flowers. We've had aphids, and just about all the plant-eaters you can imagine . . . but the crowning blow came when the insecticide she used proved to be more than some of her plants could take.

We took our first hop in the Flying Club's newly renovated Cruiser a few days ago and found it performs like an entirely different airplane. There's an even more noticeable difference in a plane in good condition and one that's not, than there is between two automobiles of unlike conditions.

If you other club members don't believe it, get out and see for yourselves—we have to keep the ship in the air a lot to make up for lost time anyway!

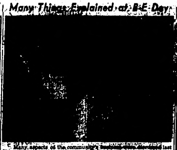
It's true . . . some of the worst back-seat drivers we've ever had to contend with are people who don't have the nerve to take the wheel themselves. But, they have plenty otherwise. . . . SO LONG!

Many Things Explained at B-E Day



Many aspects of the community's business were discussed last Thursday when 114 teachers and 35 local businessmen and representatives from civic and public institutions got together in this city for the second annual Chamber of Commerce Business-Education Day.

Reception Brings B-E Day to an End in City Thursday

Paul E. Anderson, administrative assistant, presided at the general session.

In the afternoon, the teachers gathered for group discussion on various school subjects.

Friday, the last day of the workshop, the teachers heard the objectives of the 1957-58 school year presented in a series of talks by Stan Nelson, speaking on "The Role of The Area-Vocational School;" Dennis Ralls, guidance director, told of the guidance program; and the senior and junior high school program was presented by Nelson and Larson.

At 5:30 p.m. a teacher-employed reception was given by the board of education at the Knox school cafeteria.

Traffic Mishaps Absent This Week

Heavy Traffic Foreseen for Labor Day Weekend

Thief River Falls area highways have been peaceful the past week, with no wreckage or carnage reported by any of the three law enforcement agencies in the city.

No unusually heavy traffic has been reported on trunk highways around Thief River Falls, although the main rush of the holiday week-end traffic in this area will not head for the open road until late Saturday or Sunday.

The highway patrol reported a rash of minor mishaps on main highways in the Little Falls area late Friday, which might be attributable to the rush from metropolitan areas to the lake country for summer's final fling.

Locally, national guardsmen will be assisting the highway patrol in traffic control duties through the long week-end.

The city police report another case of damage to a car while it was parked in a local supermarket parking lot. Mrs. Clarence Bottem, city, reported someone unknown had sideswiped the left front fender of her 1957 model car, which was in the Piggly Wiggly lot while she shopped. Damage was estimated at about $25.

Platoons of bulldozers, graders and other equipment will make a full-scale attack on soil erosion problems during the Silver Soil Celebration Sept. 13 and 14 on the Rank Bros. farm in Winona county.

While visitors watch, these machines will show how to set out contour strips and build terraces that will drain water around the hill instead of straight down.

Waterways, diversion terraces, detention dams and spillways will also take shape before visitors eyes. These conservation measures will help "hold the soil" on some 60 acres on the Rank farm.

In field plots, visitors will see plots comparing effects of high fertilizer rates compared with no fertilizer on corn. In pasture plots, there will be comparisons of fertilizer and no fertilizer and fall and spring renovation. There will also be a "live" demonstration of pasture renovation in progress.

Other field plots will show comparisons of different weed control methods, results of wheel track corn planting and farm woodlot management. A demonstration on using power-driven wooden posts for fencing contour strips is also scheduled.

Demonstrations will be conducted both days during the event. Also, on the first day, will be the state plowing matches. A land judging contest, Queen of the Furrow contest and a tractor safety demonstration are scheduled for Sept. 14.

Featured noon speakers on Sept. 13 are Harold Pederson, extension agricultural economist at the University of Minnesota and Governor Orville Freeman. W. H. Kircher, managing editor of "The Farmer" magazine, will speak Sept. 14.

Visitors will see, by bus and by airplane, the Gilmore Valley watershed project which was started 25 years ago. This was the first project of its kind in Minnesota. Recognition of the success of this venture is the general theme for the "Silver Soil Celebration."

Sponsors of the event are the Minnesota Association of Soil Conservation District and Station WCCO. Cooperating are the University of Minnesota Agricultural Extension Service, the Soil Conservation Service, the Minnesota Dept. of Conservation, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee and several young teachers.

Atmosphere Lacking in City, Says Visitor

By Chuck Brill

Two weeks ago a classmate of mine who calls New York his home, flew up to this city from Minneapolis to spend a weekend with my wife and me in this so-called "bush-country."

Well, that's what they told me it was when I arrived in northwestern Minnesota last June. Yes sir, they said, now you're in the "bush-country." Well, I'm not concerned with the terrain of this country . . . let's just say it's big and flat. What I'm concerned with is a familiar abstraction often called atmosphere. No, not social atmosphere. There seems to be enough of that quality in the city.

I certainly have found this to be a friendly, active community. In fact, there were three things my visitor commented on before he left: It is, he said, 1.) a friendly town 2.) with a nice golf course 3.) and well equipped parks.

No, this is a different type of atmosphere, it's more of an aesthetic atmosphere: a combination of imagination, color and national heritage. In other words, what my friend wanted to know was where is all the Scandinavian color he expected to find. I don't think there is any—we couldn't find it.

What did we expect to find? Just a little bit of that rich, colorful country called Sweden, that's all. Why have the people in this part of the state, or the whole state for that matter, tried to lose all their national identity? Sure they all admit they are Swedish or Norwegian, but this pride is verbal, there is no evidence. We could find no trace of the colorful architecture characteristic of Sweden. Not one resturant decorated with a Scandinavian motif . . . not even a smorgasbord or Swedish dish of any sort.

Maybe I haven't been in this part of the country long enough to discover a trace of the old world heritage. But I sure would like to discover it before I leave. You see, I was more disappointed than my classmate . . . I've been to Sweden . . . and think it's a country to be proud of. If you still don't know what I'm talking about, ask someone who's been to Milwaukee, "the city of beer and brachtwurst", it's German alright, and they can prove it.

Recall Damaging Hail Storm One Year Ago

The weatherman rivived some unpleasant memories today when he reminded area residents of the weather here a year ago Friday.

It was exactly a year ago Friday that Thief River Falls and other northwestern Minnesota cities were pummeled by egg-sized hail, torrential rains, and high winds that did tremendous damage to half-harvested crops in the area and raised particular hob with cars and greenhouses, too.

August a year ago was very damp—to be exact, 7.86 inches of rain fell that month, with over five inches coming the last week and nearly three inches of that falling the night of the "big storm."

By contrast, August, 1957, has been pleasant, even though temperatures have been fairly low, with a total of 3.13 inches of rain during the month through Saturday morning.

Since Thursday the mercury has been in a slow climb, closely accompanied by the humidity. High temperature was 70 and the low 52, only a slight change from day and night temperatures because of the cloud cover over the area.

According to KTRF .30 inch of rain fell here Friday and Saturday, quite dry compared to the same dates a year ago.

The forecast is for thundershowers tonight and Sunday, with warmer temperatures Sunday. High today will be 70-80 and lows expected are 50-50.

ALONG MANY PATHS "TIME MARCHES ON"

Mrs. Bertha Willmert subscribed to the Faribault County Register when it was a Blue Earth yearling in 1888, and has just renewed her subscription for the 70th year. Tillie Johnson, Virginia, is 92, which in itself is news, but celebrating with a huge cake flown from Sweden by a niece makes it headlines. A Pennsylvania couple of 70 visited a daughter and son-in-law at Sleepy Eye—after the first train ride either had ever had. At 20 a European soldier went AWOL to visit relatives in America; at 93 he's still here, happily raising vegetables, fruit, and flowers in Winona. Ole Rudie at 85 flits about the Northfield neighborhood in a Model T which he acquired second hand 22 years ago.

There are more than 1,500 combinations possible in shoe lengths and widths, and finding the right one for your foot means good fortune for months to come.

Warren Man Secy. Marshall County Centennial Group

Harold Myhre, partner with Warren Bastro in the Bastro and Myhre law firm in Warren and Stephen, was announced as the new secretary of the Marshall County Statehood Centennial Committee Wednesday night. The regularly scheduled meeting of the committee was held in Stephen high school.

Mr. Myhre succeeds Erling Weiberg, former Marshall County agent, who has left the county to continue his studies at East Lansing, Mich. He was introduced by Harold Sorenson, chairman of the committee.

Reports from committees were the main items on the agenda, with Ernie Jewell, superintendent of the Old Mill State Park, reporting on progress on the old mill project. Plans are to have the mill put into operation so that it can actually grind flour again.

Hardware Mutual Squad Noses Out Brooks Cheese

The city golf league concluded its 1957 schedule on Wednesday evening, and Russ Embury's Hardware Mutual squad, getting a 35 gross and a 31 net from substitute Johnny Matchefts, edged out the Brooks Cheese team to win the league title, 1421 points to 1423 for Brooks.

Previous to Wednesday evening's competition, the two squad had been deadlocked for first place, with each team having 1281 points.

In Wednesday evening's play, the Hardware Mutual compiled their [illegible] in this manner: Matchefts, 35-31; Arne Lee, 46-37; Dr. A. E. Jacobson, 44-38; and Rudy Meiihoff, 40-34.

The evening's low net team total, though, was posted by the Piggly Wiggly squad, who scored a fine 132. The Piggly Wiggly's total, found, Gerdy Ballingrud, 44-30; Kenny Lidem, [illegible]; Julius Larson, 42-34; and Dr. M. G. Johnson, 42-35.

Gerdy Ballingrud's 44-30 was the evening's low net for individual play, while Matchefts and John Mount had the low gross with 35's.

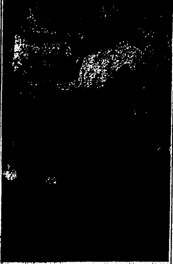
A Fishy Tale and 38 Lbs. of Proof



The season's biggest fish story — a fish story with 38 lbs. and 2 ounces and 42 inches of supporting evidence — was related in the Times office last week by a local resident, Elmer Adolphson. Adolphson, who returned from a visit to the state of Washington, spent a few days as the guest of former resident, Harold Olson, father of Don L. Olson, manager of radio station KTRF.

What do old friends do when they get together? Why, if their both fishermen, they go fishin'. And, if they're near the ocean they go salt water fishing . . . and with a little luck they come back with a prize winner like Adolphson is displaying in the above picture.

He caught the "King Salmon" eight miles off Neah Bay, Wash., a seaside resort town on the northern tip of the state. The fish was caught on a 6 foot rod with a salt water spinning reel on a 15 pound nylon line using a herring for bait. The fish was hooked while trolling at a depth of 50 feet.

It took Adolphson a half-hour to land the big one. He entered the fish in the "Biggest Fish of The Week" contest. Win or not, he's sure of some choice salmon steaks . . . 38 poundas of it.

Certificate for TB Control to Be Given Marshall Co. Sept. 19

Thursday, September 19, will be a red letter day for Marshall county and the whole northwest corner of Minnesota, according to information received today from the state Christmas Seal organization.

Marshall county will receive its certificate of accreditation for tuberculosis control at a seven-county Christmas Seal dinner meeting set for September 19 at 8:00 p.m. at the Sidney cafe in Crookston. "Marshall's TB Accreditation will mean special recognition for the whole area," the release states. "All of the counties in the state's northwest corner, which were for many years black spots on Minnesota's TB map, have now won honors for fine progress in reducing TB death and infection rates."

Seven counties participating in the combined Christmas Seal institute and accreditation ceremony, are: Red Lake, Kittson, Pennington, Roseau, Norman, Marshall and Polk. Invitations are going out to Christmas Seal volunteer workers, nurses, doctors, school administrators and other persons actively interested in health programs.

In addition to the Accreditation ceremony, there will be discussion of plans for the coming Christmas Seal sale and of this area's tuberculosis problems. Mantoux test surveys and other programs aimed at fighting the disease.

TB Accreditation does not indicate that tuberculosis is on the way out, but simply that a county is making real progress in controlling the disease, the Christmas Seal release states.

"What Accreditation Means" will be the subject of a talk to be given by Dr. L. H. Flancher, superintendent of Sunnyrest sanatorium at Crookston, as a main feature of the dinner meeting.

Accreditation requirements are:

First, the county must have cut its tuberculosis death rate down to an annual average of 10 or less per 100,000 population for a five-year period.

Second, at least 90 percent of the high school seniors must have been tuberculin tested. If less than 10 percent are found to be TB-infected, this is accepted as an indication that the county's infection rate is going down.

Daily Bag Limit Set at Five Geese

The daily bag and possession on geese which may be taken during the 1957 waterfowl hunting season has been set at five. These limits may include 2 Canada geese (including Hutchin's or cackling geese), or 2 white-fronted geese, or 1 of each. The duck hunting season will begin at noon on October 5, and one-half hour before sunrise to sunset on all following days, through December 13, both dates inclusive.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Champions?

The city golf league ended its 1957 season on Wednesday evening, and Russ Embury's Hardware Mutual squad—Embury, Bill Watzke, Arne Lee, Dr. A. E. Jacobson, and Rudy Meiihoff—were declared the city champions. They edged out the second place Brooks Cheese team—Emil Larson, Stan Larson, Bob Wurst, Wally DuChamp, and Aurel Parenteau—by a margin of three strokes, 1421 to 1424. That's official.

It's easy to find those three strokes that produced the margin of victory. They are included in the three short putts Wally DuChamp missed. On the 7th hole, Wally missed a ten-inch putt for birdie; on the 8th hole he missed a putt of 18 inches; and on the 9th hole he missed a two-footer. Such missed putts, though, are to be expected of the "world's worst putter".

But to get back to the city championship title. While the Hardware Mutual squad will be entered into the golf club's history as the champions of 1957, in our book the "true" champions will be the runner-up Brooks Cheese team.

In winning their title, the Hardware Mutuals received the benefit of a pair of assists from the substitute list. On Wednesday evening, in the league finals, the Hardware Mutual had Johnny Matchefts playing as a substitute for Embury, and Matchefts shot a 35, which with a handicap of four, gave him a net 31.

And in a mid-season match, with the Hardware Mutual asking for a substitute, they had Irv Mickelson on their roster, and he shot a 46, which with a handicap of 15, gave him a net of 31. Those two net scores produced the league title for the Hardware Mutual.

The Brooks Cheese, on the other hand, played throughout the season with their regulars. They were very faithful in fulfilling their league dates.

It's our understanding, too, although we may be in error on this, that Russ Embury, knowing that he would be out of town on Wednesday, played his league round earlier in the week. It is rumored that he shot a 49. If this is so, then Matchefts score on Wednesday, playing as Embury's substitute, is null and void, and should not be included in the Mutual's team total.

It's unfortunate that the league season should end in such an awkward situation.

Two of the eighth region's finest all-round athletes—Herschel (Pepper) Lysaker of Crookston and Sheldon (Don) Clay of Baudette participated in the annual North vs. South All-Star football game played on the Parade stadium field in Minneapolis on Wednesday evening. The two boys were members of coach Bill Bevan's North squad, and their performances were vital factors in the play of the North team. The game, which was rated as one of the most outstanding in the series, ended in a 6-all tie. Fair enough.

Clay gained further honors for himself and the eighth region by being named the outstanding lineman in the game.

Unquestionably, Sheldon is the most promising all-round athlete to come out of Baudette high school, and he is a first-rate college prospect. He's headed for Minnesota. In addition to his football prowess, he was a stellar performer on Baudette high school's basketball and baseball squads. The Baudette Burbots won sub-district honors in basketball, and in baseball they won the district title for the past two seasons. Clay was instrumental in bringing these titles to Baudette.

On Thursday evening, during the informal football scrimmage between the Warren Ponies and the Prowlers, held on the old Lincoln high school field, we had an opportunity to visit with Irv St. John. St. John, you remember, is the former Bemidji Lumberjacks all-state center and later a top-flight basketball player at B.S.T.C. He coached at Baudette the past couple of seasons, and has now taken a coaching and teaching position at Warren.

We discussed the North vs. South All-Star football game, and Irv made the comment that Clay could prove to be the best player to come out of that contest. St. John added that Clay, who is a burly six feet, two inch, and 200-pound athlete, is an ideal college prospect. St. John made the remark that he had played with Mike Falls and Harold Drescher, former Bemidji high athletes who played on the Minnesota Gopher football team, and that he, Irv, considered Clay their superior in potential.

Clay is, according to reports, headed for Minnesota. And it will be interesting to follow his career. He will be a good one.

Competition, Fine

On Wednesday afternoon we were fortunate enough to witness portions of that 18-hole match-play championship finals, for the women's city golf title, between Mrs. Donald (Sylvia) Olson and Mrs. Harold (Sam) Rasmussen.

And what a pair of competitors those two girls are! Sylvia, the defending champion, always held the lead, but not by much, just one or two up. And on the 8th hole, Sam, with the aplomb of a professional, dropped a ten foot putt for a bird, and pared Mrs. Olson's lead to 1-up with one to play.

The last hole was bit of an anti-climax, and it's possible that pressure was to blame, for the two girls "muffed" their fourth shots. Sam, from fifty yards out, was short of the green with her chip, nursing the shot; while Sylvia committed a dub by looking up and scuffing the ball just a few yards. Sylvia proved her championship caliber by refusing to be shaken by the shot and chipped to within 18 inches of the cup. Samy had to try to sink her long putt from the edge of the green, and when that missed, the match was ended, with Mrs. Olson a 1-up winner.

Firearms Safety Chief Tells Youth to Heed New Law

Lee Kuluvar, state coordinator for the firearms safety program, warned that as the firearms safety act becomes effective September 1, from now on youths 12-16 years of age must comply with the law.

Kuluvar repeated that if youths in that age group have not received their training through one of the state's volunteer firearms safety instructors they must buy a small game license and be supervised by a parent or guardian while hunting.

"Youths who have completed the training, or who will complete their training before hunting season, may use their training certificate in lieu of a hunting license until they are 16 years old. The trained youth may also hunt alone after he reaches his fourteenth birthday," Kuluvar said.

The symphonic number's premiere will be played by the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra during the Centennial year and second by the Duluth Symphony.

The contest is open only to Minnesota natives or present Minnesota residents 21 years old and over.

Good Vision Vital for Auto Drivers

Faulty Vision Charged with 1 of 7 Fatalities

In one of every seven traffic accidents, the driver's vision was obscured, according to recent statistics. And fifteen percent of all motor vehicle accidents are estimated to have a visual basis. These figures point out the necessity for frequent and thorough eye examinations, states a bulletin from the Minnesota State Medical association.

You must consider your day vision, your night vision, your depth perception and your reaction time.

Day vision must be sharp; you must read road signs in time to observe them. Both your "central" and "peripheral" vision must be perfect so that you can see objects in the direct line of sight as well as objects to the right and left. If side vision is impaired, vehicles approaching from the side streets and roads as well as pedestrians on crosswalks may be seen with difficulty.

Night vision is equally important; the driver should be able to adapt rapidly to darkness after exposure to light. Glare resistance, unfortunately, decreases with age. Remember to always lower or dim headlights for approaching cars and also for cars you approach from the rear. Other nighttime hindrances are flashing signs, reflections, dirty windshields, lights inside the car and dark glasses; physiological ability to see at night is reduced by alcohol, carbon monoxide, smoking and lack of oxygen.

Depth perception is your ability to judge distances and to localize objects in the field of vision; this is vital in passing cars when there is an approaching vehicle in the opposite lane of traffic.

Reaction time can be slowed by poor vision and this is vital in the application of the brake pedal in many instances.

Periodic visual examinations would eliminate many drivers who cause accidents, and the number of persons killed and injured because of poor vision would be greatly reduced.

Students Give Renoir The Eye

The Musical Horizons club, a group of students who study piano with Jose Stone held a special meeting at the Carnegie Public library last Thursday to review the current art exhibit of 19th Century masters. The exhibit on loan from the University of Minnesota art gallery was on display from August 15th to Sept. 1st. It is hoped the exhibit will be a preview of shows to come in the future when the historical society opens its exhibit room in the court house. Looking over the large oil painting by Renoir are students, left to right, front, LuAnn Johnson, Nancy Quam; back row, Jo [illegible], Susan Edmiston, Jodi Martin, Jeffrey Hoel, Virginia Burrell and Emily Hoel.

Accessories In Leather Spark Fall Costumes

The elegance of Fall 1957 will be applied with a soft, rather than lavish touch. And one of the surest ways to achieve it is with soft leathers rich in texture and mellow in color, subtly coordinated in shoes, handbag, gloves—and perhaps belts.

A bag and belt in the same shade of fog gray leather with touches of silver in frame and buckle, above a low-heeled shoe in gunmetal gray leather will make you look as if you'd just stepped out of a limousine. And on some days you can wind a rope of steel gray imitation pearls with an emerald colored clasp around the wrist of your gray Launder Leather gloves.

Top and Bottom Brass

With your brass buttoned suit, you'll want accessories too, that are trimmed with the baser metal. Try a glossy gold-brown smooth leather bag with brass attache-case lock and brown or olive green suede shoes with instep strap buttoned down with brass.

Bags Are Bigger

Bags have become bigger and fuller since spring, — with the easy-looking pouch replacing the slim, geometric shape. Many bags, in fact, look like luggage in shape and size and have luggage-type metal locks. The bag that's a smaller edition of an attache case is very popular, and with it, of course, you wear a tailored pump in the same aniline leather.

Bemidji College Freshmen Report Tuesday, Sept. 10

Fall Term Set to Open Monday, September 16, Registrar Announces

Freshman students at Bemidji State college will report at 8 a.m., Tuesday, September 10th, for a busy week of preparation for the beginning of fall quarter classwork the following Monday, it was announced today by Edwin Aalberts, registrar at BSC.

"A full schedule of activities designed to acquaint new students with all phases of college life and to provide them with the soundest possible counseling has been planned for the week," he said.

Upper-classmen will register on Friday, September 13, beginning at 8 a.m. They will also begin classwork on September 16th.

Social activities as well as the more serious business registration, individual conferences with advisors, tests for counseling purposes, and group meetings for orientation will occupy the full time of freshmen from the opening day of registration through the rest of the week, Mr. Aalberts points out. "A freshman student who misses any part of registration week will be seriously handicapped," Aalberts added.

To help new students get acquainted the freshman week schedule includes a student talent show, the selection of the "beanie" king and queen, a square dance, a lakeside marshmallow roast, a roaring song and pep fest, many other informal social events.

Other highlights of the week include a football game with the BSC frosh meeting Itasca Junior College at Bemidji, at 7 p.m. on Thursday, September 12. The varsity football squad will be at Grand Forks on Friday, September [illegible] for a game with North Dakota University.

Wisconsin Upset

The election of a Democratic Senator in the traditionally Republican state of Wisconsin [illegible] serves as convincing proof that the New Republicanism the administration has been talking about is headed for a lot of trouble. By trying to make the Republican party more liberal than the liberals themselves, the present Republican leaders are out of character. By such maneuvering they gain no liberal support and they lose the support of the conservative voters who have come to look to the party for good management of our public affairs.

Two strong political parties are essential to our form of government. They properly divide along liberal and conservative lines; and so divided, each serves a useful purpose. Around these two are the radicals and the reactionaries, and they also make useful contributions to our society as minority groups.

But there is no need for both of our major parties being liberal or both of them being conservative. Then all we have is two opposing factions fighting each other, not on differences of policy or principle, but merely to either retain or secure political power.

Our most urgent political need probably is a complete reorganization of our major parties so the names Republican and Democrat no longer have meaning. Neither party as such deserves the respect or the confidence of the American people.

If the thorough defeat of the Republican party is a forerunner to such a reorganization then let's do what we can to speed up the process.

Largest Factory Reopens

One of our largest industries, our education mill, goes into operation again this week after a summer recess, and that will mean a big increase in activity in the community again. The school plant has been expanded very substantially. A $1,200,000 building program is nearing completion. The new facilities will provide more adequately for the needs of our elementary and secondary education systems and also make possible a greatly expanded program in vocational training.

We have a right to be proud of this fine factory that we have built. We may be justified in boasting that no community in the state has finer or better equipped school buildings than we have here at Thief River Falls.

The real worth of a factory of course is measured by its production. Fine school buildings and good equipment are only relatively important. An educator once observed that the only things really essential to a good school are a teacher, a book and a scholar.

We have a right to expect a better product from this fine factory that we have built, but we have no real assurance that we will get it. We can only hope that we will get a good return on this investment—hope that at some future time we may be able to boast that Thief River Falls has the best schools in the state, as well as the best school buildings.

Soil Bank Payments

The department of agriculture has announced that payments for the rental of land under the provisions of the Conservation Reserve section of the Soil Bank plan will not be made until the end of the contract year, December 31. This position probably is justified in some areas. In southern states for instance, where some lands are cropped three times a year, it probably would be well to withhold final settlement until the contract period has been completed.

Up here in our part of the country, however, where the crop season ends with the first heavy frost, and it is reasonable to expect a blanket of snow over the fields early in November, nature will do an effective job of policing the contracts and protecting the government against any failures to comply with their provisions.

Because of these facts, and the urgency of the need for cash in distress areas around tax-paying time, Senator Ed Thye is asking the department to reconsider its decision insofar as these northern areas are concerned.

In our county three-fourths of these contracts have already been thoroughly checked and the performance approved, and we can see no good reason why payments should not be authorized for the latter part of October. Under pressure from Senator Thye the department is giving the matter further consideration, so there still is hope for a more realistic decision.

Not Funny

(Wall Street Journal)

It's all certainly getting pretty ridiculous. First of all the Chinese Communists announce they will not let American newspaper reporters into Red China. And Secretary Dulles accuses them of hiding behind a bamboo curtain and laments the fact that American readers will be deprived of information about what goes on in one of the largest countries of the world.

Then the Chinese Communists hint that perhaps they will, after all, let American newspaper reporters into Red China. Secretary Dulles then forbids it on the grounds, among others, that reporting news from China might not forward American foreign policy.

Then Mr. Dulles decides that perhaps after all it will do no harm if a few select newspaper reporters are allowed to go to China for a trial period. Thirty-two reporters applied, which struck Mr. Dulles as too many. He decided to let twenty-four go for seven months and see how they did.

Then, the Chinese Communists asked Mr. Dulles to let Chinese reporters come into the United States. The Chinese argued that the U. S. is pretty big, too, and they would like to get first-hand reports on what goes on over here. Mr. Dulles said no because the Chinese reporters would not report objectively but would be used to further Communist foreign policies.

Now the Chinese Communists say that it is "insufferably arrogant" of Mr. Dulles to hand-pick the reporters who will go to Red China and not to let any reporters hand-picked, or otherwise, come from Red China to the U. S. They will not let American reporters into Red China after all.

So unless we have missed the last whirl of the merry-go-round, the only progress has been to get things right back where they started. It would be hilarious except that there's nothing really funny about seeing the U. S. Secretary of State look as ridiculous as the Chinese Communists.

Q—Before going into military service during the Korean conflict, I was a qualified plumber. Now that I have been discharged, I would like to take a refresher course in plumbing at a trade school. Could I do so under the Korean GI Bill?

A—No. Under the law, veterans are not permitted to take courses in subjects for which they already are qualified by reason of prior experience or training.

Q—I have just applied for a VA pension for a total and permanent nonservice-connected disability. If I qualify, will I receive a higher rate because I am married and have a family?

A—No. Pension rates are not based on your dependency status. The rates are the same for veterans with dependents and for veterans without dependents.

Q—When I bought a house, I used my complete $7,500 GI loan guarantee. Now, I have an opportunity to go into business. Could I get a GI business loan to help me get started?

A—No. You used your full entitlement for your GI home loan. There is no entitlement remaining for GI business loan purposes. If you hadn't used the maximum home loan guaranty, it may have been possible for you to qualify for a GI business loan.

Q—I want to pay my GI insurance premiums once a year instead of once a month. Where can I find out how much the yearly premium will be?

A—Write to the VA District Office where you pay your premiums, or contact your nearest VA office. Be sure to include your policy number when writing.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

Orville L. Freeman

I'm sure you've [illegible] again and again [illegible] political platforms [illegible] about the [illegible] governmental [illegible] efficient at all levels. In many respects we lag far behind private industry in the use of new equipment and new administrative methods. When this is the case, the inevitable result is poor service at greater cost. One of the things I've worked hard to achieve in state government is modernization of administration, in order to bring about savings and improved services.

Almost daily we read about the wonders of automation, new technology and the super brains dramatized by the equipment manufacturers who produce such mechanical marvels as Remington Rand's UNIVAC and IBM's 705. We have been working with what I think has been considerable success, to use such equipment as a supplement to human talents, energies and time.

Improved Tax Procedures

A few days ago I scheduled a tour to personally inspect and review some of the machine operations now underway in Minnesota state government. One that I'm sure will be of interest to everyone is the improved procedure in our tax department. Until this January 75 per cent of our income tax returns were only spot-checked, with the result that very few of the approximately 1,000,000 returns actually were audited for accuracy. Now a 10 per cent check of every income tax form is accomplished through use of machine calculators, which make some 6,000 calculations per minute. Since January 1 we have found that 29 per cent of the returns contain an error, and the error in 2½ per cent of these is over $4. We now use four punch card operators and one supervisor to accomplish a 100 percent check, whereas the spotchecks of previous years took 16 or 17 people and were a long way from reaching every taxpayer.

Faster Gas Refunds

It was also interesting to study improved procedures in the gas refund department. This is important to the many farmers who look forward to receiving their gas refund checks. We are now processing claims within two or three weeks in all but the most busy season, when it takes about five weeks. However, we're still striving for better performance.

Mining for Ideas

Turning from machines and administration, I'd like to give you a quick report on another interesting development here in state government. I'm sure you've all read about brainstorming—a public relations-industrial technique of drawing forth ideas from a group of people. A problem is presented to them. The idea is for each person to give the solutions that pop into his mind. No matter how ridiculous some of them might seem at first, they may stimulate someone to come up with another. The net result of the fresh approach might well be a workable solution.

Because this technique has been effective in industry and elsewhere and because we are constantly trying to get new ideas on traffic safety, a brainstorming session was conducted in the highway department. I was privileged to sit in on a part of the session myself and found it interesting and productive of new ideas.

If government programs are to be effective, costs reduced and service more efficient, constant hard work and imagination are needed.

A contented mind is the greatest blessing a man can enjoy in this world.—Joseph Addison

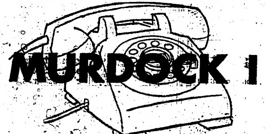
1. New DIAL SERVICE . . .
2. ALL Phone Numbers Change to . . .



MURDOCK 1

Very early next Sunday morning, Sept. 8, Thief River Falls' new dial system and new numbering plan will be placed in service.

We call it the "2-5" numbering plan, because each number is composed of the letters MU (for MUrdock), the figure "1" and then four more figures, (2 letters and 5 figures in all).

New Directory

In the new Thief River Falls Telephone Directory which will reach you this week, these new numbers will look like this:

MU 1-0405

To dial these numbers, you will first dial the letter "M"—then the letter "U," then the figure "1" followed by each of the last four figures . . . seven pulls of the dial in all.

Important! Please do not try to use the numbers in the new directory until Sunday, September 8.

Long Distance and Emergency Numbers

TO CALL LONG DISTANCE dial the numeral "0" (operator), and whenever possible, give the operator the number of the out-of-town telephone you are calling.

ON EMERGENCY CALLS, for fastest service you may dial the Fire and Police departments directly at any hour of the day or night as follows:

FIRE . . . . MU 1-4432
POLICE . . MU 1-2130

However, in an emergency, if you do not know the number to dial, you may dial "Operator" and ask for the Fire or Police department.

THANK YOU — Your patience and cooperation while we have been making this change are very much appreciated.

New Slippers Are A Treat To Feet

Leather slippers the family wears for evenings around the television set now come in as many versions as those for evenings on the town.

Mother and the girls like a whole wardrobe of at-home shoes—some for evenings when they wear a flannel robe and tie their hair and nails—others to wear with their favorite hostess pajamas.

All the family's slippers—even mother's mules—may be lined in genuine wool shearling, which is the soft underwool of the sheep or lamb left on the leather as it is tanned. Shearling promotes comfort and warmth once the weather starts getting nippy.

Spend Most Time Working for Taxes

Taxpayers Group Cites Burden on Average Man

Labor Day week is an appropriate time to remind Minnesota's wage earners and salaried workers how much of their 8-hour working day is spent in working to pay their taxes, Harold L. Henderson, Research Director of the Minnesota Taxpayers Association said today.

"According to Tax Foundation, Inc., a private research organization with headquarters in New York," Mr. Henderson said, "the average $4,500 a year man must work 2 hours and 28 minutes of his eight-hour day to pay for his federal, state and local taxes."

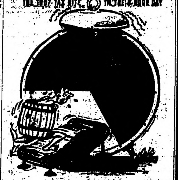
"This means that more time is spent working for taxes than for any other single item—even food," Mr. Henderson stated.

Here is how the 8-hour day breaks down for the $4,500 a year man, according to the Tax Foundation Study:

Taxes, 2 hours 28 minutes; food 1 hour, 40 minutes; housing, 1 hour 28 minutes; transportation, 43 minutes; clothing, 37 minutes; medical, 23 minutes; recreation, 20 minutes; other, 25 minutes; total, 8 hours.

"This graphic illustration of the size of today's tax bite in the 8-hour day of the average wage earner and salaried worker should cause all taxpayers to pay much closer attention to the ever increasing load of federal, state and local taxes. The extent to which this tax bite has [illegible] decreased represents an actual wage increase."

THE 1957 TAX BITE IN THE 8-HOUR DAY



The average $4,500-a-year man must work 2 hours and 28 minutes of his eight-hour day to pay for his taxes, according to the Tax Foundation. As the clock shows, more time is spent working for taxes than for food and other items.

$1 Park Stickers Pay $450,000 Loan to Parks Division

Money Had Been Advanced By Game and Fish Division to Rehabilitate Parks

Transfer was made last week of a $17,500 voucher, representing the final payment of a $450,000 loan by the division of game and fish to the division of state parks, it was announced today by Howard Munson, director of bureau of operational services, department of conservation.

With the approval of the 1953 legislature, $450,000 was loaned to the division of state parks by the division of game and fish and earmarked for rehabilitation of the park system. Receipts from the sale of park entry stickers were dedicated to repayment of the loan. The nearly one-half million dollar loan is now paid in full.

U. W. Hella, director of the division of state parks said, "the enactment of the sticker act of 1953 with the $450,000 loan against sticker receipts made possible a start on a program of rehabilitation."

Just a few of the many projects financed by the "sticker" money loan were the complete remodeling of Douglas Lodge, Itasca state park; reconstruction of three bridges in St. Croix state park and black topping and resurfacing roads in Interstate state park. More than 4000 gallons of paint were applied to park structures in 1956 and two carloads of roofing replaced deteriorated coverings of park buildings.

NEWSPAPER GOOD MULCH

A "pudding" made from newspaper soaked in water makes an excellent mulch for the garden. Soak the newspapers well in a large container of water, stir into a pulpy, well-shredded mass, and pour around the base of plants. The pulp dries to a mat that chokes off weeds and helps retain moisture in the ground.

3 Arrested Youths Freed at Warren

Cleared of Suspicion in Minneapolis Killing

Three Wisconsin youths, held for three hours Wednesday morning in the Marshall county jail at Warren after their new and unlicensed car was halted in a roadblock on U. S. 75 north of Warren, went on their way again during the afternoon, cleared of suspicion and clean-shaven.

The three told arresting officers that they were on their way to their West Allis, Wisc., home from a fishing trip in Manitoba. Their car bore no license, they said, because it had recently been purchased and no license had yet been issued. Instead, the vehicle bore a windshield sticker authorizing operation of the car pending license issuance. A check with West Allis officers verified their story and the youths were released.

The three were spotted by Chief of Police Buck Waldron of Hallock, Minn., as the car passed through the city. He observed the car had no license and notified Marshall County Sheriff Oscar Erickson and Pennington County Sheriff Charles Richards. The two sheriffs, Myron Sorenson, Marshall deputy, and Larry Helm, Minnesota crime bureau agent, set up a road block north of Warren. The youths were halted as Waldron and Louis Etter, state highway patrolman, arrived in pursuit.

The officers, alerted by the belief that three men sought in the slaying of a Minneapolis policeman Aug. 17 were in the territory, held the men on open charges pending investigation.

Junior Chamber to Meet Tonight

The Junior Chamber of Commerce will hold a dinner meeting this evening at 6:30 in the Legion club rooms. M. H. Kortuem, president, stated, adding that numerous items of business will be brought up for consideration.

C of C. & Job Office Join in Re-survey of Employment in City

The Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a re-survey of employment in Thief River Falls, J. M. Roche, chamber secretary, stated today that the re-survey will be made in cooperation with the Minnesota state employment service to secure up-to-date employment figures for this city. The original survey which was made in 1947 was also sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

While industry groups have been rechecked from time to time, no complete survey has been made since the original one 10 years ago. Within the next few days a survey form will be mailed to local employers by the employment office. Employers are asked to fill in and return this form to the employment office as soon as possible. It is planned that the re-survey will be completed within a two week period, so promptness in returning the survey sheets is essential.

Roche emphasized that the survey will include a count of all persons working full time, or 15 hours per week or more, part-time, except domestics working in private family households. Self-employed, and family workers who operate private businesses such as beauty parlors, neighborhood groceries and insurance agencies are to be included. Firms operating outside the city limits of Thief River Falls, but in reality part of Thief River Falls community, will be included in the count.

The findings of this resurvey will be released as soon as the survey sheets have been returned and the figures compiled.

Public Employes Retirement Group Discuss Pensions

Robert Bartholow Is Speaker at Meeting in TRF Attended by Fifty

About fifty people, many of them being city and county department heads, and some of them coming from Kittson, Marshall, and Clearwater counties, were present Saturday evening in the city Auditorium to hear Robert Bartholow explain the advantages and disadvantages of a possible integration of the Public Employees Retirement Association with federal Old-Age Survivors Insurance in Minnesota.

Bartholow emphasized the fact that as executive secretary of the Minnesota Retirement Study association, he was speaking his own personal opinions and that his remarks were not to be construed as any official interpretation of the effects of integration of the two retirement plans. He went on to explain that the law provides that the office of Governor Freeman through the state department of administration shall be responsible for disseminating information on the plan and it will also conduct the actual vote of the 38,000 PERA members, the election to be held in October.

According to the speaker, it is the opinion of MRSA that although some persons would benefit by a "No" vote, the vast majority of PERA members would benefit by "Yes" vote.

Mr. Bartholow traced the history of the efforts of his organization to provide a better PERA plan, and also to permit a democratic vote of the PERA members as to whether or not they wished to have supplementary OASI coverage. He pointed out that in all states but one, there are now at least some public employees covered by OASI.

He pointed out also the need for a large turn-out on the election day, stating that failure by a PERA employee to vote was the same as a "No" vote, since the law reads that the majority of PERA members must vote "Yes" if the integration plan of adding OASI is to be approved. Another point made by the speaker was that it would be better to call the proposed plan a co-ordinated plan rather than an integrated plan since PERA and OASI would remain entirely independent of each other, with one being in addition to the other.

M. L. Schlecter, colonel in the U. S. Army Reserve, returned last weekend from Camp McCoy, Wisconsin, where he had spent two weeks attending a school in civil affairs and military government.

Ask Early Return of Questionnaires Dealing with Polio

Current Medical Needs of Past Victims to Be Given Extensive Study

Numerous former polio patients in Pennington county have been listed to date in the countywide census conducted by the local chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Mrs. Rudolph Sagmoen, committee chairman, announced today. She asked that recipients of questionnaires complete them as soon as possible.

The local canvass, part of a national program, is to serve as basis for an intensive study of the current medical needs of all post-polio patients, both paralytic and nonparalytic. It has been noted that some patients originally diagnosed as nonparalytic, develop weakness and even deformities after a lapse of years, Mrs. Sagmoen explained.

Facts gathered here relate to type of treatment received and the amount of recovery achieved by each patient. They are being compiled in roster form to be forwarded to the National Foundation's headquarters. The [illegible] is to be completed [illegible].

County physicians as well as those throughout the nation have been kept informed of the project's progress and have been asked to cooperate in completing the roster.

"Not all polio patients are known to us through our chapter rolls," said Mrs. Sagmoen. "Thus we welcome aid of our doctors and health authorities in locating those for whom no continuing record has been kept."

TRF Escapes Most of Heavy Weekend Rain

2.36 in. Falls Here; More Than 6 Inches Hit Roseau, Hallock

Rain, rain, rain . . . Thief River Falls had only 2.36 inches of the stuff over the past weekend but the big weather news is that other localities, particularly in northeast North Dakota had amounts up to 10 inches recorded unofficially in Auburn, No. Dak.

Rainfall reported at other localities was 6.26 inches at Grand Forks, over 7 inches at Grafton and Larimore, No. Dak. and Roseau, Minn. and about 6 inches at Hallock.

Unofficial reports of up to 6 inches of rain in some parts of Pennington county have also been received, although, according to the KTRF report, Thief River Falls was one of the driest places in northwestern Minnesota.

Farmers in northeastern North Dakota, where crops are not nearly harvested, were hard hit by the rains. Many fields were badly flooded and considerable damage was predicted for the potato an sugar beet crops, as well as the remaining grain an flax crops.

In Pennington county, where a large percentage of the crop has already been harvested with the exception of flax, the damage

TRF Firms Victims of Check Forgers

Cash Three Checks Drawn on Mound, Minnesota, Bank

Sheriff Charles Richards reported Wednesday that three local businessmen sustained losses this week when they cashed [illegible] forged payroll checks from a Twin City area firm.

Richards said three checks were cashed by local concerns and the manager of another refused to take another, thus preventing loss on his part. The exact number of checks forged locally is not known but the three cashed here are the only one confirmed locally, along with the one turned down.

In addition, checks drawn against the Minnetonka marine concern, against whose account the checks were forged, have been cashed at Erskine and Crookston.

Local authorities believe two men are involved in the forgeries although no accurate descriptions have been made available, Richards said today.

The checks they have passed have been drawn against a Mound, Minn., bank and have been in the amounts of $145.32 and $146.32. They were typed and the check amounts were written with a Check-Protector, also stolen from the Minnetonka concern, which apparently suffered the loss of the blank checks and the check writer after a fire at the concern's boat plant.

The loss of the checks and the check writer were not realized by the firm until the forged checks started coming in, Richards stated.

Both Richards and Police Chief Elton Cummings are working on the case and the Minnesota Crime Bureau has been notified.

Stewart Halldin Found Living with Relatives

The father of a local youth missing since Aug. 9 has gone to Santa Paula, Cal., to bring his son home, after an anxious wait of several weeks' duration to hear of the boy's whereabouts.

Stewart Halldin, 14, disappeared from a farm north of the city Aug. 9. He had been the subject of inquiries from Sheriff Charles Richards to authorities in several western states but no good clue as to the boy's whereabouts had been received until he wrote his parents recently, telling them he was with relatives in Santa Paula, according to Richards.

Kenneth Halldin, Stewart's father, has gone to accompany the boy back from Santa Paula.

Presently there are 1,660 Pennington county men registered with the board. On the average, 4 men are inducted each month.

Concert Association to Open Membership Drive September 11

The opening of the membership drive of the Northwest community concert association on September 11th will again make available to residents of this area the opportunity to hear outstanding concert talent in the local auditorium. A series of four concerts is scheduled for next season, and will include a vocal ensemble, a famed pianist, a contralto, and a mixed octet.

Local membership will also entitle its membership to attend the Crookston concert series, which will enable members to attend a concert by the famed "Columbus Boychoir."

Of interest to all who enjoyed the Knickerbocker Quartet in a past season is the announcement that another vocal ensemble by the same producers is scheduled for this season. The Little Chorale, a mixed octet of solo caliber voices, will do the same type program, with even greater variety made possible by the larger group.

On Pianist Margaret Barthel's initial midwestern tour last season the reception accorded her was most enthusiastic. Her skillful playing on the piano of the familiar classics and her delightful explanations of her music completely captivated her audiences. A winner of the coveted Naumburg and many other national music awards, Miss Barthel has been acclaimed in recital at Town Hall and many eastern centers, and as soloist with symphony orchestras.

The Ballet Russe Quartet, four veteran dancers of the Russian ballet, concert, stage and opera bring to audiences the greatest moments of the famous classical ballets, in the traditional Ballet Russe style, beautifully costumed and with full symphonic accompaniment on high fidelity recording.

Contralto Lillian Mernik, winner of the Marian Anderson Award and a $25,000 scholarship award while still in her teens, has been acclaimed by the critics for a magnificent voice of unusual range and quality, and a radiantly happy stage presence which make all of her songs, from opera to ballads a delight to hear.

Prices for the concert series are $6.00 for adult memberships, $2.00 for high school students and $1.75 for elementary pupils.

Johnson, plant superintendent. He added that the figure represents a gain of 410,200 gallons over the total of 27,622,300 gallons for August, 1956. The output is near the capacity of the present storage tanks.

Cutback Ordered in Guard Enlistments Due to Lack of Funds

A sharp cut-back in Minnesota Army National Guard enlistments was ordered this week by Major General J. E. Nelson, Minnesota's Adjutant General. Lack of funds for the six months' active duty training program and a Department of Defense decision to reduce Army Guard strength to 400,000, have necessitated the order, which limits enlistments in the Army Guard to men who have had prior military service.

Air National Guard units are not affected by the order. They will continue to enlist men regardless of whether or not they have had previous military service.

Army National Guard regulations require each non-prior-service man who enlists in the Guard to agree to take 6 months of active duty for training within 120 days after enlistment. The Guard had asked for funds to send 60,000 men into this program in fiscal year 1958. Money made available for this purpose, however, will permit only about half that number to attend.

Minnesota has enough men waiting to enter the six months' program to more than fill its quota through December, General Nelson said. Enlistment of men in that program must, therefore, be suspended until additional quotas are obtained.

Men who have had previous military service are not required to take the six months' basic training program. Minnesota Guard units will continue to enlist such men, particularly those who return home after two years of active Army service with an obligation to serve in Ready Reserve units.

The reduction in strength from 421,000 officers and men who were in the Army Guard on June 30 to the 400,000 figure established by Department of Defense must be accomplished by December 31. This will require a reduction of some 700 from the present strength of 9,259 men in Minnesota units.

"We are extremely disappointed at the Department of Defense action," General Nelson said. "When the Department overrode National Guard objections and made the six months' basic training program a requirement for National Guard enlistees, we gave it our unqualified support. Now they tell us there is not enough money to support the program they were so insistent be established.

"Last spring the Defense Department agreed that Guard strength would not be allowed to fall below 400,000. Now the figure of 400,000 has been established as the maximum, and we not only must deny enlistment to many applicants, but also may have to eliminate some men who are already members of the Guard."

Minnesota units have enlisted 1,089 men in the six months' training program in the past year. Applications for 550 additional men to enter the program in the next three months are on hand, according to records in the adjutant general's office. During the past year total Army Guard strength in Minnesota has increased from 8,130 to 9,259, the highest strength in its history.

Mercury in August Varies from 92 to 41

August, 1957, was a pleasant month in the Pennington county area but ended on a sour note for farmers who still have as part of the small grain harvest to finish.

Temperatures during the month started on a high note but dropped gradually as low as 58, August 27, when that figure was registered as the high for the day and a low of 41 was registered August 5 and 26 to remind local residents of the approaching autumn.

The highest temperature of the month was 92 on the 7th.

Rainfall totalled 3.18 inches, a far cry from the nearly eight inches that fell the same month of 1956. Hailstones as big as eggs, with heavy rain, and borne along by high winds fell August 30, 1956. The August, 1957 rains also came at a more opportune time than those of a year ago, when crops were later than this year's.

Here are the temperatures and precipitation for those who like to keep a record of passing weather:

Kratka 4-H Boys Tops at State Fair

Place First with Clean Grain Demonstration

The young 4-H'ers from the Kratka club in Pennington county captured the championship award in the clean grain program at the state fair, according to County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk.

David Parnow, twelve years old, and Stanley Olson, 13, got their purple ribbon on "Maintaining and marketing clean grain." With the increase of grain storage on farms, the importance of preventing grain contamination by rodents, birds, and seed treatments gains added significance.

In their demonstration the 4-H'ers showed the rodent proofing of storage facilities, the poisons used to control rats and mice, the cleaning up of rodent harboring rubbish, and prevention of bird contamination. Feed treated for smut and other diseases needs to be properly labeled and needs separate handling, they showed.

David Parnow is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Parnow and Stanley Olson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Olson.

Sunday School at Home New Project

Planned by Methodists for Home-bound Families

The Methodist Church will launch a new program on October 1 called CHURCH SCHOOL AT HOME. This is not a suggestion that people stay home from Sunday school on Sunday morning but an endeavor to reach the hundreds of families who cannot attend. Distance, poor roads, and inclement weather keep many parents from bringing their children to the church for Christian instruction on Sunday morning.

Under this new plan suitable graded Sunday school lesson leaflets and study booklets will be sent free to any family unable to attend a church school. There are special materials for each age group—Kindergarten, Primary, Junior, Junior-High and Youth. A quarterly publication will also be sent for the parents. It is hoped that parent will guide their children's study in the home.

Any family may enroll by sending their name and address and the ages and school grades of their children to Church School at Home, P. O. Box 871, Nashville, Tenn. There is no charge for this service. Those who enroll during September can begin their study with the first Sunday in October.

These materials are published by the Methodist Church but are not denominational in content. No effort will be made to influence members of other denominations to leave their churches. A similar project is sponsored by the Missouri Synod of the Lutheran Church.

Sportsmen Urged to Wage War on Skunks

Their first meeting of the fall season was held Wednesday evening in the city auditorium by the Pennington County Sportsmen's club, with Ray Johnson, president, in charge of the program.

The meeting was opened with a film about hunter-farmer relations. The film was made by the Red Wing Shoe Co. in cooperation with the Minnesota, South Dakota, and Missouri game and fish departments.

Johnson reported on his and Robert Larson's trip to the Minnesota Conservation Federation convention in Minneapolis last month, and also read a summary of the new game laws that go into effect with the coming hunting season.

Johnson also told those in attendance that Dr. Paul Wendt, Pennington county health officer, has treated several persons who have been bitten by rabid skunks recently and that Dr. Wendt has requested club members to shoot all skunks they see.

Johnson quoted Dr. Wendt as saying rabies can be prevented only by a series of inoculations and that there is no known cure. Unless all affected animals are destroyed the possibility of a serious rabies epidemic exists, was the statement given by Johnson. Skunks are not protected wildlife, he reminded the club members, adding that skunks are main carriers of the disease.

Other reports were given, one by Robert Farmes on duck banding operations this summer and another on the prospects for a successful grouse season in northern Minnesota, along with newly-opened hunting areas for sharptails.

Following adjournment lunch was served by Ole Ness, aided by other club members.

The Ada Athletics, behind the four-hit pitching of Paul Johnson, defeated Climax, 9 to 0, at Ada on Wednesday night in a regional Class 2B tournament baseball game. The game was originally scheduled for Sunday night, but the weather forced postponement of the tilt until last night.

Should Bagley win tonight's game, the tournament would be concluded and the Merchants would represent this region in the state meet. If Ada should win tonight, a seventh game would be necessary, and this game would be played at Ada on Saturday night.

'57 Welfare Levy Higher Than 1956

Welfare Budget Approved by Co. Board at $144,228

The Pennington county board at its September session Tuesday approved the budget set up for the welfare department for the coming year, but deferred action on other portions of the budget until the October meeting.

As approved, the welfare levy was fixed in the amount of $144,228.14, an increase of nearly $17,000 over the 1956 levy of $127,500, and involving an increase in the tax rate of approximately 3.4 mills, according to County Auditor C. W. Rodekuhr.

The board authorized the purchase from M. J. Stephenson of a tract of land in the village of Goodridge as the site for a county highway garage which will be moved back into the village from the John Hoffman farm south of the town.

An appropriation of $300 to cover incidental expenses was voted to the Pennington county committee arranging for local participation in the Minnesota statehood centennial in 1958.

TRF Cars Place First in 4 Speedway Races

It looked like it could have been Thief River Falls Day on the speedway last Sunday when local drivers took first place in four of the five events. Duane Manning led the field by turning in the best time trial—24 seconds—and by winning the second warm-up race; the Trophy race and the Feature event.

Sixteen cars, five from out-of-town turned out for the second program of stock car racing held on the newly constructed Thief River Falls Speedway.

One major mix-up occured on the track when three cars, two from Bemidji and one from Crookston, roared into the fourth turn all making a bid for the lead in the Trophy race. Although no one was injured the three cars were reported to have taken quite a beating.

The Northwestern Racing Association had planned a two-day racing program over the Labor Day week-end, but unfavorable weather prevented them from racing on Monday. Sunday's racing results:

3 fastest time trials—1, Duane Manning, car 32, 24 sec.; 2, "Red" Monroe, car 34, 24.5 sec.; 3, Duane Sevre, car 22, 25 sec.

Plastic Covers Cut Silage Loss

Chippewa County Farmer Reports Successful Use

Spoiled silage can almost be a thing of the past for the farmer who covers his silo with a sheet of inexpensive plastic.

Ray Salenga, farmer in Chippewa county has evidence to prove that statement. A sheet of polyvinyl plastic covering eliminated surface spoilage in his upright silo and kept it down to a bare minimum in his horizontal bunker silo last winter.

The plastic cover is so effective that Salenga says "it doesn't pay to use a bunker silo without it."

Salenga's experience agrees with recent findings made by University of Minnesota agronomists. Experiments show that either polyvinyl or polyethylene make good covering for upright and bunker silos.

Chippewa County Agent Gene Pilgram reports local farmers are following this practice, with good results.

Total surface spoilage often runs high in bunker silos, because there is more surface exposed to air than in an upright structure. Therefore, anything to keep air away from the surface will reduce spoilage. And plastic makes airtight covering possible.

Salenga built his 17 and 68-foot bunker silo a year ago. To make the wall airtight, he tarred them and covered them on the inside with sheets of plastic.

He used the same practice on top of silage in his upright silo.

By reducing spoilage, Salenga says, "I saved more than enough feed to pay for the cost of the plastic. I used to figure on 18 inches of spoiled silage when I opened the upright silo. And I can use the same plastic at least another year and maybe for a third year." He has a roof over his bunker silo, meaning the plastic there wasn't weakened by sun rays.

[illegible] woolen jackets [illegible] play an important role in summer wardrobes in this air-conditioned area, a treatment to make light-colored summer wools machine-washable would be a distinct advantage.

Such a treatment now shows promise in U. S. Department of Agriculture research. The process, which is still being tested and perfected, eliminates felting, most common cause of wool shrinkage.

Extension clothing specialists at the University of Minnesota [illegible] first [illegible] cool water; then work glycerine or a soapless shampoo into the stain, rubbing it lightly between the hands. Let it stand for several hours; then apply a few drops of vinegar, and after 30 minutes [illegible] two rinse thoroughly [illegible]. Avoid using soap and don't use boiling water on peach, pear, cherry or plum stains.

It's [illegible] Grandmother was famous for her fruit conserves and preserves. Today you can match her fame—and even surpass it—with much less effort. A U. S. Department of Agriculture bulletin, just off the press, "How to Make Homemade Jellies, Jams, and Preserves at Home," offers newer time-saving ways of making jellies and jams that allow for a wider choice of fruit, more fully ripe flavor and more variety in fruit spreads. The bulletin explains in detail all the steps in making jams and jellies and gives many good recipes. You can get a copy of the bulletin from the county extension office.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear wife, mother and grandmother, Mrs. Dora Anderson, who passed away one and year ago:

Softly the stars are shining, upon a precious grave, beneath it lies the one we deeply loved, but whom we could not save;

Friends may think we have forgotten, when at times, they see us smile;

Sadly missed by Henry Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Anderson, Gary and Ronald. 1171p

Loan Easier When Added To Mortgage

Thinking of re-roofing your home, adding a room, finishing an attic, or making some other major improvement?

If so, it may pay you to find out if you can get an open-end mortgage loan, one of the least expensive and most convenient ways to borrow money for [illegible].

An open-end mortgage is one which enables the homeowner, after he has repaid part of the principal of the mortgage on his house, to borrow more money from the mortgage holder and have this additional advance made part of the original interest rate.

According to a study by the U. S. Savings & Loan League, lending institutions in 32 states can safely make an additional advance under an open-end mortgage without a new title search.

Other States Liberal

Four states—Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, and Pennsylvania—require a title search but do permit additional advances. The remaining 12—Delaware, Tennessee, South Dakota, Kansas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Wyoming, Arizona, New Mexico, Idaho, Utah, and New Mexico—have no final legal definition, but court decisions generally are in favor of giving additional advance the status of the first lien to protect the lending institution.

One reason for many original mortgaging institutions favor open-end mortgage loans is that most home improvements, such as a new roof of asphalt shingles or insulating with mineral wool actually increases the value of the house.

Protects, Beautifies

A new roof, for example, protects the house from weather, adding to its lifetime, and the colorful asphalt shingles boost resale value of the house by making it more attractive.

Lending institutions are generally enthusiastic about the owner's desire to insulate with mineral wool, since this insulation helps cut down fuel bills, often as much as 40 percent, and the savings can be added to mortgage payments.

For the same reason, lenders favor loans for storm sash which help have heating fuel, make a house more comfortable, and increase its value.

Prowler Eleven Plays Fergus Falls Friday

Coach Joe Mrkonich's Prowlers [illegible] play on their eight-game 1957 football schedule, and play the first of their five home games when, on Friday night on the new athletic field, they meet coach Norm Galloway's Fergus Falls Otters.

In last season's game between the two clubs, and which was played at Fergus Falls, the Otters, scoring all of their points in the first half, defeated the Prowlers, 21 to 0. That Fergus Falls team, which won rating among the state's top ten, had [illegible] seniors and one junior, center Wagner, on the starting lineup.

While the Prowler coaches, Mrkonich and assistant Ralph [illegible], haven't made a definite decision as to starting lineup for the blue-and-gold on Friday night, it is highly probable that the offensive lineup will be like this: right end, Ken DeLap; left end, Dave Hanson; right tackle, Bob Jorstad; left tackle, Larry Gausen; right guard, Harold Proshle or Ken [illegible]; center, Jim Nelson; quarterback, Phil Hanson; left halfback, Dave Rasmussen; right halfback, Lynn Nicholson; and fullback, Jim Bennes.

In the defensive pattern of the Prowlers, Don Litstrom, Orvis Nelson, and Sauve will see action.

Of this group of boys named to the offensive lineup, all except Hanson and Jorstad were lettermen last year. And Dave Hanson, who did not play football last season, was a letterman in his sophomore year. Litstrom, Sauve and Orvis Nelson also were lettermen last year.

Kickoff time for Friday night's tilt will be at 8:00 p.m.

Prowler Lineup For Friday's Opening Game

Tomorrow night the 1957 football season will get under way when the Lincoln Prowlers take on the Fergus Falls Otters at 8 p.m. on the Prowler field.

Trap Shooting Tournament Is Slated Sunday

TRF Trap Club Sets up Numerous Prizes for Competition

A trap shoot tournament will be held on Sunday, Sept. 8th, at the Thief River Trap Club's attractive layout north of town. The traps will be open at 10:00 a.m. with competitive shooting expected to start at that time.

The feature event on the day's program will be the 50-bird competition, with $50.00 added money to be distributed to the winners. The entry fee, in addition to the cost of the shells, will be $2.00 per entry, and of this amount $1.00 will be allotted to the prize money pool. In addition, for those shooters wishing to compete, there will be an "option" arrangement, and these shooters will pay an entry fee of $5.00. This money will be earmarked for the "option" competition.

There will be no limit on the number of times a shooter may enter the 50-bird event, paying the entry fee on each occasion. The prize money distribution will be on a 40%, 30%, 20%, and 10% basis. And in the awarding of the prize money, the Lewis system will be in vogue, with at least eight entries in each class.

In addition, to the shooters entering the 50-bird events more than once, there will be a special prize award on the high 100 targets.

In addition to this feature event, there will be the customary merchandise shoots, at 25 targets with an entry fee of $1.00. The Lewis system will also be in use for this event, with the scores of the 50-bird and practice rounds being eligible for the prizes.

While the regular league schedule was concluded with last

The Opener

For the Prowler football lettermen who faced the Fergus Falls Otters at the Fair Grounds field in Fergus Falls last Sept. 7th, and were beaten, 21 to 0, there's some comfort in the knowledge that ten of those Otters starters have graduated. Included in this list of Otter graduates were such stellar footballers as fullback Chuck Weiss, halfbacks Jack Halland and John Hamlon, quarterback Chuck Severn. This quartet provided the Otters with a high-powered offense. The Otter line lost six of their seven starters, and that included burly tackle Marc Kiewel.

Joe Mrkonich and Dick Edlund of the Prowler coaching staff, made the trip to Fergus Falls on Tuesday night and witnessed the Otters in their opener against Pelican Rapids. Fergus won by a 28 to 6 score, and that score should be a fair warning for the Prowlers.

While the Fergus Falls players, individually, probably won't be "hopped" up about the Prowler game to the extent that the Otters are when they meet such traditional rivals as Detroit Lakes and Moorhead, you can be sure that the Fergus Falls coach, Norm Galloway, will be. Galloway was the "big bear" of the Bemidji Lumberjacks back in the 1930's, and he relished nothing more than to defeat the Prowlers. He'll try to "fire up" his squad for Friday night's tilt here.

Kickoff time for Friday night's game will be at 8:00 P. M.

Golf Week

As far as the local golfers, men's division, is concerned, this week, from Sept. 8th through Sept. 15th, can be designated as "golf week." It's the week of the city golf sweepstakes. It's the week of the Calcutta auction. It's the week of the city golf championship tournament.

Play in the various flights is scheduled to begin on Sunday, Sept. 8th, and the finals matches, if action progresses as expected, will be held on Sunday, Sept. 15th.

Rudy Mehlhoff, the city champion, will make a sturdy defense of his title, but the odds are against him. Rudy hasn't played much golf this season, and golf, especially of the championship flight caliber, requires much practice and competition.

To make Rudy's task the more difficult, there are a number of "tigers" willing and able to win the city championship. Among these are such players as Jerry Tygeson and Stan Larson, both of whom have won the title in previous years, John Moum, John Matchefts, Phil LeGault, Wally DuChamp, Lloyd Bennes, Bill Watzke, and Bob Wurst.

It should be an interesting week of golf.

And speaking of golf, isn't it uncanny how Crookston's Ernotte Hiller can keep his golf game at a championship flight level? Year in and year out, lame back and all, Ernotte is the golfer to beat come tournament time.

Ernotte and Hawley's Vint McDonald are the finalists in the annual Red River Valley golf tournament played at Crookston this week-end. The tournament was scheduled to have been concluded on Monday afternoon, but the heavy rains forced postponement of the finals match.

Ernotte, who was captain of the University of Minnesota golf team in 1933, was the medalist in this year's Red River Valley tourney. That's not unusual. In his first two matches it is reported that Ernotte was 8-under-par for the twenty-two holes needed to close out the matches.

Geography Lesson

Several times this past summer we have had occasion to mention the Prichards, their experiences on the Lake of the Woods, and their cabin at the lake. In each instance we have located their cabin as being on Magnussen's island. That is not true.

We were subjected to a brief orientation course, complete with ruler and compass, and learned that the Prichard cabin is situated on American Point island. Magnussen's island, tho, is nearby.

There is some solace in the fact that with 14,000 islands in the vast Lake of the Woods area, we were able to select an island that was within hailing distance of the Prichard cabin on American Point island. If a voyageur can find Magnussen's island, he can find American Point island.

End of geography lesson.

Chickens Aplenty

While the wisdom of the state game and fish department in declaring an open season on sharptailed and ruffed grouse is subject to debate, it's a fact that there will be plenty of chickens available at the trap shoot on Sunday.

The tournament officials stated that "chicken shoots" will be held in conjunction with the trap shoot tournament that is being conducted here on Sunday.

From our observation, and judging by the reports of several game-bird scouts, the chances of getting chickens will be greater on Sunday than they will be on Saturday, Sept. 21st, when the game-bird season opens.

Region 2B Tourney Hampered by Rain

Baseball Playoffs at Ada to Wind up Shortly

The Region 2B baseball tournament in progress at Ada has been hampered by weather problems, and the result is that the tourney will not be completed until mid-week. The tournament was slated to have been completed on Monday, but the heavy rains prevented the scheduled games for Sunday night, and Monday afternoon.

In the two games that were played during the week-end, on Saturday night and Sunday afternoon, the Bagley Merchants and Ada turned in victories.

In a Saturday night tilt, Bagley of the Northern Minny league, behind the steady pitching of righthander Stan Otness, a draft choice from Fosston, defeated Climax of the Dakota-Red River league, 11 to 3.

In a Sunday afternoon game, and which found the loser being eliminated from the tournament, the home-standing Ada Athletics defeated the Warren club of the Red River Valley loop, 5 to 1.

Remaining in contention for the regional title are the Bagley Merchants with two wins and no losses, Climax with a win and a loss, and Ada with a win and a loss. Climax and Ada are paired in an elimination game, and the winner will meet Bagley.

City Golf Tourney to Start Sunday, Sept. 8

Rudy Mehlhoff will be on hand to make a defense of his city golf title when, starting on Sunday, Sept. 8th, the local golf club conducts its annual city-wide tournament.

According to tournament chairman Don Olson, the tourney this year will be conducted in a slightly different manner than customarily. This is being done to accommodate the greatest number of golfers. The date has been purposely set back to avoid vacations and other conflicts.

With a week-long deadline, no golfer need play more than 18 holes in one day.

Here is the complete information concerning the tournament: championship flight—if a golfer wishes to participate in the championship flight he must play 18 holes of qualifying play, and he must declare his qualifying intent before starting his qualifying rounds. If a 16-man flight is necessary, the first round losers will be placed in the first flight. All matches will be 18 holes, all matches except the finals will be played during the week beginning Sept. 8th and closing Sept. 14th. The championship flight finals will be played on Sept. 15th.

In the flight competition, the matches will be nine holes. One match is to be played between Sept. 8th and Sept. 14th and the remaining two matches in the flights to be played on Sept. 15th.

There will be a flight to choose a Junior club champion. All golfers who have not yet graduated from high school will be placed in this flight. An entry fee of $2.00 per player will be charged, and appropriate prizes will be awarded.

In the tournament proper, the entry fee will be $3.25 per player. This price will include one dinner ticket for the Saturday evening banquet. Extra tickets for the dinner may be purchased at a price of $1.50 per person. Entry fees and entry scores must be reported to Don Olson, tournament chairman, by 6:00 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 7th.

A Calcutta party, dinner and dance will be held at the club house on Saturday, Sept. 7th. Tickets will be $1.50 per person. Each entrant in the tournament will get a dinner ticket with his entry fee.

Statewide Pheasant Season to Open Oct. 19

In St. Paul today, Clarence Prout, acting conservation commissioner announced a sixteen day statewide hunting season on pheasants.

The season will open at noon on October 19, the previously established opening date and run through November 3, both dates inclusive. Daily bag and possession limits are three and six, cock birds only.

A new law, Chapter 666, passed by the 1957 Legislature makes it mandatory for pheasant hunters to receive landowner permission before entering upon lands producing crops or containing domestic livestock. This in effect gives landowners the right to set shooting hours on their lands, or to not allow hunting at all. Landowners can also regulate the number of hunters allowed to hunt on their lands.

Because of this new law, conservation officials have adopted a 10:00 a.m. opening hour on the days following the opening day.

A statewide brood census conducted in mid-August by department personnel revealed pheasant populations comparing favorably with a previous five year average, and only slightly below last year's population levels. Counties in the prime pheasant range show populations substantially the same as last year. Flooded counties have shown a decline. Kandiyohi County appears hardest hit and game officials have scheduled a fall and spring stocking to aid in restoring the population in this county. Some 15,000 pheasants are being produced for emergency stocking in local areas hardest hit by flood waters.

Hunters were cautioned, however, to expect the possibility of poor hunting conditions on the opening weekend. Farmers report that because of a late growing season this year, much of the corn will not have been picked when the season opens. A late pheasant hatch has resulted in many immature birds being present. Young male birds, especially, will not have colored up well and may be difficult to distinguish from hens.

In addition, unpicked corn fields and a lush weed growth will provide ample cover for birds making it difficult for hunters to flush them out. Whereas in normal years 60-75 percent of the total birds harvested are taken on the opening two days, the outlook is for a somewhat lower kill this fall on opening days, due to these unfavorable conditions.

The season on quail will open at noon, October 19, and begin at 10:00 AM on all other days through November 10, both dates inclusive. The zone open for quail hunting will be the same as last year, being that portion of the state lying east fo the following described boundary: Beginning on U. S. Highway 63 at the east boundary of the state at Red Wing; to State Highway 58; along State Highway 58 to Zumbrota; along U. S. Highway 52 to Rochester; and along U. S. Highway 63 to the southern boundary of the state. A bag and possession limit of 5 and 10 has been set for quail.

Hungarian partridge may be taken statewide beginning at noon on October 19 and 10:00 a.m. on all days following, through November 10, both dates inclusive. A bag and possession limit of 3 and 6 has been established for this species.

$1,332,000 Highway Bids Are Received

3 Interstate Network Projects Are Included

For 10 projects to improve 52 miles of trunk highways in nine counties, including three projects for interstate network routes, the Minnesota Highway department has received apparent low bids totaling $1,332,502, State Highway Commissioner L. P. Zimmerman reported today. Letting of contracts will follow checking of the bids, with three contracts already awarded.

Of the three interstate projects, two are for three grade separation bridges north of St. Paul and the third is for 8.4 miles of gravel base and bituminous surfacing between Sauk Centre and Melrose.

The seven non-network projects include more than 46 miles of grading and bituminous surfacing in Clay, Otter Tail, Koochiching and Pipestone counties, street lighting for six intersections in Winona and three traffic control signal systems in Robbinsdale and Proctor.

For the fabrication and delivery of steel for two bridges to carry Interstate Route 393, the Twin Cities circumferential link, under the Soo Line railroad tracks at two points near Rice St. at Cardigan Junction, north of St. Paul, the apparent low bid of $523,349 was submitted by the St. Paul Structural Steel Co. of St. Paul. Construction of the bridges will be covered in a later contract. In money, this was the largest of the 10 apparent low bids.

The Sheehy Construction co., St. Paul, submitted the apparent low bid of $217,349 for construction of the third bridge, a 234-foot long pre-stressed concrete girder span structure to carry Route 393 under Rice St., just north of St. Paul.

The third interstate network project, on which the Fischer Construction Co., Farmington, submited the apparent low bid of $229,606 is for the construction of 8.4 miles of gravel base and bituminous surfacing on the present two-lane T. H. 52 between Sauk Centre and Melrose. This is to be part of the future east-west four-lane Interstate across Minnesota from the Wisconsin border, east of the Twin Cities, to Moorhead, on the North Dakota boundary.

HAROLD PATTEN TO SPEAK AT ST. JOHN'S NEXT SUNDAY

Mr. Patten will resume his studies at the seminary, later this month.

Drivers Asked to Look out for Kids

Hazards Increase with Reopening of Schools

Once again, as cool weather moves into the area, and the month of September appears on the calendar, school opens in many towns and districts throughout Minnesota. The Minnesota highway department and state safety council points out that school openings mean an increase in the number of children on the streets and highways, also the reappearance of numerous school buses.

Motorists throughout the state are cautioned by the safety leaders to be on the lookout for these buses and their passengers. All cars must stop for school buses when they are discharging or loading passengers, according to the law. This includes those cars on a two-lane highway which meet the school bus or overtake it from the rear.

"Children are often thoughtless and careless and it is necessary for motorists to exercise extreme caution when driving in the vicinity of schools, playgrounds, or wherever young people are found," says a joint safety message from the highway department and the safety council.

"It should also be remembered that children can help prevent accidents. They too, can do their part to back the attack on traffic accidents. Parents should be sure their children know the safest, shortest route to and from school. It should be a route which takes advantage of as many traffic controls as possible, including traffic lights, patrolmen and the School Safety patrol. Young people should realize that the school patrol is working for the safety of all, and should obey the patrol members as they would an adult police officer."

Motorists, too, are warned to be on their guard for the school safety patrol members. Their presence indicates nearness of school children, and drivers should obey the signals of the patrol members, the message says. The standard signal now used by the school patrol is a large red flag on a staff. It carries in its center a yellow and black octagonal stop sign with the words "School" and "Patrol."

But Speak Softly

The disarmament talks in London are bogging down, and that is not surprising. It may be better they failed outright than to have resulted in a meaningless agreement which would have served only to weaken us by a false sense of security.

No disarmament program can be successful unless there is sincerity and understanding and confidence among the contracting parties. From our sidelines seat we get the impression that the London talks have been mostly double-talk, with the usual [illegible] counter charges that generally [illegible] of Red and anti-Red [illegible].

And we wonder if there isn't too much [illegible] rattling at the present time to justify hope for the success of any peace negotiations. We are constantly announcing to the world new progress in the development of weapons of destruction. Our huffing and puffing about our greater ability to blow the enemy's house down is interrupted only by the enemy's huffing and puffing about his greater ability to blow our house down.

Teddy Roosevelt's idea how to get along with disagreeable neighbors was to talk softly but carry a big stick. Right now most of us will agree that we do need a very big stick. But maybe we would get along better, and with less likelihood of being called on to use that big stick, if we talked with [illegible].

Noteworthy Occasion

On Sunday the long-looked-forward-to dial telephone service will be started in Thief River Falls, and that is a noteworthy occasion. It is just another instance of the machine providing what has been a manual service, and that is not an unusual occurrence in itself. This particular change is noteworthy mainly because it affects us directly, and the benefits of improved service will be [illegible] to us and appreciated immediately.

The immediate benefit of dial service will be speedier local service. The long range benefit will be speedier long-distance communication. All parts of the country will be just a few spins of the dial away from us, almost as close as the neighbor across the street.

It is natural to wonder, on an occasion of this kind, if the machine is going to put people out of work. A few employees no doubt will be affected adversely, but in the [illegible] more will be benefitted. The coming of [illegible] make [illegible] of work, but the auto industry soon [illegible] employment for [illegible] times the number who lost their jobs because horsepower became available in a new form.

It is reasonable to assume that because of the improved service the telephone companies are providing the industry will continue to grow, and as that service becomes relatively more important in our economy, a larger percentage of our people will be employed in the service and in all of its related activities.

Double Responsibility

Schools are in session again and that means there will be many more youngsters on the streets again, for which reason we remind you again that it is time to drive extra carefully again. One safe rule to follow, when you see a youngster who could be in danger if he did not do the right thing, is to assume that he is going to do the wrong thing and will be in danger.

These youngsters are preoccupied. They have many things to think about that are far more important than their own personal safety. Which means that we have a double responsibility in being careful, theirs and ours.

Congress Disappointing?

President Eisenhower is unhappy because Congress approved only a small portion of the legislation he proposed. We do not share his disappointment. On the contrary we think it is always encouraging when a legislative body exercises its constitutional right of deciding for itself what the laws shall be.

It is becoming quite common for chief executives, both presidents and governors, to present a program of legislation in the form of an executive order. It is not unusual for chief executives to resort to pressure tactics in attempts to force individual legislators into subservience. And chief executives have means at their disposal for punishing those who are not "cooperative." It certainly is not a thing to be disturbed about, therefore, when any law-making body maintains its independence and resists executive pressure.

A chief executive does have considerable responsibility in the lawmaking procedure. It is his duty to call attention to special problems and unusual needs. He is well within his rights in recommending what he believes to be proper legislative action, and because of the special sources of information that are available to him, his recommendations deserve special consideration. And by the veto power he has the authority to reject legislation which he believes to be contrary to the public interest.

But the public interest is not served when the legislative branch yields to executive branch pressure against its own better judgment, in deciding what the laws shall be.

The rights and responsibilities of each of the three branches of our government are clearly defined, and the public is best served when each branch concentrates on the business for which it alone is responsible, and respects the right and the duty of the other branches to function independently.

Behind a Statistic

(Wall Street Journal)

The Canadian dollar has climbed to record levels in terms of U. S. dollars.

The popular reason for this shift about is that heavy American and British investment in Canada has created a "shortage" of Canadian dollars in the foreign exchange markets. But there are some reasons for that heavy investment demand, too.

Canada is of course a country rich in such natural resources as minerals and timber. Beyond that, however, it is rich in something else. It is one country which has reduced its debt instead of increasing it. It has cut taxes. When its Conservative party moved into power a few weeks ago, it replaced a Liberal party which had followed fiscal policies more conservative than those of the Republican Party in the U. S.

Foreign exchange rates certainly aren't any definitive reflector of national characteristics. But they do have a very special aspect to them. [illegible] represent a collective, [illegible] interested expression of world opinion. When a man lays out his cash for a pound or a franc or a dollar, he is indicating what he really thinks rather than what he says he thinks.

For that reason we find the climb in the Canadian dollar worth pondering. If it seems to say to us that the greatest natural resource of Canada is common sense, it is perhaps that we see too little of it in our own country.

Color of Your Eyes Decides Degree of Color You Prefer

How does your coloring—your eyes, your skin—affect your preferences for color in your home?

"Markedly," says Margaret Hargreaves, one of the West Coast's leading home color stylists. "People with lighter eyes and skin prefer colors which are more subdued, while people with dark eyes and complexions like sharp, strong colors."

Physiologically, Miss Hargreaves points out, the reason is that colors seem to register more vividly in light eyes than they do in dark eyes.

As an example, Miss Hargreaves cites large developments in Southern California built in areas primarily inhabited by Californians of Mexican descent.

"From the asphalt shingle roof down, and throughout the houses, sharp colors and bright pastels have been demanded consistently by these home buyers.

"Conversely, studies have shown that light-eyed, light-complexioned buyers in other developments almost invariably choose quiet, monochromatic color schemes."

These buyers says Miss Hargreaves, also like colorful roofs but prefer colors such as a soft, blended green in asphalt shingles, or deep browns or quite grays.

"Generally, since most of our color schemes start with the roof," says the color stylist, "this means that other colors, inside and out, will follow the roof color.

"For instance, a deep brown roof would mean a harmonizing beige or a soft yellow on the siding, one of at least 100 shades of brown on the trim, and perhaps an accent in a blend of greens on doors, window boxes, shutters and the like.

"Inside, we'd pick up the yellows and beiges, possibly make the draperies match the roof, and use touches of an easy-going orange or a soft green for interior accent colors, usually in paintings, a slip cover or two, or bric-a-brac.

"But builders would go broke," Miss Hargreaves says, "if they tried to sell a color scheme like this to most families of Latin-American descent. They want accent colors to be dominating in the scheme, and as long as they don't clash, the sharper the better."

Miss Hargreaves readily admits that some doctors "may want to give me an argument" on her theories, but points out that they are based on years of observation by professionals in the color field.

"Probably the best examples are in Europe where color preferences are sharply defined by national boundries," says the color sylist. "Spain and Italy are sunny, all right, but they're made to seem even sunnier by natural preferences for sharper colors, while England, nothern France and Germany tend to seem gloomy by comparison."

Noted Marksman at Safety Parley

Sgt. Benner to Perform in Minneapolis Sept. 7

Master Sergeant Joe Benner, world and national pistol champion, will be one of the outstanding guests at the Governor's Firearms Safety Conference, Saturday, September 7 at the Leamington Hotel, Minneapolis it was announced today by Lee Kuluvar, firearms safety chief.

Currently West Point pistol coach, Joe Benner is recognized as the most outstanding pistol shot of the century and in the opinion of experts would undoubtedly make the gun slingers of the old west look like pikers. He has captured all five of the national pistol championships which includes the "Individual Championship" won at the national matches, last week, at Camp Perry, Ohio.

A three time member of the U. S. Olympic pistol team, he is the only man to hold the worlds title three times and thus receive the title of World Champion. Benner has set a total of 52 national pistol records, more than any other individual.

Firearms safety instructors from throughout the state, who will be attending the conference, will have an opportunity to hear and see Benner in person at the conference where he is scheduled on the banquet program attended by 1,800 instructors last year.

Lee Kuluvar made this special announcement today, "The general public is invited to see the gun exhibit that is held in connection with the conference. This large exhibit of guns and allied hunting equipment will be open Friday evening, September 6, from 6:30 to 10:30 p.m. and Saturday form 10:00 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Joe Benner and the many other special guests will be present at the exhibit hall to greet the spectors and instructors."

Hunting License Must Bear Stamp

Small Game Hunters Are Reminded of State Law

"Be sure you have a wildlife acquisition surcharge stamp affixed to your 1957 small game hunting licesen," reminds Arthur Emme, assistant chief warden of the Minnesota conservation department.

The $1.00 surcharge stamp must be affixed to all 1957 small game hunting licenses as a result of action taken by the recent legislature. The revenue derived from the surcharge was designated by the Legislature to be used for the purchase of wildlife lands.

The licenses were printed and distributed however, before the surcharge was added. For this reason, a special stamp must be affixed to the license this year, bringing the total cost to $3.00 instead of $2.00.

Emme warned hunters that these stamps must be affixed to the license or the hunter will be violating the law and subject to prosecution. Any Nimrods who purchased their 1957 licenses before the new law passed must bring the license to the county auditor or his agents and pay an additional dollar for the stamp.

LITTLE WOMAN

Little girls seem to be "natural-born" little women, right from the start.

Laura washes for her dollies just as seriously as if she were tending a "real-life" family. She likes to bake tiny cakes and cookies too, and she has her own way of enforcing discipline when her dollies are "naughty."

Sometimes I'm amazed by her, even if I am her mother. And I am awed at the way God fashioned little girls, so that from the beginning they seem to sense that one day they will be mothers themselves.

When I take Laura to Church with me, she's such a little lady, demure and yet amazingly intent for one her age. I look at her. I see one of God's miracles, and I marvel anew. Watching a child grow is a perpetual lesson in Faith.

Sometimes after Church Laura lines her dolls up on a bench. She tells me that "the dollies are in church,"—and I don't feel in the least like chuckling at her childish antics. Rather, I am grateful.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Few Days Left for Voting ASC Election

Thursday, Sept. 12 Is Deadline for Return of Ballots

Only three days remain for farmers to cast their ballots in the annual Pennington County ASC election of community committeemen who will administer the price-support, acreage allotment, soil bank and cost-sharing conservation programs on the township level the next 12 months.

Each of the 1,300 farm owners, operators, landlords and tenants eligible to vote in the elections in Pennington county has been mailed a ballot listing the candidates for community committeemen in his township. The actual counting will take place on Sept. 14.

To be elected in each township are three ASC community committeemen and two alternate committee members. The candidate who receives the greatest number of votes will be chairman of the township or community committee, and the one receiving the next highest number of votes will serve as vice-chairman. The third member and the first and second alternates will be similarly named on the basis of number of votes received.

The newly elected chairman and vice-chairman in each township will automatically become delegate and alternate delegate to the county convention at which the county ASC committee for the next 12 months will be named.

All newly elected county and community committeemen will begin their one-year terms on October 1.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend the meetings, whether they be municipal officials, county officials, state legislators or just interested citizens.

Questions may be asked by anyone considering any phase of local government, and those in attendance are free to interject comments about their experience with the problem at hand. Also helping with the answers to questions are C. C. Ludwig, League Executive Secretary and moderator at the meetings, Orville C. This Is What You Helped Buy

That's right, you helped purchase the equipment in the above picture: 16 wheel chairs, one resuscitator, and some two dozen assorted crutches. The equipment was purchased by the local fire department with money it obtained through the sale of magazine subscriptions. Fire chief Roy Langevin (picture) is asking your help again when they launch their annual magazine subscription campaign next week. The equipment obtained during the last 16 years from the sale of magazines is available to all people in the county. This year the department hopes to purchase more portable wheel chairs.

Dial Phone Equipment Viewed by Officials

A group of 30 or more persons, including local officials and heads of various organizations, as well as officials of the N. W. Bell Telephone company, Thursday evening took part in a tour of the new building housing dial telephone equipment which went into use Sunday, and also were guests at a dinner in the Elks club rooms.

The guests were introduced at the dinner by Al Bacon, manager of the local exchange. Principal speaker was W. L. Huffman, vice president and general manager of the N. W. Bell company, who foresaw many future developments in the telephone industry.

Mayor O. D. Rich spoke briefly, commending the company for its enterprise in making the substantial investment necessary to provide this city with the most modern type of equipment. The invocation was offered by the Rev. E. O. Mead and the benediction by the Rev. Keough Patnode.

It was pointed out that dial equipment, now serving more than 3,300 telephones in this community, has been installed at a cost of more than $800,000. Fifty employes, representing an annual payroll of $215,000, are headquartered in Thief River Falls.

On the average day, more than 16,500 local calls are handled here, in addition to which the new ten-position switchboard handles 3,000 long-distance calls daily, with ample additional capacity as needs increase.

Oklee Boy, 4, Killed in Unusual Mishap

Rodney Bachand Hit by Falling Bobsled in Barn

A tragic accident among children at play claimed the life of a four-year-old Oklee boy last Monday afternoon, says the Oklee Herald.

Rodney Antonio Bachand, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Bachand, died in surgery at Red Lake Falls of a severe head injury suffered when a bob sled, leaning against the wall in the Paquin barn, crashed to the floor. The boy was caught in the crash and a front sled runner struck his head.

He was rushed to Red Lake Falls for medical attention where doctors attempted to save his life by performing a cardiac massage. However, he was in a severe state of shock and passed away in a short time.

Rodney is survived by his parents and three brothers, Howard, Jerome and John, and two sisters, Eileen and Marilyn, as well as his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Antoine Bachand.

U. S. Employes Pay Increase Vetoed by Ike

President Terms as Inflationary Bills to Raise Salaries

Area postal workers and other government employees were disappointed when President Eisenhower vetoed on inflationary grounds two bills designed to increase salaries of 1,500,000 postal and civil service employes. The president's action, however, was not unexpected.

He said the bills that called for a yearly pay boost of 850 million dollars would contribute unnecessarily to "existing and incipient inflationary pressures in our national economy."

Mr. Eisenhower gave these four other reasons for withholding approval of the measures passed in the closing days of the session of Congress just adjourned.

"They are not justified by considerations of equity; they would materially accentuate existing disparities in the pay scales; they would increase total federal expenditures so as to make large supplemental appropriations necessary; they would increase the rate of federal expenditure so as to require in all probability an increase in the statutory debt limit."

One bill would have given an 11 per cent raise to some one million classified civil service, congressional and judicial employes. The other carried a $546 annual increase—an average of 12½ per cent—for some 500,000 postal workers.

Republican leaders predicted Mr. Eisenhower would veto the bills when congress passed them by lopsided margins last month. Some sources said smaller increases might be approved next session, especially if congress raises postal rates to help pay for them.

Auto Plate Sale Not to Open Until November 15th

In former years Oct. 1 was the first day for re-registration and Nov. 15 was the final date for application without penalty.

Hundreds of Prizes Offered by TRF Firms

The Cut Was Made At 1:50 a.m.

It was a historic moment when members of the phone company made the cut at 1:50 a.m. Sunday morning. Crew members, Joe Cummings, front; Vern Olson, John Holsinger and Dave Jackson, pulled the fuses on the switchboard located above the Union State bank. Seconds later another crew stationed at the Northwestern Bell building reached out and pulled the "Skivvies" (small plugs) from the relays in the new dial phone system. In a matter of seconds the change was made . . . and 3,000 subscribers became their own telephone operators.

Treasure hunters will have no difficulty in finding the number printed in this publication. It is here on the front page. Clip it and carry it with you to your [illegible] fortune.

Mahnomen Man's Car Hit by Train

Auto Is Demolished, but Driver Escapes Injury

A Mahnomen area man escaped injury Saturday afternoon when the car was hit by a Great Northern train at a crossing between Mahnomen and Ada, according to the Highway patrol.

The patrol reported Keith R. Johnson walked away from the wreck without the slightest injury, although the car he was driving was completely demolished.

The car was first hit in the right front, spun around by the impact and hit again in the left rear, after which it was dragged some distance by the train.

Somehow Johnson got out of the wreck, which was a miracle, the patrol stated, considering the condition of the car which was scattered along the right-of-way.

No charges have been filed, according to Capt. Walter Anderson of the highway patrol office here. He said the crossing is a dangerous one because of poor visibility and lack of automatic signals.

Rosalie Koralewski, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor and she wore a pink ballerina length gown. The bridesmaids, Ardyce Troska, cousin of the bride, and Rosemary Guzek, sister of the groom were identical gowns to that of the matron of honor in blue and yellow respectively. They carried cascade bouquets of pink roses and white feathered carnations. Their pearl earrings were gifts from the bride.

Mary Kostrzewski, cousin of the bride, and Carol Cota, cousin of the groom, were the flower girls. Their gowns were fashioned identical to the bride's and they carried baskets of white daisies.

Bernard Huot, friend of the couple was bestman and the groomsmen were Valerian Koralewski, brother of the bride, and Robert Cota, cousin of the groom. The groom and his attendants were attired in white dinner jackets with dark pink carnation boutonnieres. The ushers were Donald Seifert and Leo Cota.

Mrs. Koralewski, mother of the bride, chose a blue lace dress with white accessories and Mrs. Guzek, mother of the groom, wore a pink lace dress with white accessories. Their corsages were of pink roses and white feathered carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was given in the church parlors by the bride's mother with 200 guests present. The bridal table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. Lawrence Ecklund cut and served the cake and Mrs. Harvey Mercil, aunt of the groom, poured.

Mrs. Edward Cota registered the guests and the gifts were arranged by Mrs. Robert Rendorf and Pat Gryskiewicz, cousins of the bride.

Mrs. Guzek is a graduate of Lincoln high school and Mr. Guzek is a graduate of Lafayette high school in Red Lake Falls. Mr. Guzek is presently employed by the Westman Silo Company in Crookston where the couple will make their home.

Loralea Larson to Go to State Health Camp

Loralea Larson, 17, Thief River Falls, and a member of the Sanders 4-H club, has won a trip to the state 4-H Health Achievement camp for her record in the 4-H health activity, announces 4-H Club Assistant, Marilyn Belstad. She is the daughter of Mrs. Thelma Larson.

The camp will be held at the University of Minnesota's forestry ad biological station in Itasca State Park September 15-18.

More than 100 boys and girls, who will attend he camp from all parts of the state, were selected on the basis of their contributions toward improving health condition in their homes and communities, their personal health records and their ability to bring back useful health information to fellow club members.

The health camp is being sponsored for the fifth year by the University of Minnesota agricultural extension service in cooperation with the Minnesota Tuberculosis and Health association and the Minnesota state department of health. J. A. Folger and company is providing funds for the camp.

Three days of group workshop sessions in which 4-H members will participate will be devoted to planning the health programs in 4-H clubs, personal health habits and home sanitation for healthful living.

Audrey Gates, executive director, Council on Rural Health, American Medical association, will speak at the banquet September 17. Assemblies will feature special speakers who will talk to the group on subjects relating to health.

A highlight of the camp will be announcement of the 1957 health achievement winners — outstanding boy and girl in the state health activity.

Pennington county's representative at the health camp has many achievements to her credit in the 4-H health activity. As a 4-H group Loralea and her fellow 4-H members purchased first aid kits for each 4-H family in their club. The Sanders 4-H club bought Christmas Seals as well as giving contributions to the Polio Fund. Another activity of the club was to give the monthly lunch money to the March of Dimes.

Through her health activity Loralea makes sure of the sanitation and disease prevention control at the Larson home. This has been accomplished by good food preservation and preparation of food. Control of rats, mice, flies, and mosquitoes has also helped to keep their home sanitary. She has also given demonstrations on proper pasturization of milk, correct diets and many others. At the annual 4-H achievemet banquet last year Loralea's 4-H club received a health certificate for its service in the 4-H health activity.

Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

All the rain we've had this summer has turned out to be both a blessing and a curse to local gardeners. At least, as far as our own garden is concerned the moisture has stimulated terrific growth but retarded ripening of our tomatoes.

We may have vine-ripened tomatoes in a week or so, provided we don't have frost in the meantime. At this writing practically every window ledge in the house is packed with green tomatoes we've picked just in case an unexpected frost should come some night.

And, what are your troubles?

The big row down in Little Rock, Ark. seems more like a question of who's running the schools rather than a question of racial intergration, as far as we're concerned.

We think it's time somebody rapped the federal government's knuckles good and hard for poking into realms where, to us, it seems the federal government has no rightful business.

No, we aren't against intergration. (Just don't give a hoot either way!)

Daffynition: A liberal is a person who believes everyone should be given the same breaks even if it means breaking everyone in order to do so.

This inflation! We recently saw some toys made of iron or other metal weighing not much more than a silver half-dollar—and, you guessed it, they were priced at [illegible] cents.

Teen-agers are hard to understand. We've often wondered how come they cheer the orchestra rather than the music it plays.

The sidewalk supers had a field day recently when a water main in front of the post office sprung a leak after the heavy rains over the Labor Day weekend.

They didn't congregate like that last winter when a main broke just a few yards further down the same block!

Despite their offensive smell skunks are pretty little critters. But, in addition, to having a bad case of B.O., skunks are the best known carriers of rabies and have been responsible for several bad outbreaks.

There have been several cases in our rural areas recently and Dr. Rye, the veterinarian, has just completed a series of inocculation shots against rabies, after he treated some infected calves, so the Doc tells us.

We hear the shots are quite painful—so, if you don't want to have 14 expensive skin punctures you'd better be wary of cute little black and white kitties. They may bite!

In fact, Dr. Wendt, our county health officer says folks in these parts should shoot skunks on sight because of the known presence of rabies-infected little stinkers in the country. Let 'em lay, or don't get closer than a shovel-handle's length to 'em after you do shoot 'em either!

With that, we'll can this mad chatter. So long!

Sen. Humphrey's Newsletter

Congress Over

The opening half of the 85th Congress is now a part of history, the highway mark in a Congressional session that has already made historic progress. Enactment of meaningful civil rights legislation, for the first time since reconstruction days after the Civil War, marks this session as an outstanding one in our history. It took patience and persistence, but the fact that such legislation was enacted is a testimonial to effectivness of our legislative process when reason prevails.

More Achieved

Of course, we accomplished much more. We approved the International Atomic Energy Treaty, the only step that has been taken toward international control of the atom since atomic power was unleashed. Perhaps little attention was given this action publicly, yet it was one of the most important steps in foreign policy in many years—promising to convert the atom from an instrument of war to an implement of peace. We passed an extended and expanded Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act—another far-reaching step which benefits both our domestic economy and our foreign policy. We increased the borrowing authority of the St. Lawrence Seaway Corporation and passed the Niagara River power bill. We authorized a TVA expansion program, and an Atomic Energy Commission construction program including our long-sought Elk River REA Co-op Reactor in Minnesota; we also passed better housing legislation and veterans benefits. We passed an immigration bill—not one that went as far as I think we should go, and must eventually go, but one that still provides genuine relief in many instances.

Sound Economy

We answered the public's cry for economy, by cutting the President's budget request by five billion dollars—setting the stage for tax reductions at the next half of the session. Congress really worked to achieve its economies, searching and examining the budget, dollar by dollar, comma by comma, line by line. Some parts of it could not be touched. We had to pay the interest on the national debt; we had to meet the solemn obligations of our government to our veterans; we could not repudiate contracts made in good faith. But from the part of the budget subject to control of reasonable men, we reduced it by 9.1%. We kept faith with the taxpayer, and we kept it without cutting down on such vital services as health research and water conservation.

More Yet To Do

Altogether from January to August 30, 1,210 measures were passed by either the Senate, the House, or both. Perhaps the public fails to understand the time required in the careful scrutiny of the legislative process. Actually, it is remarkable that as much work could be completed in half a session. All bills not yet acted upon remain "live", however, as pending business when Congress reconvenes. Out of the 156 recommendations submitted by the President, for example, action has already been completed on 67 and only 15 remain upon which no action was taken. Others are either on the calendar or still awaiting final committee clearance after hearings.

Randy Gets New Lease On Life

Remember Randy Johnson? The six-year old son of Lloyd Johnson, the Middle River youth who underwent a major heart operation at the University of Minnesota hospitals seven weeks ago.

Well, he made it. For five hours a team of heart specialists operated on the lad. Handicapped by a congenital heart condition since birth he has never been able to play like a normal child.

He got his new lease on life. Randy and his mother (pictured above) returned from the University last Saturday night. The operation was a success and after one more trip to the "U" for a check-up in three weeks, Randy will start school. What does Randy think about it all: "It's sure nice to be home again."

Nearly 1,000 at Races at Speedway Sunday

Racing conditions were ideal at the Speedway yesterday; the track was hard and fast, and there was plenty of fast competition. The combination provided plenty of action and helped set some new records for the quarter-mile track.

Nearly 1,000 racing fans were in the bleachers when the 16 drivers, 12 from the city and four from North Dakota vied for pole positions during the time trails.

A new quarter-mile record for the newly constructed Thief River Speedway was set by Duane Manning when he qualified for pole position during the time trials with a 20.25 second round.

During the time trails, Scotty Nelson, a North Dakota driver making his first appearance on the track, caused a few tense moments for the fans when his car nearly left the track on the west turn coming within inches of a flip-over.

Again, the best ride of the day turned out to be the feature event. The entire field got off to a fast start, Bruce Kramer, driving his red "Q-Ball" from a pole position led the field going into the first turn. On the number three turn Duane Manning made a bid for the lead position. Both drivers [illegible] into the turn on the [illegible] Kramer spun into the water filled infield and Manning led the field. Manning, however, only led for five or six laps before he, too, left the track on the number two turn. From then on it was Dick Croaker and "Spud" Manning in the number one and number two spots. Croaker managed to keep the lead position to win the event by a narrow margin.

Sunday's results: 1st. heat: 1-Don Joppru-38; 2-Larry Shetler-[illegible]; 3-Bob Recapelle-4.

2nd. heat: 1-Duane Manning-[illegible]; 2-"Spud" Manning-33; 3-Dick Croaker-3.

Consolation race: 1-Bruce Kramer-Q-Ball; 2-Scottie Nelson-18; 3-Duane Bevre-22.

Feature race: 1-Dick Croaker-[illegible]; 2-"Spud" Manning; 3-Don Joppru; 4-Bruce Kramer; 5-"Zeke" Heard-11.

Time trails: 1-Duane Manning (20.25 sec.); 2-Bruce Kramer (20.25 sec.); 3-Dick Croaker (21 sec.).

.30 In. Rain Sunday Again Delays Work on Farms in Area

Some Combining and Much Other Fall Work Remains to Be Finished

Adverse weather continues to plague farmers as they work at finishing the remaining harvest and attempt to do some fall plowing before the advent of winter.

The .30 inches of rain which fell up to 9:45 p.m. Sunday was not exactly welcome, coming as it did on top of last week's deluge and again putting a damper on farm work.

Temperatures have been pleasant enough the past few days, ranging mostly in the sixties and seventies on the high side and dropping to 39 Saturday for the low temperature of the period.

The forecast is for mostly cloudy skies today, fair to partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday, with [illegible] It will be [illegible] night, with little temperature change Tuesday. Highs today will range from 60-65 and tonight's lows will be in the 40-45 bracket.

Winds will be southwesterly 10-20 m.p.m. today, becoming southwesterly Tuesday. A little higher humidity is also predicted.

Attends Biennial Session of Assemblies of God

The Rev. Robert Abbott, pastor of the Assemblies of God Tabernacle, returned last Thursday from Cleveland, Ohio, where he served as a delegate to the 27th biennial business sessions of the Assemblies of God.

During the convention the Rev. Ralph M. Riggs, general superintendent of the Assemblies of God for the past four years, was returned to office, as were nearly all of the other incumbent officers. Reports given indicated a steady growth in all departments of the church. Missionary giving has reached the sum of $4,000,000 per year.

Over 200 missionaries in costumes representing their respective countries formed a colorful parade on Sunday afternoon in the Municipal Auditorium where the services were held. A cash offering for missions in this one service amounted to $30,000.

Attendance from all states and some 50 foreign countries was more than 6,500.

Benefit from Good Neighbor Policy

MR. AND MRS. C. H. TOOMEY

Another incident of the "good neighbor" policy, the third this harvest season, turned up last Thursday when Cal Toomey, whose farm is located four miles south of the city on the Airport road, stopped into the Times office to report the good deed.

It all started on July 6th, when Toomey was taken to Northwestern Hospital for surgery. It was, said Toomey, right in the beginning of the harvest season and he was all set to start cutting the hay.

Well, Toomey arrived at the hospital on the 6th of July and remained there until the 17th. When he left for the hospital, one of his neighbors said, "Don't worry Cal, we'll look after things." And they certainly did.

Neighbors Tom Bratten, Irving Chapman, Frank, Tony and Bobby Wald and Dan and Jerry Morse got together and went to work. They pitched in and harvested Toomey's 40 acre hay crop. First they filled the barn with hay and then stacked up 1530 bales.

Tom Bratten milked the cows every morning for a month and Toomey's grandson Richard did the chores and milked the herd every night. And when the second hay crop was ready to cut, they were on hand again. By this time, Toomey was able to help with the cutting.

With the harvest over and winter approaching things are right on schedule at the Toomey farm . . . all because some good neighbors offered a helping hand. What does Toomey have to say: "A fella certainly appreciates it."

People are lonely because they build walls instead of bridges. —Joseph Fort Newton

SCANNING THE NEWS

THE Senate confirmed the nomination of Mr. Don Paarlberg, of Indiana, to the job of assistant Secretary of Agriculture recently by a vote of 42 to 32. He has been an assistant to Sec. Benson since 1953, and it is due perhaps to his years of teaching agricultural economics on the staff of Purdue University which unfortunately causes him to use phrases better left unsaid, or which causes him to talk over the heads of his listeners by treating an audience like a class in economics.

At any rate, several Senators had a lot of fun during the debate on the confirmation of Mr. Paarlberg. These Senators formed a sort of double-play combination of Evers-to-Tinkers-to-Chance. Only it worked something like this:

Senators Kerr-to-Symington-to-Johnston-to-Humphrey-to-Langer-to-Monroney-to-Young-to-Morse and back around the barn again. After one of these go-arounds here is a passage: Mr. Kerr: "I thank the Senator for his observation and question. In reply let me tell the Senator that of all the economic crimes which have been committed or will be committed by the Eisenhower administration, that which will hold it up to infamy for decades to come has been its program of elimination of the marginal farmer, and impoverishment of the family-sized farm operator."

Here's how afield the debate went after Paarlberg was labeled the "brains behind Benson," Mr. Johnston, of South Carolina: ". . . During the fight to get the small loans from the Department, the fact that most of the loans were being made to Negro farmers was brought to my attention by the Department of Agriculture . . . I did not hear of President Eisenhower issuing orders to help these Negro citizens of my state. I did not see the National Association for the Advancement of Colored people rushing to Washington to help the Negro farmers of South Carolina procure these loans from the Republican-controlled Agriculture Department. The so-called civil rights Senators did not trounce on the issue or render assistance to the Negro farmers of my state . . . Mr. President, if the great liberals of the Senate wish to help secure the economic rights for all the farmers of this nation of every status, they should join me in opposing the nomination of Dr. Don Paarlberg, who, in my opinion, is more responsible for the tight-money policy and sliding parity programs within the Department of Agriculture than any other person outside of Mr. Benson, himself, or probably Milton Eisenhower, brother of the President, who seems to have an iron grip over the Department of Agriculture and with whom Dr. Paarlberg undoubtedly will cooperate."

Mr. Humphrey: "I rise to commend the Senator from South Carolina . . . I wish to say the Senator has summarized what the issues are, and what he has had to say are the very words I wish I had said, as well."

Mr. Symington: "I should like to associate myself with the remarks made by the distinguished Senator from Minnesota. The able Senator from South Carolina mentioned a reduction, a net reduction of $3½ billion in income of farmers in the last 4½ years . . . It is true, is it not that at the time this tremendous reduction in farm income has taken place, wages have gone up 22%, corporate profits after taxes have gone up 33%, and the New York common stock price index has gone up 77%."

Otters Edge Prowlers In Last Minute, 31-26

Fergus Falls, trailing by a 26-to-25 score with less than two minutes of the game remaining, completed a 71-yard gainer, on a [illegible] pass and a lateral [illegible] the Prowlers, in a [illegible] season-opening football game played here Friday night.

The locals will move [illegible] competition this week [illegible] on Friday night on the [illegible] high field, they meet the ever-dangerous Red Lake Falls Eagles. Kick-off time is at 8:00 p.m.

In Friday night's thriller, the Prowlers, on a drive that started on their own 17-yard line, picked up five first downs and, with Dave Rasmussen blasting over from the 1-yard line, [illegible] a touchdown [illegible] in the fourth period [illegible] [illegible] the Prowlers. [illegible] Roy Bin[illegible] competition [illegible] yard line, [illegible] sped down the east sideline to cross the south goal with the game-winning touchdown.

The Prowlers opened the [illegible] scoring by [illegible] the opening kickoff and, [illegible] carrying to the 2-yard line. Phil Hanson bulled a yard, and Dave Rasmussen over left [illegible] for the touchdown. [illegible]

down, with Phil Hanson carrying from the 1-yard line. A 15-yard penalty on the Otters, called for roughing Dave Hanson [illegible] Fergus Falls kick gave the Prowlers possession on the locals' 42-yard line. Phil Hanson hit Ken DeLap and Jim [illegible] with passes, and [illegible] Nicholson picked up [illegible] to a left [illegible] 12-yard line. Hanson then fired a pass to Nicholson, who made a fine catch for the touchdown. Rasmussen converted to knot the game at 19-all.

The fourth period was only minutes old when, from the Prowlers' 40-yard line, Phil Hanson attempted a pass to Dave Hanson, the ball being intercepted by Gordy Johnson, who threaded the needle down the east sideline for a 60-yard touchdown gallop.

The Prowlers, refusing to crack under that "break," came back to [illegible] the tying touchdown and [illegible] conversion to go into a one-point lead [illegible].

Cleaning for Action

While the [illegible] hunters are preparing and [illegible] their gear for the coming [illegible] the hunting season [illegible] opener on Sept. 21st, the local anglers are busy using their fishing tackle. After a couple of weeks of "doldrums," the angling, as a result of the coolish nights, has been on the upswing this past week.

The river fishing, both upstream and in the pool below the dam, has been good. Some fine catches of walleyes have been made below the dam, with a spinner and minnow being the deadliest lure. Upstream the northerns have been providing action! The Labor Day weekend was a banner weekend for the hardy fishermen who braved the wind and the rain.

Lee Pahlen, fishing the Clearwater river in the vicinity of the Soo Line trestle near Pinewood, caught seven trout. And one of these trout was a two-and-a-half pound rainbow trout, with the [illegible]. An oddity was that these trout showed not the least interest in flies or worms, but when Lee pinned on a grasshopper, well, then he made his catches.

On the Lake of the Woods fishing, the reports are very favorable. Orvis Olson and Paul Lunball (Paul is a former resident of the city, but who now resides in Wadena) made a limit catch of walleyes last Sunday trolling off Pine Island. And Fran and Snort Langseth, fishing off the Big Island reefs, about fifteen miles from the mouth of Rainy river, had an exciting time. In addition to fine catches of walleyes, Snort hooked a pair of ten-pound northerns. One of these northerns was caught while trolling in fifteen feet of water, and Snort was positive that he had hooked into a prize-winning walleye. A bit disappointed when he saw that it was a northern.

The "bloom" continues to "blossom" in the lake, but it is expected that the first frost will clear that off.

The Mosher

The Bagley Merchants of the Northern Minny league, after taking a 15 to 3 trouncing from the Ada Athletics in a regional 28 at Ada on Thursday night, came back in the "pay off" game on Saturday night to defeat Ada, 8 to 1.

As a result of their well-earned victory, manager Mel Bru[illegible]'s Bagley will represent this region in the state amateur baseball tournament that is being played at Cold Spring this week. The Merchants will play their first round game at 6:15 P. M. on Tuesday, Sept. 10.

But to comment on the regional finals game of Saturday night. It was another one of lefty Ken Severide's pitching masterpieces, for the lanky six-foot, five-inch southpaw limited the Ada team to but three hits, and a couple of these were of the scratch variety.

We of the Northern Minny league have become accustomed to Ken's stylish performances, and when the "chips are down," as they were on Saturday night, Ken can be like a professional.

Of course, the fact that Ada had five southpaw swingers in their batting order also was made to order for Ken. It's tough enough for a righthanded batter to get wood on the ball, and for a lefty it is just about impossible to [illegible] solid base raps [illegible].

And so it's good luck to the Bagley Merchants as they enter the state tournament.

Miscellany

Freddy Dahlow, a starring performer for the Prowlers in football, baseball, and hockey, has decided to cast his lot with the M.S.T.C. Dragons. Fred has enrolled at Moorhead State college. It was rumored earlier this year that Fred was headed for the Duluth branch of the University of Minnesota. — According to a news item, Crookston's Herschel (Pepper) Lysaker has apparently reversed his mid-summer decision on attending Concordia college, and will enter the University of Minnesota. Herschel Lysaker Sr. is a graduate of Concordia college, and he hoped that Pepper would follow in his footsteps. While we wish Pep all the luck in the world in his athletic career, we doubt that he has the robust physique to take the bruising of Big Ten athletics, particularly in football and basketball. As a track prospect, and he's a versatile performer, he should be a valuable asset to the Gopher squad. — Loren (Sid) Vraa has been going through light workouts with the football Prowlers the past couple of weeks in preparation for the Prowlers in 1954, attended the University of Minnesota last season, but this year he has transferred to Moorhead State college. The Prowler coaches — Joel Ralph, and Dick — tried to inveigle Sid into joining the Prowlers in their "wind sprints," but Sid, who weighs a comfortable 185-pounds plus, wouldn't go for that. Seriously, Sid should make quite a football player for the Dragons.

Air Reserve Unit to Meet Tonight

40 Area Airmen Invited to Join T. R. Falls Unit

Only two meetings of Flight E, 9749th Air Reserve Squadron, will be held here in September, instead of the previously announced three meetings beginning Sept. 9, 1st Lt. V. M. Draper, Flight E commander announced today.

However, an extra meeting of prospective new members of the Air Reserve specialized training program will be held in the downstairs meeting room of the city Auditorium tonight at 8 p.m. to attend the meeting. Invitations to attend the meeting have been sent to over 40 former Air Force men in the Thief River Falls trade area, Draper said.

City Golf Champ Lost in Tourney 1st Round

That a new men's city golf champion will be named was made a certainty as a result of first round championship flight matches played on Sunday afternoon. Wally DuChamp, by a margin of 4 and 3, defeated defending champion Rudy Mehlhoff. And Larry (Shorty) Perkins, shooting a 36-33 for a medal of 69, defeated former city champion Stan Larson, 3 and 2.

In another first round match, lefty Phil LeGault, trailing 1-down at the end of the first nine holes of play, rallied on the second nine to defeat Bill Watzke, 2-up. The remaining match in the eight-man championship flight, between John Moum and John Matchefts, will be played on Wednesday. Semi-finals matches slated for Saturday will find Wally DuChamp meeting the winner of the Moum vs. Matchefts match, and Shorty Perkins playing LeGault.

Priorities Advised in Use of Flu Vaccine by State Committee

Although there is no cause for panic regarding influenza known as the Asiatic type, people who heed the vaccine most should get it as soon as it becomes available. This was the conclusion of a 15-man committee appointed to advise the state board of health and the Minnesota department of health in developing a state plan for the prevention and control of the disease. Dr. Horatio B. Sweetser, Minneapolis, president-elect of the Minnesota State Medical Association, is chairman of the advisory committee.

Groups suggested by the committee as most in need of protection from influenza vaccine include: first, medical and hospital personnel responsible for caring for the sick; second, persons engaged in essential public services such as fire and police protection, public utilities, transportation, and communications; third, persons with special medical problems such as heart conditions or tuberculosis; fourth, infants under one year of age and the aged; fifth, pregnant women; and sixth, persons living in congested areas under conditions of undue crowding.

The committee agreed that the vaccine is a hedge against the possibility of a serious outbreak. "For the first time in history, the world faces an impending epidemic foreward of what could occur and able to make preparations to meet it with all the resources of modern science." Dr. Robert N. Barr, state health officer, pointed out. "This is the first time on record that it has been possible to develop a specific vaccine in advance of a possible epidemic. However, it may develop that there will be no real problem."

Dr. Barr explained that this type of influenza is to date a mild disease and that at this time there is nothing to indicate that it will produce the serious results of the great influenza epidemics of 1892 and 1918. The disease may not reach epidemic proportions.

The advisory committee pointed out in the event of an epidemic that the services of medical and hospital personnel would make them indispensable. They could not afford not to be immunized. The same would be true of persons engaged in essential public services, even though the disease was a mild one.

Persons with certain serious medical conditions were singled out by the committee because even a mild disease in these individuals may become an unfavorable complication.

Since the highest death rates in previous influenza epidemics have been in infants under one year of age and in the aged, the committee agreed that these groups were probably the ones that would be at greatest risk if an epidemic should develop. The American Academy of Pediatrics has approved the use of Asian strain influenza vaccine for children, beginning as early as three months of age. The Academy report states that experience with earlier vaccines indicates that a better response will result from two doses rather than one. The vaccination of pregnant women secures protection both for the mother and the newborn infant.

The advisory committee cautioned against misleading the public as to be the potential value of vaccination against influenza. The new vaccine against Asian strain influenza is expected to provide considerable protection but the degree and duration of protection has been established as yet. Previous vaccines for other strains of influenza have provided about 70 per cent protection and it is assumed that the new vaccine will provide comparable protection since it is made in the same way as the other vaccines.

The committee pointed out that adverse reactions to the Asian vaccine injections may be expected, probably to the same extent and of the same character as for other influenza virus vaccines. These reactions are generally mild and short-lived. Persons who are known to be allergic to eggs, chicken, or chicken feathers should be injected only under close medical supervision, if at all, since the egg protein in the vaccine injected into sensitized persons could cause very severe reactions. When large numbers of persons from important and essential services are to be vaccinated, injections should be spread over a period of time on a staggered basis to avoid any possibility of a breakdown in the provision of needed services.

The committee emphasized that vaccination is a voluntary procedure. Distribution of available supplies will continue through regular pharmaceutical channels. Administration of the vaccine will be through regular medical channels on an individual basis. Physicians should secure vaccine from their usual drug suppliers for office or group vaccination programs. The state health department does not distribute influenza vaccine and no special arrangements exist for provision of vaccine for particular segments of the population.

The committee also indicated that up to the present, there is no indication that Asian type influenza, even in epidemic occurrence in the United States will have severe ill effects.

The vaccine now being distributed is primarily monovalent, that is it protects only against the Asiatic type. A polyvalent vaccine that protects against several strains of influenza will be available later. The single-strain vaccine was produced first because it can be manufactured more quickly in greater quantity at less cost, according to Dr. Barr. It takes 10 to 14 days for immunity to develop after injection of the vaccine.

Turkey Plentiful September Food

Bartlett Pears Also in Good Supply This Month

Bartlett pears and turkey lead the list of plentiful foods for September, Mrs. Eleanor Loomis, extension consumer marketing agent at the University of Minnesota, reported today.

Consumers will have plenty of Bartlett pears for canning and for fresh use during September, as larger than average supplies come from Washington and Oregon. The Bartlett pear crop in the Pacific coast states is estimated at 21 percent above average and 9 percent above last year.

Turkey and broiler and fryer chickens should be good buys during September for both indoor and outdoor meals, Mrs. Loomis says. The supply of early turkeys coming to market this month will be larger than ever, and storage holdings are at record levels. The supply of fryer chickens will be about 6 percent greater than last September. Consumers may find some special buys during the period September 26 to October 5, which the poultry industry is designating as the Fall Poultry Festival.

Since the commercial fishing season is well under way, a large variety of fresh and salt water fish will be available as well as frozen fish fillets, steaks and sticks. September 18 to 28 has been designated as National Fish Week.

September is the height of the harvest season for many vegetables from home and local market gardens. It is also the opportune time for homemakers to can many of these vegetables. Dried peas are plentiful from last year's abundant crop.

Other foods on the U. S. Department of Agriculture's list of plentifuls include milk and other dairy foods and vegetable fats and oils.

Freeman Aide to Go to Viet Nam

Gov. Freeman announced Wednesday he has granted a three months' leave of absence to administration commissioner Arthur Naftalin to permit him to serve as a budget consultant to the governor of Viet Nam.

The governor said Naftalin will leave Nov. 1 for Saigon, capital of south Viet Nam, to serve as an advisor on the staff of the Viet Nam project operated by Michigan State University.

While Naftalin is on leave, William E. Stevenson, assistant administration commission, will take over the commissioner's duties.

Harry Says We Should Be "Firm"

Harry Truman doesn't like the way our government is handling things in the Middle East, but in view of the fact that Harry Truman doesn't like the way our government handles any problem, his dissatisfaction with the way things are going in the neighborhood of the Suez Canal is not strange.

He is particularly unhappy about Syria. If our government had taken the proper steps, he says, the Soviet would not have gained a foothold there. It is all due to our policy of "wait and see," and so, "the Middle East could well be lost" and if Russia moves into the Middle East "we may well lose all of Europe."

Mr. Truman makes it quite clear that he believes our government is not firm enough in dealing with these problems.

We believe, however that the administration has been sufficiently firm to satisfy most Americans. Our government could have issued an ultimatum to the Syrians. We then would have to back the ultimatum with power, and if that course had been pursued, it is likely that American soldiers would now be preparing to enforce our "firm" position.

We like Harry Truman. He has some admirable qualities. We are well satisfied however that he is in retirement and is not personally directing our foreign policy.

The Broken Chain

(Winnipeg Tribune)

Revolutionists eventually find terror to be too terrifying. It finally occurs to revolutionary leaders that all their predecessors have met with fatal accidents, and that they had better break the chain if they wish to avoid a similar fate.

This happened after the French Revolution and apparently is now happening in Russia. Heroes of the revolution are being sent to Siberia instead of to Valhalla. Instead of ordering out the firing squad to dispose of Kremlin bigwigs who show a tendency to deviationist capers, Khrushchev dedicates them to pounding beats in the remote suburbs of the Soviet Union.

Thus Molotov has become ambassador extraordinary to the People's Republic of Outer Mongolia, Malenkov is counting kilowatts at a power plant in East Kazakhstan, Kaganovich is with a cement factory in Western Siberia, and Shepilov is to become a school teacher in the Soviet Far East.

How are the mighty fallen! But Molotov and company probably think they are lucky at that. At least they still have their health — and their heads.

Is Money "Tight?"

(W. E. Barnes in Sleepy Eye Herald-Dispatch)

Money tight? Maybe. Yet banks in this area have more deposits than at any time in their history. Can one get a loan? He can if the bank or other loaning agency is reasonably sure of getting back what they lend.

Matter of fact, money is much "easier" than it was in almost any period within this writer's memory. Until recent years no one ever thought he could buy or build a new home without putting up from 30 to 50% of his own money. With FHA and GI in the field, people buy and build homes with little more than a good job and a reputation for industry and honesty.

The situation has much in its favor. In the old days people couldn't buy or build until they had worked and saved for several years. That period has been materially shortened. That, too, is good. Young people with small children need a modern home more than those with families grown. Years ago they didn't get it unless they were born with the proverbial "silver spoon in their mouth."

The change is all to the good. But let's hear less about tight money. It isn't right, this generation has never experienced "tight money."

You Don't Dare Ask For A Photo

(Rock County Star Herald)

If you were an employer you would want to see a photo of a job applicant wouldn't you. Of course you would. Not that photos are a final determining test as to a person's fitness for a job. But — much can be told from a photo. If we had seen photos of more applicants for jobs life would have been a lot easier at times.

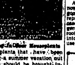
But, common sense to the contrary, Attorney General Miles Lord has ruled, that if you, as an employer, ask a job applicant to furnish a picture with his application you are breaking the law.

In the opinion of Wilfred Leland Jr., director of the state fair employment practices commission, the only time you would be justified in asking for a photo would be if you were hiring someone for a modeling job.

The teeth of the fair employment practices act are now just beginning to show. Lord's ruling means that the knee has been bent to the Twin City labor element, where there may be justification at times.

Out here in the "country" it is a ridiculous ruling to apply New York City type of legislation and regulation.

Lord's ruling means that one more prerogative of the independent business man who risks his own money to furnish jobs and community income has been wiped off the slate.



Bringing In Your Houseplants

Houseplants that have been enjoying a summer vacation out of doors should be brought indoors now before they are nipped by frost.

Before bringing them indoors, clean up plants that were left in flower pots. If the growth has been rapid during the summer, it may be necessary to replant them into larger pots or prune them back. Inspect the plants carefully for lice or other insects.

Instead of digging up geraniums and coleus plants, it will be simpler and better to make cuttings and root them in sand or vermiculite.

A glass-enclosed cutting box is ideal. Cut window glass about [illegible] inches high and the right length to fit the sides and ends of a tight box. Tape the corners and edges with cellophane tape. Use two pieces of glass for the top to facilitate aeration or ventilation in the cutting box.

Roots form in from four to six weeks at which time you can repot cuttings in good soil. You will then be carrying over young, attractive plants rather than old, straggly ones.

If you have some late-blooming chrysanthemums in the yard, why not pot up a few and bring indoors later when a severe freeze is promised? Chrysanthemums are easy to move and delightful [illegible]

• • •

Any other house plant which is now overgrown, or does not have good ornamental value, can be repropagated in the propagating case along with the coleus and geranium. After the cuttings have rooted thoroughly, transplant into containers, being sure you use a good potting mix.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare

Precision is Learned

An important difference between the behavior of immature and mature human beings lies in the amount of Precision in the way they think and act. Young children lack this precision, and they think and act in vague and diffuse ways. Both greater efficiency and deeper satisfaction come from learning to be precise —which can begin at a very early age.

Children accumulate accurate information when they are shown precisely! A button is sewed on with a needle and thread, not just "put on"; the axle is pushed through a hole in the wheel and the nut tightened with pliers, not just "fixed"; the split lid of the toy box is glued together, not just "patched"; the leg for the chair is measured and sawed from wood, and the nails are pounded with a hammer, not just "repaired"; the skinned knee is cleansed and covered with a bandage and some adhesive tape, not just "doctored." Each incident tends to build a more precise vocabulary and an interest in the way things really look or are really done.

By the time Jimmy was five he had acquired a habit of careful observation and precision. His kindergarten was given a duckling for a pet. Jimmy's remark— "It is a young duck, it has 'down' on it, and web feet to help it swim. I hope it 'quacks' soon. Isn't its bill flat? What a stubby tail-end!"

These words contrast markedly from the other children's less precise references to the duck's mouth and feathers and funny feet, and will give Jimmy quite an advantage in future learnings and in getting the most from his experiences. Listen also to Jimmy as he tells Mary where to find something. "It is on the shelf next to the window, and it is the bottom row. Count three from the window side and you will see a green square box. Open it and there it is."

Precision is learned, and when the child first shows how inquisitive he is, he is entitled to some guidance in his wanting and getting accurate information.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

Our state department of agriculture does a great deal of behind-the-scenes work that benefits all of us. An outstanding example is the pest and disease prevention and control policy of the department of agriculture. Trained workers seek to keep a watchful eye on whatever might harm Minnesota trees and plants.

In recent weeks they have become increasingly watchful for the appearance in Minnesota of the destructive Japanese beetle and Dutch elm disease. Both are now in Wisconsin and Iowa. It will require the cooperation of Minnesota citizens to spot these plant perils. Those who discover plant pests and diseases are asked to report them to the state entomologist's office.

The Japanese Beetle

The Japanese beetle, which attacks some 275 kinds of plants, including trees, fruits, flowers, shrubs and some garden crops, causes millions of dollars of damage each year. In 1937 when the area of infestation was not quite 14,000 square miles, the value of the crops destroyed was placed at 2 3/4 million dollars and control costs at about 3/4 million dollars more. Only small portions of the older infested area along the Atlantic coast now suffer heavy injury, but serious to severe damage results over extensive portions of the new infested area, farther westward.

Hundreds of beetle traps—equipment to attract beetles in order to detect infestation—have been set up at strategic points all over the state and are now being carefully watched by entomologists in our state department of agriculture.

I am asking all of the citizens of the state and particularly the farmers to aid in detection of this pest. The hard-shelled Japanese beetle is about ½ inch long. The front part of its body is brown, and it has green wings.

Dutch Elm Disease

The other plant peril we've been talking about is the Dutch elm disease, which causes rapid shriveling of leaves on elm and eventually kills the tree. Presence of this disease can be established only by laboratory tests—other diseases and pests cause about the same effect. So it is important that if you suspect one of your elms of having the disease you send in a leaf specimen to the state entomologist's office.

Our common species of elm trees in Minnesota are highly susceptible to the disease, which was first found in the United States in 1930.

I know that the people of Minnesota will work together to help discover and control these and other threats to our plant life.

Plant Wildlife Cover

Wildlife is an important part of conservation farming, according to Milo Mogen, Byron, cooperator in the Upper Zumbro soil conservation district. Grant Karlstad, district soil conservationist, helped him develop a water disposal system for the farm, so that the lower section of the drainage area would grow up to willows, wild plums and other natural vegetation. Mogen also has a pond near the same field, and another wildlife area near a contour stripped field.

Lime Pastures Now

Permanent pastures can be limed anytime from now until freeze-up this fall, says Paul Burson, University of Minnesota soils scientist. Lime will improve all permanent pastures, whether they are to be renovated this fall and seeded and fertilized next spring or are only to be topdressed with fertilizer. Test the soil, first, though, to find out how much lime is needed per acre.

• • •

Get Timber Contracts Early

Don't wait until your timber is cut this winter before trying to sell it. Instead, get a written contract to sell it when it's still on the stump, advises Marvin Smith, extension forester at the University of Minnesota. Otherwise, buyers may have their purchasing quotas committed by the time your trees are cut and you could be left without a market.

VINEGAR SLOWS PLASTER

Vinegar added to water when mixing plaster of Paris will keep the mixture from hardening too quickly.

Governor Supports Ike Walton Program

Officially endorsing a hunting safety, courtesy and conservation program inaugurated nationally by the Izaak Walton League of America, Governor Orville L. Freeman has issued a proclamation designating September as Red Cap Month in Minnesota.

The Walton program, designed to further [illegible] hunting as a [illegible] sport, and wholesome recreation [illegible] generations, [illegible] citizens to:

[illegible] for the [illegible] property owners, and [illegible]

[illegible] Compliance with both legal and moral [illegible] attendants to the privilege of hunting. In his proclamation, Governor Freeman pointed out that the accelerated use of Minnesota's woods and fields by an increasing number of hunters each year has magnified the need for greater care in the use of firearms, increased threat of fire to valuable timber and crop lands, and brought distress to some property owners.

He hailed the Red Cap program for striking at the principal dangers and abuses of the legally-prescribed hunting season each year, and urged all Minnesotans to comply with the objectives of the program.

Originated by the Portland, Oregon Walton Chapter in 1954, Red Cap Month has been observed in Oregon for the past three years. This year the program has been extended nationally by the Izaak Walton League of America with the cooperation of the National Sporting Goods Association and its dealer members.

Supporters of the campaign will be rushing the sports style season this year by wearing their symbolic headgear during Red Cap Month.

New Residents of State Are Ordered to Register Cars

Must Pay License Fee within Week of Arrival to Escape Penalties

New residents of Minnesota are advised by the state motor vehicle department of the necessity for registration of their automobiles within seven days of entry in order to avoid penalty.

Joseph L. Donovan, secretary of state, said that it appears some new residents have been incorrectly informed that they might wait until the 1958 license plates are issued to register their vehicles for the first time in Minnesota. The state law provides that a motor vehicle brought into Minnesota, owned by a resident, is subject to motor vehicle tax for the remainder of the calendar year, payable immediately. The tax is determined from the date of entry into the state, 1/12th of the annual tax for each month or fraction remaining until December 31. Penalty is charged on the eight day and additional penalty thirty (30) days later.

A Minnesota resident, for motor vehicle tax purposes, is one who has in fact established residence, or a person who has moved to Minnesota with intent to establish residence, or one who has accepted employment in the state expected to last six months or longer.

Under a new law enacted by the 1957 Legislature re-registration of motor vehicles for 1958 will begin on November 15, 1957 instead of October 1 as heretofore. However, a car owner who becomes a resident between now and November 7 will become subject to penalties if he waits until November 15 to register and pay his 1957 taxes.

Catholic College at Crookston Was Opened Saturday

Enrollment at First will be Restricted to Nuns and Postulants

A new junior college for women opened Saturday in Crookston.

Known as Corbett college, it will be operated by the sisters of St. Benedict and will be the first Roman Catholic college in the Crookston diocese.

The college is named after Bishop Timothy Corbett, first bishop of the Crookston diocese and founder of the Crookston community of Benedictines.

It is an outgrowth of summer sessions of college classes offered in Crookston for several summers as extension work from Catholic colleges of Minnesota.

The college will be located temporarily at Mount St. Benedict academy. For the present, its enrollment will be limited to nuns and postulants (candidates for nuns' orders).

Tentative plans for a residence hall and a classroom building for the college are being drawn by DeRemer's, Grand Forks, No. Dak., architectural firm, but no definite time has been set for launching the building program.

Mother Mary John, O. S. B., president of the college, who is also prioress of the Benedictine convent at Crookston, said the college will be affiliated with the Catholic University of America in Washington.

It will be visited by inspectors of the University until it reaches independent status, she said.

THE MINNESOTA STORY

Prepared by the Minnesota Historical Society

FIRST PRIZE FOR DUST

While Minnesota was still a territory, an intense rivalry developed among the larger towns, particularly between Minneapolis and St. Paul, over which should be the site of the territorial agricultural fair. This intercity ill feeling probably explains the unflattering report which appeared in the "St. Paul Advertiser" for October 18, 1856, about the territorial fair which had been held in Minneapolis from October 8 to 10.

The fair took place, the reporter said, "in a smooth oak opening in the rear of Minneapolis." A board fence enclosed the grounds, which comprised about a hundred acres and contained booths, stalls, and tables for the exhibits. "We will tell our readers what we saw or thought we saw through the blinding dust" he said.

Among the exhibitors the St. Paul reporter found "a bushel of two of . . . potatoes with their respective biographies elaborated on dusty slips of paper attached thereto. . . . In the Department of Fine Arts we saw several dusty Landscape views in water color . . . also twenty-four dusty Daguerreotypes . . . also highly colored paintings of the human face divine, slightly granulated with particles of dust.

"Among the incidents were the prevalence of dust," and "a dinner of cold pork with an infusion of gravel to assist digestion," the reporter said, and he added that he lost no time in shaking from his feet "the dust of Vanity Fair."

WE WANT FARMERS

Many appeals for settlers were published in the newspapers in Minnesota Territory. The following interesting paragraph appeared in the "Sauk Rapids Frontierman" on April 26, 1855.

"We have about as many lawyers in Minnesota as can well make an honest living. We have Merchants, Druggists, wholesale and retail, in countless numbers. We have clerks, salesmen, and exchange brokers, and bankers too numerous to mention.

"We have troops of keen eyed speculators . . . editors who quarrel, politicians who wrangle, sage legislators, stump orators, and any innumerable quantity of other smart men. . . We are not authorized to say that our Territory is in actual need of any addition. . . .

"But whom do we want?

"We want several thousand men who know how to work and who are willing to work. We want men who can cut rails, build fences and open farms . . . who by industry and enterprise, would in a few years make this beautiful region of prairie and woodland to blossom as the rose. We have not half enough working men. There is no better country on the face of the earth in our humble judgment, than Minnesota for the laboring man. . . . Buy one hundred and sixty acres of land, and put up a log house on it and move into it. If you are a good farmer, a few years will find you surrounded with all the comforts and conveniences of life."

THE MEAN CANOE THIEF

"The meanest and most contemptible action we know of," fumed Jeremiah Russell, editor of the "Sauk Rapids Frontierman," in the issue of June 7, 1855, "is for a white man to Steal a Canoe. It is a common occurrence, for some people who are going to the Falls or St. Paul, and who are either too stingy or mean to pay for a passage down by land or purchase a canoe, to steal the first one they chance to see."

In early Minnesota the riverman's canoe was as precious a possession as the westerner's horse, and Russell went on to say: "We have lately been made a victim by one of this class of detestable beings—canoe stealers. It may seem cunning, and be a cheap way to go down stream, but if we ever find out the thief, he will learn to his satisfaction that 'Jordan am a hard road to travel'."

LUMBERJACK'S SKY-PILOT

An account by an Episcopalian clergyman of a trip to "the pineries," as lumber camps were sometimes called in the nineteenth century, appears in the "Minneapolis Daily Tribune" of March 12, 1873. The Reverend George L. Chase, rector of Holy Trinity church in Minneapolis, reported that he had left Princeton, Minnesota, on February 21 "with the mercury at 30 degrees below zero," and had driven twenty-five miles north through dense pine forests to find the first of the nine camps he visited.

At each camp, the rector said that he found "a quaint congregation of stalwart men, in costumes of many hues and patterns, a compromise between 'store-clothes' and the fringed buckskin shirt, leggins, and moccasins of a native son of the forest."

Upon Chase's arrival at each camp, word was sent to neighboring lumberjacks so that they might gather to hear him speak. The minister was usually "gratified to find some singers among the crew, whose hearty rendering of some familiar hymns lent variety and fervor to the brief, simple services which preceded the sermon."

At a camp which we reached in the evening, one of the men set off to notify the next camp of his coming, but the minister "feared that his errand through cold and darkness would be fruitless." An hour or two later, however, the man returned "at the head of a procession of twenty lumbermen who had followed him, Indian file, on a trail through the woods. My congregation now numbered about sixty men," he wrote, "some filling the 'deacon seat,' some lying on the bunks, some standing. The circumstances were to me particularly cheering."

The men who spent the long winters in the woods were very glad to receive news from the outside world, and Chase said, "I must testify once more to the warmth of the welcome which I invariably met with at a logging camp."

No man really becomes a fool until he stops asking questions. —Charles P. Steinmetz

Farmers Are Urged to Use Crop Insurance to Get Emergency Aid

[illegible] requests for special [illegible] assistance due to [illegible] disasters emphasize that eligible farmers in counties [illegible] insurance is available [illegible] provide their own [illegible] emergency assistance [illegible] Federal all-risk crop [illegible] Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson pointed [illegible] disasters resulting from [illegible] hazards beyond the [illegible] control—such as drought, excessive rain, hurricane, hail, flood and frost—illustrate the basic need that [illegible] for all-risk insurance of [illegible] investments," Secretary Benson said. "We are developing and offering Federal crop insurance as a business method for farmers to join together for their mutual protection against [illegible] disasters by paying insurance premiums in line with the variations in risk that exist between crops and farms.

"This insurance is not yet available on all crops or in all counties. Where is it available, it can be the farmer's first line of defense against the crop disasters which are resulting in so many requests for special emergency assistance.

"We find that in numerous counties for which such special emergency assistance is requested crop insurance was available to the farmers but only a small percentage were willing to pay the premium for the protection needed against the crop disaster that struck.

"Insurance is a sound way to protect against crop disaster just as it is against other disasters. Each person who shares in the benefits of its protection must also share in the building and financing of the protection. Recent crop disasters should emphasize to farmers and others who may have felt that their counties were immune to crop disaster that this is a hope and not a fact.

"Since crop insurance benefits the entire community when crop disaster strikes, businessmen and others who work with and for farmers encourage them to protect against crop disaster through Federal All-Risk Crop Insurance when it is available.

"In insurance as some other things, there is strength in numbers. High participation by farmers in those counties where crop insurance is currently available will provide needed emergency assistance when crop disaster strikes. Disaster has a habit of hitting new areas each year as well as repeating in some areas again. Drought, flood, hail, wind and a host of pests and diseases can strike any farmer without warning."

Tri-continental Divide in State

The tri-continental divide is a term sometimes used to describe a point at which water flows into four watersheds. If Minnesota were considered the roof-top so to speak of the nation it would be that point at which water flows north to Hudson's Bay, east to the St. Lawrence and south to the Gulf of Mexico. Actually it is a few miles north of the cities of Hibbing and Virginia. An engineer would describe its location as: Northwest quarter, Section 36, Township 58 North, Range 21 West, 4th Principal Meridian.

GOP to Hear From People Sept. 13th

Arranges Open Meeting in Minneapolis Hotel

The people—truck drivers, accountants, farmers, mechanics, newspaper writers, students, carpenters to mention only a few groups— will come flocking to the Minnesota GOP "The People Speak" conference Friday Sept. 13 at Minneapolis' Leamington Hotel to outline their views on government.

State Rep. Arthur Ogle, Mankato, general chairman of "The People Speak" said today that the Republican party will be waiting for them, will be glad to see them. Object of the conference is to form 13 distinct subcommittees on government over to the people and let them have their say. Very frankly, the politicians, the party leaders, the elected GOP officials will be muzzled.

"The people," said Ogle, "will control and dominate this conference or seriously I don't want to have a thing to do with it. If this is going to be just another meeting where politicians tell the people, then count me out. But I'll be happy to arrange any gathering where the people command the floor."

Rep. Ogle is still general conference chairman and is still controlling the arrangements. He's determined that this will produce a strong cross-current of opinion. Observers now are betting that "The People Speak" will be the most talked about political meeting in many years.

There is still time to come to the Leamington Hotel and be heard. The conference opens at 2 p.m. Subcommittees will hear testimony on agriculture, civil rights, conservation, education, foreign affairs, human welfare, industry, labor, national defense, state government, taxation and fiscal policies, and veterans affairs.

"You don't need an engraved invitation to come to this meeting," said Rep. Ogle. "People can testify at one or all of the subcommittees. The committees will hear all the testimony."

Parents are urged to attend even though they are not sure they wish to start their children. The school music program will be explained, and all information regarding music instruction will be available.

The 1957-58 Concert series ticket drive was officially launched Wednesday night when 21 volunteers began a door-to-door campaign in this city.

Sometime between now and the 23rd of October all residents in the city and in the surrounding area will be invited to become members of the Northwest community concert association.

The campaign was launched after a short meeting of the association in the courthouse at 8 p.m.

Twenty-one of the 40 volunteers were on hand to receive their ticket portfolios and to hear Norm Wendt, representative of the Allied Concert services, and Norman Peterson, membership chairman, outline the goals of this year's campaign. The directors of the association emphasized that, it is only through the season membership plan that artists of the caliber engaged for the local series can be presented here.

Although renewals were taken from former members last spring, during the above period season membership in the association will again be open to anyone in the area who wishes to join. No single concert admissions will be available and the membership will be closed during the concert season.

The city of Thief River Falls has been divided into sections with one worker to each 3 or 4 blocks. The 40 volunteers have been divided into groups of eight, each group with a district captain.

Local membership will also entitle the members to attend a concert by the famed "Columbus Boychoir" to be held at Crookston.

This year's concert series will begin on October 7th when noted pianist, Margaret Barthel will make he appearance here.

The Ballet Russe Quartet, four veteran dancers of the Russian ballet, concert, stage and opera will bring to local audiences the greatest moments of the famous classical ballets, in the traditional Ballet Russe style on the 28th of October.

On February, 2nd, Contralto Lillian Mernik, winner of the Marian Anderson Award and a $25,000 scholarship while still in her teens will perform.

The last show of the series on March 3rd the Little Chorale, a mixed octet of solo caliber voices, will do the same type program, as the quartet which appeared here last year, with even greater variety made possible by the larger group.

Prices for the concert series are $6.00 for adult memberships, $2.00 for high school students and $1.75 for elementary pupils.

This Year Everyone Will Be Invited To Join

Laset night the Northwest Community Concert association launched an all-out membership campaign to invite all residents in the city and surrounding area to become a subscriber to the 1957-58 concert series. Forty volunteers will canvas the county in a door-to-door subscription selling campaign. Each artist's program will be varied to include many types of music, so that all subscribers will find something especially enjoyable. There are three types of memberships available: adult, student, and family. In the above picture, community association officials, Curtis Harris, left, chairman; Norm Peterson, campaign chairman, and Norm Wendt, right, representing the Allied Concert Service, go over this years ticket schedule with James Gelsen, center.

REV. ERNST H. STAHLKE, President of the Minnesota district of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, who will be guest speaker at the cornerstone laying ceremony for the new St. John's church edifice, to be held at the church site next Sunday afternoon, Sept. 15, at 3 o'clock.

Fact-finding Panel to Conduct Hearing Starting at 10 a.m.

The next phase in the controversy over the termination by the city council last winter of the services of Chris Kierk as manager of the municipal airport will come next Monday morning, September 16, at 10 o'clock, when a public hearing of the matter will be opened by the fact-finding panel of three members, which in July had announced its inability to reach an agreement on the question at issue. The hearing will be conducted in the municipal court room.

Arrayed on one side in the proceedings are Kierk and the union of city employes, while on the other side are the municipal airport commission, which had recommended Kierk's discharge, and the city council. City Attorney Robert A. Wurst will assist in presenting the city's side of the dispute, and Kierk and the union are also expected to be represented by counsel.

Serving on the fact-finding panel are G. A. Frahm, chairman of the airport commission, representing the city; Mrs. Agnes Israelson, representing Kierk and the union; and E. A. Hamerski, neutral member.

The length of time required to complete the hearing is a matter of conjecture. When the testimony is completed, the panel will report its findings to the city council for disposition of the case.

The camp is financed each year with funds contributed by Charles L. Horn, president of the Federal Cartridge corporation.

Each year the camp features classes on various phases of conservation. These include classes on forestry, developing good fishing, plants of Minnesota, land appreciation, gun safety, firecraft and outdoor cookery. Also scheduled during the four days are tours of the park, boat trips on Lake Itasca and nature hikes.

This past year Helgeland has been one of 43 county 4-H members enrolled in the conservation program. His record of achievements in conservation include identification of plants and animals, providing wildlife shelters and feeding areas, and gaining a general understanding of conservation activities.

Results of Potato Marketing Vote Delayed for Week

Indications Are That Voters Favored Issuing of Marketing Order

Announcement of results in the federal potato marketing order referendum will be delayed a week or more pending completion of a potato handlers signup.

According to Lyle Currie, executive secretary of the Red River Valley Potato Growers Assn., handlers of 51 per cent of the potato crop must approve the order, in addition to a "yes" vote on the part of the growers, before the marketing agreement can be put into effect.

Voting in the Red River Valley ended at midnight Thursday and was conducted by Roland Powers from the Department of Agriculture in Washington.

Although no word has been given concerning the outcome of the vote, the fact that the potato growers association has been told to go ahead with the handlers signup would indicate a favorable vote had been cast by the growers.

Newfolden School to Hold Election on September 18

Voters Asked to Approve Erection of Storage Room and Bus Garage Addition

At the regular September meeting of the Newfolden school board, a resolution was adopted calling for a special election on Wednesday, September 18 to allow the voters of Independent Consolidated School District No. 94 to decide on the following two issues: first, whether to authorize the board to purchase enough land to build an addition to the present bus garage; and second, whether to spend funds available this year to build a two-stall addition to the bus garage and a fourteen by forty foot storage area in the rear of the present garage.

At the present time, the Newfolden school has eight 42 passenger busses, one 36 passenger, two panels, and a school car for driver's training. The present bus garage is an eight stall unit which means that much transportation equipment must be left standing outside because of lack of housing.

The storage area is necessary to accommodate extra seating which is needed some years and not the next, bleachers, stage scenery, and other equipment and materials which are used only part of the year. These items are stored in the bus garage and in the schoolhouse, taking up space which could be better utilized for the purpose it was originally intended.

The school board has an opportunity to buy enough land to the west of the present school bus garage to build a two-stall addition twenty-six feet by thirty-six feet for $75. It is also estimated that the two-stall addition and the storage area, which would be connected to the south of the present garage on land owned by the school district, would not cost over $6700.

The board urges all the voters of School District No. 49 to turn out on September 18, between 7 and 9 p. m. and make their wishes known on these two issues.

Results of Potato Marketing Vote Delayed for Week

Indications Are That Voters Favored Issuing of Marketing Order

Announcement of results in the federal potato marketing order referendum will be delayed a week or more pending completion of a potato handlers signup.

According to Lyle Currie, executive secretary of the Red River Valley Potato Growers Assn., handlers of 51 per cent of the potato crop must approve the order, in addition to a "yes" vote on the part of the growers, before the marketing agreement can be put into effect.

Voting in the Red River Valley ended at midnight Thursday and was conducted by Roland Powers from the Department of Agriculture in Washington.

Although no word has been given concerning the outcome of the vote, the fact that the potato growers association has been told to go ahead with the handlers signup would indicate a favorable vote had been cast by the growers.

Newfolden School to Hold Election on September 18

Voters Asked to Approve Erection of Storage Room and Bus Garage Addition

At the regular September meeting of the Newfolden school board, a resolution was adopted calling for a special election on Wednesday, September 18 to allow the voters of Independent Consolidated School District No. 94 to decide on the following two issues: first, whether to authorize the board to purchase enough land to build an addition to the present bus garage; and second, whether to spend funds available this year to build a two-stall addition to the bus garage and a fourteen by forty foot storage area in the rear of the present garage.

At the present time, the Newfolden school has eight 42 passenger busses, one 36 passenger, two panels, and a school car for driver's training. The present bus garage is an eight stall unit which means that much transportation equipment must be left standing outside because of lack of housing.

The storage area is necessary to accommodate extra seating which is needed some years and not the next, bleachers, stage scenery, and other equipment and materials which are used only part of the year. These items are stored in the bus garage and in the schoolhouse, taking up space which could be better utilized for the purpose it was originally intended.

The school board has an opportunity to buy enough land to the west of the present school bus garage to build a two-stall addition twenty-six feet by thirty-six feet for $75. It is also estimated that the two-stall addition and the storage area, which would be connected to the south of the present garage on land owned by the school district, would not cost over $6700.

The board urges all the voters of School District No. 49 to turn out on September 18, between 7 and 9 p. m. and make their wishes known on these two issues.

Announce Deer Hunting Areas

Deer hunters will have a wide choice of hunting opportunities this fall, being able to choose from eight zones providing one, three, five or nine days of hunting. While some zones are open to all legal firearms, others are [illegible] to shotgun with single slugs. Bow and arrow enthusiasts can hunt in all zones during the November seasons.

As previously announced, deer hunting in all zones will begin Saturday, November 9. The eight hunting zones have been designed to provide for an adequate harvest in keeping with existing habitat conditions, deer populations, nature of terrain and accessibility to hunters. Zoning is being recognized throughout the nation as a means of providing better local management of deer populations.

Zone 1 will have a 3 day season, November 9-11, for shotguns with single slugs.

Zone 2 will have a 5 day season, November 9-13, open to all legal firearms.

Zone 3 will have a 9 day season, November 9-17, open to all legal firearms.

Zone 4 is scheduled for a 1 day season, November 9, open to all legal firearms.

Zone 5 will be open to all legal firearms during a 3 day season, November 9-11.

Zone 6 will have a 1 day season, November 9, being open to shotguns with a single slug.

Zone 7 will be open to shotguns with a single slug for 3 days, November 9-11.

Zone 8 is scheduled for a 5 day season, November 9-13, for shotguns with a single slug.

An area in the southwest and south central part of the state is to be closed to deer hunting during the November seasons.

Archery hunters may take deer statewide during the month of October, and also in all zones established for the November firearms season. Final decision has not yet been reached on the December bow season. Conservation Commissioner George Selke has indicated he wishes to study the matter further before announcing the details.

Game officials report no marked changes this year in the statewide deer population. Reports from the field indicate deer came through the winter in good condition, while additional reports of a good fawn crop tends to substantiate this fact.

Last fall hunters killed just under 70,000 deer for a 36 percent average hunter success figure. The Northern Forest yielded the largest number of deer, 50,617 during the nine day season.

Review of last year's deer kill reveals 11,449 deer taken in the South and [illegible] in the Northwest. Hunter success appeared to be 32 percent in the South, 41 percent in the Northwest and 37 percent in the North.

The northern deer range continues to show a decline in quality and suitability for deer, with more of the forest reaching old age each year, and balsam and spruce increasing. Deer on much of the winter range in this region are forced to congregate in restricted areas known as "deer yards." These yards are used year after year and are subjected to heavy browsing. It is important the size of the herd in this northern region be kept in balance with the ability of the winter range to support it.

In extreme southeastern Minnesota, where some of the most rugged hunting country in the state is found, a five day shotgun season is scheduled. This area, bordering the Mississippi River reportedly has a deer population exhibiting a reproductive rate higher than the statewide average. The rugged terrain affords good protection to the deer and makes hunting difficult. It is in this area where deer have been causing depredations to orchards.

Hunters are urged to consult the hunting synopsis for information on statutory refuges, state owned refuges, federal refuges and state parks that may be open this fall.

Bagley Loses out in First Round of State Tourney

The Bagley Merchants, champions of the Northern Minny baseball league, and winners of the Region 28 title, met defeat in their first-round game in the state amateur tournament being played at Cold Spring.

Norwood defeated Bagley, 8 to 6, in an 11-inning tilt on Tuesday evening. In the top half of the 11th inning, with the score knotted at 6-all, Norwood put together three singles and a sacrifice to score a pair of runs and win the game. Righthander Stan Otness, Bagley's draft choice from Fosston, took the loss for the Merchants.

Reserved Section for Students

Students in the local schools will have the center section of bleachers reserved for them at home football games henceforth, F. Miles Nelson, Lincoln principal, stated today.

They are requested to sit in this area unless accompanied by parents. This ruling applies to all students in all grades. Students are asked to retain their seats during the playing periods at all times.

The primary purpose of this plan are to improve student cheering and to prevent interference with adult spectators, said Nelson.

Don Loos of Grafton and Ray Johnson High Guns in Trap Tourney

Ray Johnson of the local club, and Don Loos of Grafton were the "high guns" in the fifty-bird feature event of the trap shooting tournament held here on Sunday. Johnson, shooting on an early shift on Sunday, posted scores of 24-25 for his 49; while Loos, in an afternoon shift, had a 24-25.

John Bergman of Langdon was the third "high gun" in the event with a pair of 24's.

In the 100-target aggregate, Loos was the "high gun" having a pair of 24's to add to his 49 for a total of 97 x 100. Sandy Wilson, a promising young local shooter, had the second high total in the 100-target event, with scores of 21-22-22-25 for a 93. Bergman, with a pair of 22's to add to his 48, had a 92 total for third place.

In the doubles competition, Robert Hullinger of Grand Forks with a 23 x 24, was the winner. Loos, with 20 x 24, earned second place; and Bergman, with a 19 x 24, was the third place winner.

Twenty-eight shooters participated in the tournament and with their entries and re-entries, the tournament consisted of fourteen squads of five shooters. The tournament "cashiers," Frank Rinkel and Erling Torgerson, will compile the prize-winning list this week, and make the awards.

What Did You Think?

Now that the football Prowlers have opened their 1957 season, and with a 31 to 26 loss to Fergus Falls on Friday night, what did you think?

Tossing aside the fact that the Prowlers lost (and that's pretty hard to do as the Prowlers are playing to win) wasn't Friday night's game a thriller for the spectators? In our opinion, Friday's game was comparable to that epic Bemidji vs. Prowlers game in 1951, which found the Jacks winning by a 26 to 19 score.

The Prowlers are an impressive-looking outfit, and they played impressively, too. On the playing of fundamental football, the Prowlers were a superior team. According to our compilations and we credit a team with a first down whenever they make a touchdown, the Prowlers outdowned the Otters by a 23 to 13 margin. In yardage, though, Fergus Falls held the edge, 325 to 307, due in the main to their "long gainers" in the first and fourth periods.

The one big lack in the Prowlers scheme of things is foot speed. The Otter's Tim Cashman broke away for a 67-yard run in the first period, and the Prowler defense could not catch him; and again in the fourth period, with what proved to be the game-winning touchdown, Cashman, on a lateral from Roger Siner, scampered 45 yards for a TD. Perhaps it wasn't so much the lack of speed by the Prowler defensive players as it was the running speed of Cashman. From the sidelines, however, it didn't appear that he possessed startling speed.

Nearly as entertaining as the game itself was the sideline banter, along the west sidelines, between such die-hard Prowler rooters as Lenny Hellquist and Russ Embury and the Fergus Falls coach, Norm Galloway. The Otters would gain a lead, and Galloway would beam and make some remarks for the benefit of Lenny and Russ. Then the Prowlers would take over the lead, and Galloway would hunch his shoulders and try to close his ears to the abuse that he would get from the fans. Some fun.

The Event Of The Week

The week's feature event in athletics, taking precedence over Shorty Perkins' 33-36 and his 3 and 2 win over Stan Larson, and entitled to a rating above Wally DuChamp's defeat of defending champion Rudy Mehloff in the city golf tournament, was the 13 to 0 win racked up by Dick Edlund's and Johnny Matchefts' Prowler football 'B' squad over Bemidji on Saturday morning.

In the game, which was played at Bemidji on Saturday morning, the Prowler B's did all their scoring in the second period, and via the aerial route. Quarterback Dale Wennberg tossed a pair of touchdown passes to left end Bob Pearson, and they proved to be the game. Make a note of that combination, Wennberg to Pearson. And don't be surprised if they become a scoring threat for the Prowler varsity in a season or two.

Doing some fine running for the Prowler B's, according to coaches Edlund and Matchefts, was right halfback Larry Haugen. Well, hard runners are what varsity coaches Mrkonich and Skay are praying for these days.

That was it, the Prowler B team over the Bemidji B team, 13 to zero.

Our Braves

Those of us who have pledged a measure of our fortunes on the Milwaukee Braves winning the National League pennant, will be on tenterhooks for the next couple of weeks.

"Our Braves" have a four or five game lead, but that doesn't mean anything in the National League. Those pesky St. Louis Cardinals and those aging Brooklyn Dodgers do not know enough to consider the pennant race as finished. And, of course, we, and the Braves, can recall last season, when Milwaukee frittered away the pennant in the last few games.

Now if this was in the American league things would be different. In that league the other seven teams know and realize that the New York Yankees are the champions, and they show the proper respect for the champions. When pitcher Bob Grim can hit a game-winning home run, as he did in one game last week, you know that the pennant race is over.

But "Our Braves", well, we are worried.

Lightning and Thunder

We don't know what the statewide forecast will be for Minnesota on Saturday and Sunday, but on Saturday we'll predict that there will be lightning and thunder at the local golf course. That's when the semi-finals in the city golf tournament will be played, and the pairings will have Wally DuChamp playing Johnny Matchefts, and Phil LeGaul playing (Shorty) Perkins.

(With Saturday being a busy shopping day in Plummer, Wally DuChamp has been trying to shove back his semi-finals match with Matchefts to Sunday morning, but the two golfers, at latest reports, haven't come to an agreement.)

The LeGault vs. Perkins encounter is definitely set for Saturday afternoon.

While it's true that LeGault and DuChamp, according to their season's play, and the scores they have posted, will be shorthanders in their respective matches against Perkins and Matchefts, it's a cinch that they won't be over-awed by their opponents.

If by being a tough competitor is a factor in the make-up of a championship golfer, then LeGault and DuChamp are champions. You don't "shake" those two boys up very easily.

While we would pay an admission fee to watch a city championship finals between LeGault and DuChamp, we'll have to admit that from our point of vantage around the number seven green, the championship title will, on Sunday evening, belong to Johnny Matchefts.

Red Lake Falls Faces Prowlers on Friday

Coaches Joe Mrkonich and Ralph Skay have been sending the Prowler varsity squad thru vigorous offensive and defensive drills this past week in preparation for Friday night's district conference opener against the Red Lake Falls Eagles. The game, which will be played on the local field, will kickoff at 8:00 p.m.

Coach Mrkonich stated that he didn't plan any drastic changes in the Prowler lineup, but that Ken Sauve would probably start at right guard, and Don Litstrom at right tackle. Sauve will be a replacement for last week's starter, Harold Froehle; while Litstrom will replace Bob Jorstad. The rest of the lineup will have Ken DeLap at Dave Hanson at the ends, Larry Gausen at tackle, Kenn Jones at guard, Jim Nelson at center, and Phil Hanson, Dave Rasmussen, Jim Bennes, and Lynn Nicholson in the backfield.

Last season's game between the Prowlers and the Eagles ended in a 7 to 7 draw. And the year previous, the Eagles surprised the locals by scoring a 19 to 14 triumph.

Travel in State Hits 12 Billion Mi. in 1956

Motor vehicle travel on Minnesota's highways, roads and streets has reached an all-time high of 12¼ billion vehicle miles per year.

Reflecting, as it does, the ever spiralling traffic demands upon existing transportation facilities, this represents a traffic volume increase of 67.7 per cent in the past 15 years. In the same period of time, Minnesota motor vehicle registrations increased 56 per cent, indicating both an average increase in travel per vehicle and an increased volume of traffic generated from outside the state.

These are but a few of the interesting facts about the "how, where, when and why" of modern traffic presented in the latest annual report of the planning research section of the Minnesota highway department's Traffic and Planning division.

The report, based on the findings and analysis of 1956 traffic patterns and trends, show that:

In the past year alone, total traffic volume jumped 5.4 per cent from 1955 to 1956.

About 38 per cent, or 4.7 billion of the miles traveled in 1956 were over the 10,212 miles of rural trunk highways in the state, with the balance being distributed at wide variances over some 110,000 miles of urban trunks, county and township roads and city and village streets.

Total 1956 highway traffic consumed 976,836,000 gallons of taxable gasoline, of which 748,256,000 gallons were used by passenger cars, about 10 percent of it by out-of-state passenger cars.

The report is based on the annual studies conducted since 1946 as a part of the planning research undertaken by the Department of Highways and the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads. The findings as to traffic patterns and trends become guides in the planning and design of future highway improvements.

Information is developed through a wide range of field activities including continuous traffic counts at 27 permanent automatic recording stations, counts at 14 seasonally operated stations and short period (two or three days) traffic checks at 3,500 rural road locations throughout all areas of the setate.

It is from the information provided by these field research activities of the Traffic and Planning division that traffic flow maps are developed; trends in travel charactertics are analyzed; types, economic uses and physical dimensions of vehicles using the various routes are determined, and, in other words, the planning and building of roads fitted to the pattern of traffic requirements is successfully accomplished.

Seasonal variations of traffic volume in different parts of the state, the kind, weights and volumes of traffic that various roads and roads systems are called upon to accomodate—these and many other factors of th ever increasing traffic problem are studied and analyzed.

WILDLIFE in Minnesota

by JIM KIMBALL

The ringnecked pheasant is the most beautiful, most sagracious, the cuningest, smartest, most unpredictable and aggravating, slyest, sneakiest and showiest game bird in the world. He outwits hunters, confuses biologists, delights bird watchers and is admired, loved and hated by farmers. He can outrun a man and in flight he appears to be a large, easy target but one which is easier to miss than to hit. Even when shot you can't be sure he's dead until you ring off his head and hide it. He has been the ruination of many a good bird dog but you really need a good dog to hunt him successfully.

His complicated behavior pattern has been acquired through countless generations of matching wits with man and his other predatoris. He has been hunted, netted and trapped for thousands of years in Asia, Europe and America.

After doing research on pheasants for ten years in Nebraska, Minnesota and South Dakota I concluded that the pheasants had learned more about me than I had about them. The one thing we know for sure about pheasants is this: Give them the proper habitat and they will flourish and multiply with apparent disregard for redatorst, including man and his twelve gauge.

Two weeks ago we talked about the gathering of game managers, warden supervisors, researchers, etc. who took part in setting the hunting seasons. Well, not one of them expressed any concern over the possibility of over-shooting pheasants. As long as we shoot cocks only there is no chance of us over-shooting. Now, as if that statement wouldn't bring enough disagreement, let's jump in a bit deeper with this one. We can probably increase pheasant abundance by shooting more cocks.

To understand this we must again realize that the abundance of all species, including pheasants, is determined by the carrying capacity of the range. The farmer knows that his pasture will support a certain number of cows — more if the grass and water are good, less if not so good. The same is true for pheasants. Each section of land will support only a given number and whether that number is large or small depends on the nesting cover, brood cover, food, winter cover, etc. Let us assume that a couple sections of land have a winter carrying capacity of 100 pheasants. If we did no fall shooting we might start the winter with about equal number of cocks and hens, say about 100 of each. But the carrying capacity of the winter range is only 100 so in spring we will have, on the average, about 50 cocks and 50 hens. These 50 hens mean a potential of 50 nests and broods.

Now let's try the other extreme and shoot 90% of the cocks. That means we have 10 hens for each cock so in the spring we will have, not 50 cocks and 50 hens but 10 cocks and 90 hens. This gives us an increase of 40 potential nest and broods which means an 80% increase in potential production. And production is what counts because 70% to 90% of the birds we shoot each fall are young; that is, they were hatched that spring.

Of course, we have used extreme examples here to illustrate the point, and the point is, that in reproduction, they are all that count — almost.

In case you are worried about egg fertility relax. In parts of Michigan they do shoot 90% of the cocks and egg fertility remains as high as in the Dakotas where less than half of the males may be taken. This is easier to understand when you know that hen pheasants lay fertile eggs for a period of 22 days after a single mating—and have you ever watched pheasants in the spring?

Check Guns Now, Hunters Are Urged

Asked to Make Check Before Hunting Begins

With the first of the fall's hunting seasons less than two weeks away, game and fish officials urged hunters to check their guns NOW.

Francis W. Johnson, chief game warden, reminded hunters that a careful examination of their rifles and shotguns now could reduce the chances for an accident to happen in the field.

"Clean your guns thoroughly and give them necessary repairs. Take your gun to the range and sight it in before going into the woods. If you have acquired a new gun, become familiar with its operation now—not after you're afield with your hunting friends.

"Too many hunters wait till the last minute and then grab the gun from the closet and start hunting," said Johnson.

"A little time spent now in careful preparation may spell the difference between an enjoyable, successful hunt and tragedy."

Editorials . . .

I place economy among the first and most important virtues, and the public debt as the greatest of dangers to be feared. To preserve our independence, we must not let our rulers load us with perpetual debt. We must make our choice between economy and liberty, or profusion and servitude. If we run into such debts, we must be taxed in our meat and drink, in our necessities and our comforts, in our labors and in our amusements.

—Thomas Jefferson

Three German Divisions

Three German infantry divisions are now serving with the army of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. More divisions are in the making.

The rearmament of West Germany has not proceeded as rapidly as was planned. Surprisingly the opposition to rearmament came from the Germans themselves. There apparently has been little interest among the youth of Germany in any form of militarism or a revival of the Prussian or Nazi concept of world conquest.

It is significant, however, that since the Russians' brutal supression of the Hungarian revolt there has been a marked change in the attitude of the Germans on the need for military defense. And that is an encouraging development from our standpoint.

West Germany is steadily reestablishing itself as a power in the industrial world. Our guess is that the new Germany, conscious thru bitter experience of the consequences of mad militarism, will become a most important bulwark against aggression and a great power in the defense of the free world.

Power Versus Responsibility

Democrats, much encouraged by the Proxmire victory in Wisconsin, look forward with renewed confidence to the battle of ballots in 1958. They probably have a right to be optimistic.

Democrats, presently are in the fortunate position of having power without responsibility. They control Congress, and that is power. Congress controls the course of government action.

But responsibility for government action in any form is generally accepted as resting in the executive branch of the government, in which the president is presumed to be the leader. And the executive branch of the government is a Republican responsibility.

In the national election campaign that now is getting under way, these components of power and responsibility are going to be unusually confusing. President Eisenhower's real strength has not been in his own party but rather in the support he has had from the conservative Democrats in both the Senate and the House.

Undoubtedly historians will accept Dwight Eisenhower as a great president. As the commander of the allied forces in the second world war his greatest contribution to victory was his success in keeping the allied nations united. And as a president dealing with a congress controlled by an opposition party, influenced certainly by the hope that his administration would be a failure, his performance has been outstanding.

For this good record both Democrats and Republicans deserve credit. The country is fortunate in having leaders in both parties who believe that the welfare of the country is more important than the welfare of the political organization of which they are a part.

Prince Charles Goes To School

Prince Charlie, who may have the misfortune of some day becoming king of England, started school this month, as did millions of other youngsters thruout the world. He is enrolled at Cheam which is referred to as one of England's public schools. We are not going to labor that point.

What interested us was an Associated Press report on the facilities that are available to him at Cheam. And we have no reason to question the accuracy of this report:

"The Prince will sleep in a scrubbed-floor dormitory with seven or eight other boys. The beds are hard wooden boards—no springs—with hard mattresses similar to those in an army barracks. Woolen blankets are supplied—some of them darned. Charles, like his schoolmates, will keep his day clothes in a basket under the bed at night and his night clothes in the basket during the day. The dormitory bathrooms contain large, old-fashioned tubs and wash basins. Some do not have running water. There are no carpet or rugs. The dining room has a bare wooden table and chairs presented by former boys."

We are not feeling sorry for young Prince Charlie. We like the report because it reminds us that some of the folks who can afford luxury also appreciate the value of a little austerity and hardship in the education process.

They evidently think it is important that their royal youngsters learn to live like the poor. In our society, controlled largely by a generation of newly rich poor people, the purpose seems to be to teach our youngsters to live like kings.

Interstate Problem

The following report, released under a Minneapolis date line, deserves quoting. We quote:

International Transport, Inc., Fargo, N. D., trucking firm, said it is moving its operations to Rochester, Minn., because of "adverse" trucking legislation in North Dakota.

The company which operates a fleet of about 100 trucks in 26 Western states and five Canadian provinces, has leased 10 acres and an administration building there.

John W. Jacobs, general manager, said truck tax changes by the North Dakota legislature this year will "kill" reciprocal licensing agreements with other states. The legislature voted to tax out-of-state trucks over 12 tons, with the tax based on mileage and varying according to the number of axles of a truck.

Under reciprocal agreements between states, a truck licensed in one state can travel free of road taxes in the others.

Mr. Jacobs said the company cannot afford to remain at Fargo because other states are retaliating. "We must either pay a truck-mile tax in each state or buy a license for that state," he said.

Mr. Jacobs said a number of the company's trucks were tied up in Illinois because of the lack of reciprocity.

"Out of Rochester we will pay the truck-mile tax in North Dakota only," he said. "If we remained, we would suffer in all states."

A spokesman for the Minnesota Motor Transport Association said reciprocity between Minnesota and North Dakota has been extended to January 1 for trucks over 32 tons, but will end then, and that Iowa is currently considering whether it will require North Dakota truckers to buy Iowa licenses.

Mr. Jacobs said most of the firm's 125 employees at Fargo will move to Rochester.

We could have shortened this report considerably, but all of the facts are interesting and, for our purposes, deserve recognition.

Breaking the problem down to fundamentals we probably would all agree that there is need for uniform interstate regulation of highway traffic, from passenger cars to freight transports. This is a field of transportation that needs more regulation, in the interests of uniformity at the national level.

They Choose to Get Four

(By W. E. Barnes in Sleepy Eye Herald-Dispatch)

The progress made by West Germany since the war is astounding. Beaten to earth little more than a decade ago, it is challenging England, France and the United States for world trade and getting more than its share.

What is the answer? There are many angles, but the main answer can be summed up in one word: WORK.

While its victorious opponents of a few years ago have been taking things easier, the Germans have been working. Hours aren't unreasonably long, but each hour must show a scheduled production.

As a result, West Germans are living high much higher than any of their neighbors. They don't have all the conveniences found in America, but they will have if they keep up the pace.

From Germany all of us can learn a lesson: the more all of us produce, the more each of us can have.

On the other hand, limited production—and we have been practicing it in America industry—in the long run will mean less for each producer.

It is just simple arithmetic, like dividing 20 by five and getting four, or dividing 10 by five and getting two. Germany has chosen to get four.

Oscar Johnson Passes Suddenly

The community was shocked on Tuesday at the sudden and unexpected passing of Oscar Johnson, a long-time resident in the Linsell area. He died suddenly, without warning, after chores Tuesday morning. His 13 year old daughter, Hilda missed him and had gone to look for him before leaving for school. She found him in the yard and thought he had fallen and hurt himself. She then ran 1½ miles to the Earl Cleaveland home for help. Mrs. Cleaveland contacted Harold Bird and John Mork and they went to help Mr. Johnson but he was dead when they arrived. Dr. Berg was called from Roseau to attend to details.

Mr. Johnson was preceded in death by his wife Christine, in 1955 and he is survived by his daughter Hilda, a step-daughter, Lillian and a sister.

The funeral service was held Saturday, Sept. 7 at 2 p. m. at the Bethesda Church, Skime with Rev. Rykken of Roseau officiating. Mrs. Tom Skime of Roseau and Mrs. Andrew Skime rendered two songs, "God Will Take Care of You" and "Does Jesus Care" during the service.

Oscar Johnson was born in Sweden, July 8, 1887 and came to the United States in 1902. At the time of his death he was 70 years 1 month and 25 days of age. He spent his life as a farmer and had farmed in Linsell township for a number of years. He had served his term in the armed forces during W. W. I and was given full military honors at the funeral.

The Listug Funeral Home of Roseau was in charge of the arrangements and pallbearers were Ted Thompson, Glen Bird, Harold Bird, Leslie Creighton, George Mork and John Mork.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Foss and family who had spent the past two years at Livingston, Mont. came back to their farm on Saturday. They plan on staying for some time.

Strandquist . .

By Mrs. Ed [illegible]

Christine Toll Passes Away Friday

Death again visited our community when Miss Christine Toll passed away very suddenly about 3:00 o'clock Friday night at the Warren hospital. She has been ailing for many weeks but when she finally decided to seek medical aid, gangrene had a good start in her foot and leg. Last Tuesday morning her leg was amputated and she has been sitting up in a wheel chair. They all found her cheerful and in good spirit Friday, looking forward to entering the Samaritan home. During the night she commenced to get chest pains, which sound like a heart attack.

Christine's parents, two sisters and a brother have preceded her in death so her only survivors are nieces and nephews (the Renstroms) and a cousin. She would have been 78 years in December and we all thought her much younger as she has always been so active. It won't seem like Strandquist as these old times slip away, one by one.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Carlson and Ella Thun visited at the Herman Nelson home Sunday evening.

Mrs. Ed Carlson visited at the Algon Lindgren home at Roseau for 4 days last week and she also had a medical check-up.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Boen took Ronnie and Donnie Carlson and Chester Boen to Bemidji on Sunday where the boys had enrolled in the state teachers college. Ronnie is fortunate in getting part time employment. More power to you boys!

Mrs. Robert Larson of Warren visited with her mother, Mrs. Mabel Olson Monday morning.

Mrs. Clara Turpen, Mrs. Hilma Lofstrom, and Mrs. Martin Peterson visited with Mrs. Anita Bjorkman Sunday afternoon.

Visitors of Ottina Rokke on Saturday were Mrs. Louis Larson and Nora Rokke.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Anderson and children left for their home in Lake Bronson Sunday after spending a few days at the E. R. Anderson home.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Anderson and children, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Anderson and Mrs. Robert Storeby were Thief River Falls callers on Wednesday.

Visitors at Sam Dahls this week were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hangard and family of Stephen, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Donarski and son, Ole Lougness, Elmer and Alfred Carlson, Mrs. E. D. Koehn of Hollywood Calif. and Mrs. Alpha Bunny of Michigan, N. D. They are the daughters of the late Albert Dahl, a former Strandquist resident. They also visited at the Gilman Stennes and Clarence Westman homes. Ladies are cousins.

Hubert Attendorf and Elmer Regimbal, Eddie Kuznia and Fleme Johnson of Argyle visited at the Martin Petersons Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wilkes (Gladys Dahlin) of Minneapolis and brother Orville Wilkes arrived a week ago Saturday at Martin Petersons and they left for their home on Labor day. Saturday evening they all went to the Stephen territory on a sight seeing trip.

Eunice Ione, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ingvald Rokke received the sacrament of Holy Baptism Sunday at the Bethesda Luth. church, Rev. A. H. Larson officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Haugen were sponsors.

Minnesota Summer Traffic Toll Is Down

Minnesota traffic deaths were substantially reduced during the 1957 summer period compared to previous years, the state highway department announced in a report showing comparisons of traffic fatalities over holiday periods and over summer months. Special emphasis safety programs over holidays were credited with a major share of the reduction.

This year, Labor day marked the end of the nation-wide "Slow Down and Live" campaign to reduce traffic accidents and deaths on the highways. In Minnesota, the figures tell the tale.

In 1954 the three holiday periods which occurred during the summer months, Memorial Day, the Fourth of July and Labor day, made a total of 12 days designated as the holiday periods, four days for each. On each of the first two holidays, six people lost their lives, but on Labor Day 10 were killed, making a holiday total of 22 deaths.

The following year saw a rise in this holiday death toll of three victims, bringing that total to 25 dead.

In 1956, however, with pressure mounting to stem the tide of death that rode beside our drivers, only 15 lost their lives amid the grinding crush of metal. This reduction of ten deaths was hailed as a major victory.

Now the totals for 1957 are available and the count shows that we are holding our own.

"The total fifteen dead on the highways of Minnesota during the eight days of holidays is a substantial decrease," the Minnesota highway department announced, "but this does not mean we can relax our vigilance. It is time now to re-enforce our pressure against the careless, unsafe and law-breaking driver."

That the pressure sustained by the Safety division of the Minnesota Highway department is paying off is further shown by the total figures released for the months between Memorial Day and the final day of the Labor day holiday for the last two years.

The Highway departmemnt has announced that 223 persons were slain on the highways of the state in the period of 1956. However, in 1957, the count for the same period shows a total of 175 deaths, a substantial reduction from the previous year.

Again, the Highway department points out that this reduction, while it is substantial, is not cause for great jubilation. "So long as one person dies as the result of his contact with a motor vehicle, there is a great deal of work to be done," the report concluded.

Poll at Minnesota Fair by Jack Lyons Favors Democrats

Nixon Trails Kefauver and Kennedy as Aspirant for Presidency in 1960

The 19th annual Minnesota state fair poll shows a slight switchover among Minnesota Republicans, "perhaps 3 to 5 percent," according to Jack Lyons, poll operator and member of the DFL party.

17,029 persons were polled during the state fair this year, Lyons reported; 42% were city residents and 58% were from rural areas.

Along with the slight swing away from their party by those calling themselves Republicans, the 17,000 persons polled gave Democrats a wide margin for the presidency, a slight margin for governor, an overwhelming endorsement of Senator Hubert H. Humphrey, and an indication that GOP Senator Edward J. Thye may be in for trouble in the 1958 elections.

The questions and their answers follow:

Who would be your choice for President today? Kefauver, 56%, Nixon 38%; Kennedy, 58%; Nixon, 40%. Lyons distributed two different ballots, both carrying Nixons' name, but alternating the Kefauver and Kennedy names. Between 5 and 7% of those polled for presidential preference were undecided.

For U. S. Senator, Hjalmar Peterson or Edward J. Thye: Petersen, 52%; Thye, 44%; undecided, 4%.

Should Governor Freeman be re-elected: Yes, 51%. Should Senator Humphrey be re-elected: Yes, 68%.

Do you approve the Civil Rights Jury Trial Amendment: Yes, 78%; No, 17%; undecided, 5%.

Do you approve of youths going to China: Yes, 67%; No, 19%; undecided, 14%. 37% of those polled indicated they are Republicans, 46% classify themselves Democrats, and 17% stated they are "independents."

Lyons, St. Paul and Mankato businessman, has been pursuing his polling hobby at state fairs since 1938. The poll is conducted by ballot at his fair booth, and by postcards he distributes around the Fair Grounds.

Lyons final analysis of this year's balloting is, "Democrats are on the upswing again, Humphrey has never been more popular, Thye is in trouble, and Freeman is fairly safe."

The camp will be held at the University of Minnesota's Forestry and Biological station.

The University of Minnesota Agricultural Extension Service is sponsoring the camp for the fifth year, in cooperation with the Minnesota State Department of Health and the Minnesota Tuberculosis and Health association. The Folger Coffee Company is providing funds for the camp.

More than 100 boys and girls from all parts of Minnesota have won trips to this year's camp, according to Leonard Harkness, state 4-H club leader at the University of Minnesota. They were selected on the basis of their contributions toward improving health conditions in their homes and communities, their personal health records and their ability to bring back useful health information to fellow club members.

Announcement of the health achievement winners, one of the highlights of the camp, will be made Tuesday morning, Sept. 17.

Biological Lab Dedication Set

To Take Place Saturday North of Minneapolis

Dedication of the new laboratory building at the Cedar Creek Forest this week-end will mark an important milestone in biological research for Minnesota and the rest of the nation.

This building will make it possible to expand studies on wildlife and plant life in their natural surroundings, according to A. N. Wilcox, University of Minnesota horticulture professor and director of the forest, and Harold T. Peters, president of the Minnesota Academy of Science.

Also, the building and the rest of the forest will be available to any college in Minnesota.

Ceremonies for the dedication will take place Saturday at 2 p.m. at the forest, 2 miles north of the Twin Cities. Principal speaker there will be Stanley Cain, head of the conservation department at the University of Michigan. The public is invited to the dedication.

The building will be dedicated jointly by the University of Minnesota and the Minnesota Academy of Science, which played a key role in establishing the Cedar Creek Forest.

Now the southern surviving "outpost" of the evergreen forests in the Midwest, Cedar Creek Forest contains a wide variety of trees and other plants. It contains a full-scale "menagerie" of animal life, including deer, bear, grouse and other animals and fowl. Even golden eagles have lived there.

This huge natural collection makes the forest an ideal spot for scientific studies, Wilcox and Peters point out.

Underground development at International Nickel's mines in the Sudbury District of Ontario, Canada, totals 410 miles, or more than the distance between New York City and Toronto.

TOGETHER

Every experience means more when it is shared. When father, mother and children go to church together they are sharing a beautiful experience. When they sing the songs of the gospel, read the Scripture, listen to the sermon, unite in prayer, they are adding to the joy of being together. When they open their hearts to God and pledge allegiance to Him, family life is strengthened. The "togetherness" reaches out to include fellowship with others.

Young people who grow up in the Church, who have a truly Christian home, are blessed with a tremendous advantage. They have learned to work and live with other people for the glory of God and the advancement of His cause. There is strength in the very thought of uniting in work and worship.

Together—what a difference it makes! Does your family go to Church together?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Northrop Principal Takes in School Health Workshop

The teacher can help the child toward better health and at the same time help him develop an understanding and respect for the human body.

This was one of the points brought out at the 1957 school health workshop, according to Betsey Legvold, principal of Northrop school. Miss Legvold received a Christmas Seal scholarship from the Pennington County Tuberculosis and Health association to attend the recent annual workshop at Camp Lake Hubert near Brainerd.

A total of 78 persons — nearly all of them elementary school teachers and principals — were workshop "pupils." About 50 counties were represented. The one-week meeting is sponsored each year by the Minnesota departments of health and education and the state Christmas Seal organization.

Importance of a pleasant as well as a safe school atmosphere was stressed by Sol Lifson, health education director for the National Tuberculosis association, according to Miss Legvold's report. Mr. Lifson was one of several national health authorities who served as workshop consultants.

9th Annual Purebred Ram Sale in Arena in TRF Monday, Oct. 7th

The 9th annual Northern Minnesota purebred ram sale will be held at the arena in Thief River Falls Monday, October 7. Sheep breeders of Northwestern Minnesota have promoted this sale to an outstanding event through the consignment of only the best rams in their flocks. The rams are selected for proper body conformation and breed characteristics, with special emphasis placed on entering only quality rams.

Bob Jacobs, extension livestock specialist with the University of Minnesota, and Carl Spong of the Central Livestock Shipping association, Fargo, will be on hand to judge the rams. Both men are well known to sheep breeders in the area from their activity at Greenbush Sheep Days. Johnny Clow, Orleans, will be the auctioneer.

Several rams to be sold in the sale at Thief River Falls have won awards at other shows. One ram placed first in the yearling class at the 1957 Winter Shows in Crookston, and was sired by the 1954 champion of the Winter Shows; another ram which placed second at the Winter Shows will also be up for sale, as well as a ram whose sire is from a dam which was champion at the Iowa state fair, Kansas state fair and the Kansas free fair.

The fleece weights of some of the rams sheared were 15 to 18 pounds. A dam to one of the rams produced 166 pounds of mutton in 110 days, and sheared 14 pounds of wool. This is an income of over $40.00, figuring mutton at 20 cents a pound and wool at 50 cents a pound.

Some lucky individual will get his purchase free, as the result of a drawing to be held after the sale.

TRF Is Represented at Meeting in Fargo of Beet Producers

Stability of the sugar beet industry is one of the crop's greatest benefits to beet growers, but the stability can be lost "by unwisely expanding acreages," according to Sen. Bennett of Utah.

Bennett spoke Thursday night in Fargo at the 19th annual convention of the Western Beet Growers Assn. of North Dakota Growers Assn. He was introduced by Sen. Milton Young of North Dakota.

With regard to the crop's stabilizing effects, Bennett said that along with production controls "which we practice through a system of acreage allotments, we also follow a pattern of marketing allotments."

Representing the Tri-county Sugar Beet association at the session were J. M. Roche, secretary; and Leonard Furuseth and Melvin Torgerson, directors.

E. W. Rising of Washington, D. C., executive vice president of the Western Beet Growers assn., discussed the relationship of the 1956 sugar processing act of the producer, while Harvey Johnson, general agriculture agent for the American Crystal Sugar Co. of Denver, pointed out how the marketing act has served to protect the consumer.

All officers, with the exception of one director, were re-elected at Thursday's annual meeting.

R. T. Adams, Fisher, Minn., declined to serve another term and was replaced by M. L. Koester, Sabin, Minn.

Others renamed include Elnar Johnson, Warren, president; E. W. Woman Freed in Slaying Case at Crookston

Mrs. Edna A. Briggs Acquitted of Charge of Killing Husband

A 52 year old Crookston woman, left district court in that city Thursday night a free woman after a jury of 11 men and one woman found her innocent of the murder of her husband.

Mrs. Edna Alice Briggs was acquitted of the third degree charge after the jury had deliberated more than five hours. The woman had been charged with shooting her husband, Roy Briggs, on July 12. She had faced a possible prison sentence of 7-30 years.

After listening to final arguments Thursday afternoon by defense attorney Morris Dickel and County Attorney F. H. Stadsvold, Judge J. H. Sylvester had instructed the jury to bring in one of the following verdicts: Guilty of murder in the third degree, guilty of first degree manslaughter, guilty of second degree manslaughter or acquittal.

The case went to the jury about 4:30 p.m.

While testifying in her own defense earlier Thursday, Mrs. Briggs collapsed, from a slight stroke, but an attending physician pronounced her capable of continuing. She was returned to the court room in a wheelchair.

During the court recess after Mrs. Briggs' collapsed her daughter, Katherine, 13, fainted in a hall outside the courtroom.

Under questioning by her attorney, Mrs. Briggs testified, Thursday that she could remember nothing from the time her husband allegedly beat her until she woke up in the county jail July 13, the day after her husband's death.

Mrs. Briggs also testified that her husband had often threatened her life and had on a number of occasions tried to talk her into playing "Russian Roulette" with him. She broke down several times during interrogation.

Much of Thursday's testimony dealt with statements attributed to Mrs. Briggs after the shooting. Sheriff Carl Knutson said Mrs. Briggs signed a statement July 13 admitting the killing. Mrs. Briggs said she remembered signing the statement but added she didn't know what it was.

While Mrs. Briggs listened from her wheelchair, Mrs. Adelind Corbin, a stenographer, testified regarding a statement she took from Mrs. Briggs following the shooting. She said Mrs. Briggs was not forced to sign. Mrs. Corbin was the final witness.

Thursday afternoon Dickel and prosecutor F. H. Stadsvold, summed up their cases briefly for the jury. Dickel claimed in his final arguments that the state had failed to prove that Mrs. Briggs shot her husband and had only her statement admitting the shooting as evidence. Dickel claimed that she didn't know what the statement was when she signed it.

'No-show' Penalty Set by Airlines

$3 Fee to Be Charged Those Who Miss Flights

Starting Sunday, Sept. 15, the nation's scheduled airlines will impose a $3 penalty on passengers who fail to show up for their flights without giving the airlines adequate notice.

The $3 fee will be collected when a delinquent passenger presents his ticket for refund or for booking on a later flight.

The object of the penalty is to eliminate such "no-shows"—people who make reservations, then change their plans, fail to show up at flight time and don't bother to cancel their reservations. This results in "sold out" flights taking off with empty seats which were denied other travelers who really needed them.

The penalty plan was developed by the Air Transport Association of America, the airline industry's national organization, and approved by the Civil Aeronautics Board which has become alarmed by the growing inconvenience caused the traveling public by "no-show" passengers.

The penalty plan will protect passengers who are holding confirmed reservations, make more seats available to those who really want them and increase airline efficiency.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA Contact Representatives at the Minot VA Hospital, or the Bismarck or Grand Forks VA offices.

Q—I am a Korea veteran eligible for GI training. I recently returned to active duty and as a result will be unable to start training when my starting deadline arrives. Could the deadline be postponed in my case?

A—No. Under the law, veterans must begin Korean GI training before their deadline, which is three years from date of discharge. There are no exceptions.

Q—How do I go about changing the beneficiaries on my GI insurance policy?

A—Get a "Change of Beneficiary" form at any VA office. Fill it out, sign it, and send it to the VA District Office where you pay your premiums. Or you may simply write the District Office a letter, listing your beneficiaries. In writing, be sure to give your full name, address and insurance number.

Q—I understand that a disabled Korea veteran continues to receive subsistence payments for two months after he has been declared rehabilitated. What if he stops training before he is completely rehabilitated? Will he also get subsistence payments for two months afterwards?

A—No. The extra subsistence payments are made only after rehabilitation has been completed. They will not be made if a veteran stops training beforehand.

Q—I am planning to start school this fall under the Korean GI Bill. How can I find out whether the course I want to take is GI-approved?

A—Your VA Regional Office maintains a list of GI-approved courses. This information is not available at VA headquarters in Washington, D. C.

BY Mack Draper

That fellow, Jack Frost, who's been hovering in the weather background, is eventually going to show up in these parts, bringing to an end our nice, mild late summer.

He'll paint tree foliage in all sorts of brilliant hues and put a bracing nip in the morning air . . . not wholly a favor, you understand, of course, since he'll ruin all our gardens at the same time he puts an end to lawn-mowing for the year.

But, we do enjoy fall even tho it signifies the end of another year, leaving us one less to go in the fulfillment of our life span. (What a morbid thought so early in the a.m.!)

They say the secret of contentment is to be able to take things as they come and always look at the brighter side. And, one must admit, the color-splashed fall scenery in northwester Minnesota makes it easy to see the brighter side!

Thoughts while painting . . . is it mere coincidence, this resemblance between the hair style and other odd characteristics of Elvis Presley and that of the young punks so often at odds with the gendarmes in the cities across the nation?

When we see the kids going for such paltry heroes we wonder if the older generation isn't right for once in their eternal claim that youth is going to the dogs.

(And look who who's omitting himself from this "older generation" business!)

Thoughts while shaving . . . true, it's easier for a man to shave than it is for a woman to put up her hair—but who ever heard of a woman cutting herself while doing her hair?

The worst thing affecting hunter-farmer relations is the hunter who spoils everything for all the rest by antagonizing the farmer by wantonly disregarding the rules of hunting courtesy.

The spoilsports have really outdone themselves now, with the result that the last state legislature passed a bill to the effect a farmer need not post his land to keep hunters off.

Now, if a hunter goes onto a piece of land without permission he can be arrested for trespassing, even tho the land isn't posted. The farmer still has to sign a complaint, of course.

There are two sides to the question. In the more thickly-settled pheasant hunting areas of the state the new law poses not so much of a problem and will actually curb the discourteous hunter.

But, up here where one can often go for miles without seeing a house and it would, more often than not, be difficult if not impossible for the hunter to seek out the landowner in order to get permission to hunt.

So far as we know all the state sportsman's clubs and allied organizations recommended against passage of the new law, to no avail.

What we're wondering is: will the people in the more southern areas of the state favoring the new law bother to ask permission of the landowners when they come up into the wilds to hunt deer and grouse—or will they conveniently forget the law's passage when the farmhouses get few and far between?

Last but not least, we want to let you enjoy one of our fan letters with us. This is a real friendly one and it warms the cockles of our heart to know there is such a jovial character in our fair city.

Here is the letter:

"How can a responsible, intelligent editor (of which the Times can claim two—both distinguished) permit the unadulterated asininity which drivels out of Draper's typewriter to find its way into a so-called column? He has made ultra-stupid remarks before but now he has won the unenviable distinction of topping them all.

"The federal government has no business in Arkansas this Sage of Sump-Pump Bottom says. Has he read the Constitution? Has he read the decisions of the Supreme Court? Does he know that the President swears to uphold the Constitution and the laws of the land?

"Put him in the back room counting type lice—if the guys back there can stand him.

Cordially yours, Ora Kell."

The answer to all of "Oracles" questions is in the affirmative. But, thank goodness, there are far more qualified men than Ora—"Kell"—or I—to settle this nasty Little Rock business.

SO LONG!

The key to safety is you.

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLD TIMERS

From C. J. Cardwell, Clarksburg, W. Va.: I remember when I was a boy about 12-years-old, my father would take me to the old flour mill. There were three of us boys and we would take turns.

Mother would take the flour we brought home and make light bread and pancakes and molasses cakes . . . and they certainly were good.

I made the fires at our school and cleaned the schoolhouse for 10 cents a day for the term. I got $10.00 for the five-month term. We spelled for head marks in those days and our teacher gave a present to the one who got the most marks. I got the present both winters. One was a testament and the other a dictionary.

I often think of those days and the good times we had at school and at home. We would get our lessons at night by the old wood fireplace and after that we would parch corn and eat that before going off to bed.

Hearings Slated on Agriculture at State Capitol

The Minnesota legislative interim commission on agricultural problems will hold two hearings at the state capitol at St. Paul on Monday, September 23 at room 113, according to Senator P. J. Holand of Austin, chairman of the commission.

At 9:00 a.m. a hearing will take place on the advisability of introducing legislation to prohibit the use of virulent hog cholera virus in Minnesota, with the second hearing at 1:30 p. m. on legislation for improved health requirements for artificial insemination. Senator Holand said today that anyone in the state is invited to attend and present their views to the commission. Rep. Richard Fitzsimons of Argyle is secretary of the interim commission.

Kitchen Shift for Efficiency

Many Pennington county 4-H'ers and homemakers could make their kitchen work easier and speedier by merely relocating food supplies and equipment. Even modern, well planned kitchens usually can benefit from simple reorganization. Some tips for more efficient kitchen reorganization are:

1. Store things close to where you usually use them first, for example, saucepans near the sink where you put water in them before they go to the range, but frying pans near the range.

2. Have "extras" of the inexpensive items you use in several places in the kitchen — a set of measuring cups and spoons near the range and another set near the mixer. Keep a small supply of flour near the range for thickening gravies and sauces, but keep the main supply in the mixing center.

3. Keep all materials you will use on a particular job in one place. For frying fish, as an example, have frying pan, flour, frying fat and fork close to the range.

Arrange Furniture

Rooms need to work for the family to provide good living. Arrangements are "good" when they are attractive and provide comfort and convenience for your family's activities.

Because each family's needs are different from those of others, there is no one correct way to arrange furnishings in a room. There are, however, some general rules of good arrangement which apply to most situations.

Arrange large pieces first and place them following the structural lines of the room. This means that large pieces should not be placed across corners. Chairs may be angled slightly to make a more friendly grouping.

Arrange furniture in groups to take care of family activities. A complete group will have all things needed for that activity. For example, a writing or desk group will have a desk or table, a lamp, a chair, a waste basket and storage for writing materials.

Keep traffic lanes free. All family members go through the house by routes or traffic lanes. Keep these in mind as you place furnishings. A coffee table or a footstool placed in a traffic lane is a real safety hazard.

Keep pieces used together well scaled with each other. Scale has to do with sizes — whether a piece is large, or small and more fragile looking. A small thin-legged table is out of place with a heavy over-stuffed chair, but may seem right when placed with a smaller one such as an open-armed occasional chair.

Crystals in Jelly

A problem many women have in making grape jelly is preventing the crystals that so often form and spoil the texture of the jelly. Those crystals are due to tartic acid in the grapes. Extension nutritionists at the University of Minnesota recommend letting he juice stand overnight before you make the jelly. Then the crystals will have a chance to form and will settle to the bottom. In the morning, pour off the clean juice and throw away the sediment. If you don't want to make the jelly immediately, can the juice and make the jelly when it's convenient.

Runs by Jim Bennes Aid in Local's Win Over RLF

Sparked by the breakaway running of their fullback, Jim Bennes, the Prowlers opened their district conference competition by trouncing the Eagles of Red Lake Falls, 31 to 0, here Friday night.

The Prowlers will continue district play this week when, on Thursday night, they meet coach Harold Sullivan's Little Green Wave at East Grand Forks. The kickoff time for Thursday evening's tilt at East Grand Forks is at 7:30 p.m.

Bennes, who scored a pair of touchdowns, tallied a 6-pointer in the first period on a 12-yard run, and added the conversion point on a line plunge. The Prowler fullback set up that touchdown by breaking off left tackle for a 31-yard run, carrying the ball to the Eagles' 14-yard stripe.

In the second period, Bennes swept out around left end for a 48-yard touchdown sprint. And the redhead just missed gathering a pass from Phil Hanson for another touchdown in the third period.

The Prowlers, receiving the game-opening kickoff, had their first drive halted by a pass interception, with the Eagles' Dan Clement picking off Phil Hanson's pass on the Red Lake Falls' 40-yard line. After gaining a first down to midfield, the Eagles in three tries, picked up six yards, and Chuck Kankel kicked to Nicholson on the Prowlers' 15-yard line.

Three first downs carried to the Eagles' 42-yard line, but there Red Lake Falls held, and Phil Hanson was forced to kick.

The Eagles, failing to gain in three running plays, booted to the Prowlers, the ball going out of bounds on the 49-yard line. Dave Rasmussen drove over right tackle for 4 yards, and then Bennes sprinted to the Eagles' 14-yard line. After Rasmussen had gained a couple of yards, Bennes sliced through right tackle for the touchdown. His plunge over left tackle added the point.

The Prowlers, in the second period, scored a pair of touchdowns. After a Phil Hanson to Bennes pass had been completed to the Eagles' 2-yard line, Hanson drove over center for the td. The Prowlers were off-side on the try for the conversion. A short while later, Bennes came out around left end for a 48-yard touchdown run that carried the ball over the north goal-line. The pass try for the conversion point was incomplete.

The Prowlers closed out their scoring by adding a pair of touchdowns in the third period, Dave Rasmussen, on a bristling 23-yard run of right end scored early in the period; and Mickey Hanson, after the Prowler line had blocked a punt and given the locals possession on the Eagels' 2-yard line, hit right tackle for a touchdown. The Prowlers tried a pass play for the extra point, but the aerial was incomplete.

Flagman Talks To Drivers With Colored Flags On The Speedway

You're Off
One More Lap
Race Is Over
The Winner
Stop the Race

Out on the Thief River Speedway each Sunday, Bud Mercier, official flagman for the Northwestern racing association, talks with the drivers as they race around the quarter-mile dirt track by using a six flag code system. By waving the appropriate flag at the right time each driver knows exactly what is happening out on the track.

Three flags are used for every race. They are the green starting flag; the white flag, which tells the driver he has one more lap to make before the race is over and the familiar checkered flag which tells the driver the race is over, or that he is the winner. The remaining flags are used to signify trouble of some sort and are used less frequently.

When the black flag is waved at the approaching car the driver immediately knows he has been disqualified for some infraction of the racing rules or for some unseen damage to his car that may be considered a safety hazard for him and the other drivers.

The yellow flag means that there has been a minor accident on the track and the driver is cautioned to slow down and hold his position. The red flag means trouble, a serious smash-up or other accident and the drivers must stop the race and clear the track.

Sharptail Grouse Season to Start Saturday, Sept. 21

Prospects for Getting Limit Not Bright, Says Game Warden Sundstrom

"Nothing to get excited about," was the way Carl Sundstrom, local game warden, described the sharptail grouse hunting prospects in the Pennington county area.

Sundstrom said the hunting this year should be about the same as that of last year. The season opens Saturday, Sept. 21.

The only improvement noted in the sharptail prospects was in an area west of Thief River Falls and south of Minnesota Highway 1, which was reopened for hunting this fall. Sundstrom said sharptail numbers in the newly-opened area were noticeably higher than in other local areas.

He also said reports from the Roseau area indicate better hunting will be enjoyed by those who trek in that direction.

Sundstrom had good news for ruffed grouse hunters in that there is a marked increase in this species this year for the first time in several years. Season on this gamy brush-dodger, also known as "Partridge" and "Mountain Pheasant," opens Sept. 28, and it may be hunted state-wide.

Hungarian partridge may also be hunted on a state-wide basis but the huns, like the sharptails, seem to be down this year, according to Sundstrom.

State Legion to Aid in Combating Asiatic Influenza

Leonard G. Carlson of Marshall, department commander of the American Legion, has taken steps requesting the more than 91,000 members of his organization in Minnesota to cooperate in every manner possible with the medical profession and health services to combat the threatened epidemic of Asiatic influenza.

American Legion participation in this crisis is nation-wide, led by National Commander Dan Daniel. The national organization pledges its support to the U. S. Surgeon General and the U. S. Public Health Service.

To implement the program in Minnesota, Commander Carlson has made contact by letter with more than two hundred committeemen and key members of the state organization.

Commander Carlson says: "I urge every department, district, county, and local officer to take immediate steps to set up committees on a county and post level to work in cooperation with local medical authorities to assist in any way possible against this epidemic."

Weather Was Rainy Here over Weekend

City Receives .20 Inch; No Frost Recorded Yet

The weather around Pennington county and northwestern Minnesota in general continues its humdrum ways lately, but there's a new note in the forecast.

In short, it may not rain today nor tonight. Furthermore, it is supposed to warm up today, the winds will be light and the humidity will be down, according to the KTRF weatherman.

For the records, the weather since Thursday has been mostly a story of clouds and water although this city received only .20 inches of rain over the entire period.

There was only a 5-degree temperature variation on the high side, with high ranging from 57 to 62 and lows were in the 40-45 bracket. No frost has yet been recorded.

The cheerful forecast: generally fair today and tonight, slightly warmer temperatures also, with little change Tuesday except that skies will be partly couldy then. Light winds and low humidity will prevail. Highs will be from 53-62 and the lows will be in the 40's.

The Times strives to be a show-window of this comunity.

A New Champion

John Matchefts, the former Eveleth high school, Michigan Wolverine, and U. S. Olympic hockey star, exchanged his hockey stick for a golf club on Sunday and won the city golf championship. Johnny defeated Shorty Perkins, 5 and 4, to succeed to the title held by Rudy Mehloff last year.

Considering the miserable weather conditions that prevailed (Snowball Special weather is what it was), Matchefts played a very steady brand of golf, and he truly deserved the championship.

And he beat a capable shotmaker in Perkins, too, for Shorty, in sending Stan Larson to the sidelines, turned in a blistering 33-38. It was apparent on Sunday that Shorty was feeling the effects of the championship finals pressure. Shorty is usually efficient around the greens, but distance was at fault on numerous occasions. And it cost him the match.

And so Johnny Matchefts, as city golf champion, joins the select group that contains such names as Hans Chommie, Vic Jung, Jim Nordine, Tommy Jorde, Stan Larson, Jerry Tygeson, Rudy Mehloff and others. And of this group, the city title monopolizers have been Chommie and Jung.

Item

A news item datelined Cambridge, Mass., and carrying this caption "Center Lost to Harvard", goes on to state that "Mike Prichard of St. Paul, Minn. is ill in Panama and will not be able to return in time to join Harvard's football squad in the pre-season drills. Coach John Yovicin had planned on using Prichard at the center position."

That's of interest to local sports fans for the Mike Prichard mentioned is the son of the late Charles (Chuck) Prichard, who was a quarterback of the Prowlers back in 1917 and 18. And Mike is a nephew of Bill Prichard, and cousin of Jub, Phil, Bruce, and Sue Prichard. Mike, who played his football, in high school, with the University high school in St. Paul, is in his junior year at Harvard.

From the Records

The official records reveal that Edwin Broughton (of the Roseau Broughtons) was assessed, and paid, a fine of four dollars for providing board and room for and unlicensed "wild" animal. The "wild" animal in question is "George"—a pet raccoon that Ed has in his possession.

Incidently, that raccoon has no friends in Jack Boyer and Phil LeGault. These two fellows are circulating a petition for a declaration of an open season on "George". They maintain that he, "George", is a menace to society, that he is anti-social, that he harbors fleas and lice, that he looks ugly and smells worse. "George" hasn't made any comments as to Jack and Phil.

An Honest Election?

The Bjorkman's softball team held their annual meeting and banquet one night last week, and, from all reports, a grand time was had.

The first order of business to come up for decision was the naming of a manager for next season. Doug Tegtmeir, with a fine nominating speech, and which should cinch his first base job, placed the name of Lowell (Mukkett) Collins in nomination. Milt Reierson seconded the nomination.

Then, from one of the rear seats, uprose Dennis (Spanky) Sullivan. Spanky demanded, and got, the floor, and he placed in nomination for manager the name of Clair (Shorty) O'Hara. Numerous seconds were heard and acknowledged.

A secret ballot was taken, and the results of the votes cast was that Collins received one vote and O'Hara received sixteen or seventeen. While it isn't charged that Mukkett cast the lone vote for Collins, investigation revealed that that vote was cast on a Soo Line freight depot receipt.

It was all in fun, though, for Cliff, the sponsor, tells me that he has Collins signed to a three-year contract as manager of the Bjorkman's softball team. And that this contract carries a no-release clause.

Matchefts Wins Golf Title from L. Perkins

It was a potpourri of weather—sunshine, cold and gale-like winds, rain and drizzle—as the championship flight golf finals were played over the local course on Sunday afternoon. Johnny Matchefts won the city golf championship by defeating Larry (Shorty) Perkins by a 5-up and 4 to play margin.

In the championship flight finals, Stan Larson, city champion of a couple years ago, played par golf to defeat John Moum.

The championship flight finalists, Matchefts and Perkins, gained their finals berths by defeating Wally DuChamp and Phil LeGault in semi-finals matches. On Friday afternoon, Matchefts, by a 3 and 2 margin, defeated DuChamp; while on Saturday afternoon, Perkins, shooting six bidies on the second round, defeated LeGault, 4 and 3.

The finals on Sunday started off as if it would be a nip-and-tuck affair, with the match being all even after five holes had been played, but then Matchefts, with a birdie and three pars, won the 6th, 7th, 8th, and 9th holes, gaining a 4-up lead.

Perkins, who was playing poorly around the green, and being particularly erratic on his approach putts, pared Matchefts' lead by taking the 2nd hole on the second round. John came back to win the 3rd hole, they halved the 4th hole, and the match was closed out on the long 5th hole, with Perkins hooking his drive into the drive and taking a six to Matchefts' five.

Numerous flight championship finals matches remain to be played, and the tournament committee hopes that these matches, which were to have been played on Sunday, will be re-scheduled for Wednesday evening, stag night.

State Taxpayer Unit Cites 1957 Spending by the Legislature

"The Financial Record of the 1957 Minnesota State Legislature" is the title of the latest research bulletin issued by the Minnesota Taxpayers association's Research Division, of which Harold L. Henderson is the director.

The 13-page bulletin, in analyzing the appropriations made by the 1957 legislature, shows clearly why the 1957 legislative session was by far the most expensive in the history of our state.

The grand total of appropriations for the 1957-1959 biennium is over $516½ million, which represents an increase of over $137 million. And the $516½ million figure does not include proposed state highway department expenditures for the biennium which, with federal aid, are expected to total about $215 million, or the many millions of federal aid money which will be spent for health, education and welfare purposes. With these figures added, total state expenditures for the 1957-1959 biennium will be close to a billion dollars.

Principal appropriation increases were in the huge education bill—almost $51½ million; in the big welfare and institutions bill—over $11½ million; and in the state departments bill—almost $10 million. Other appropriation increases included an estimated $10¼ million of contributions by the state to the state employees' and teachers' retirement funds (in an attempt to make these funds more actuarilly sound).

The appropriations to be financed from borrowed monies are more than double those of two years ago—going from $30 million to almost $65 million. The new borrowing policy is a radical departure from that of only a decade ago when the legislature was attempting to get on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Although no state levy on property was provided for general revenue fund purposes, the state mill levy outside the cities of Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth probably will be well over 11 mills—which is higher than it has been in the last 20 years, due to the large borrowing program and to the revision of the teachers' retirement law.

Naval Reserve Officers Exams Set for Dec. 14

High School Seniors and Graduates Asked to Apply Before November 16th

now available and must be re-

chief of naval personnel, announced today that the 12th annual national competitive examinations for the Navy's Reserve Officer Training Corps will be given to interested high school seniors and graduates on December 14. Application forms are now available and mustt be received before November 16, he added.

Designed to supplement the officer output of the Naval Academy, the NROTC program makes it possible for a young man to earn a commission while studying at the civilian college of his choice which has an NROTC unit. All tuition, fees and books are furnished by the Navy, and the student receives an annual retainer of $600 for four years. During the summers the student goes on training cruises as a midshipman.

After completing the usual four year college course, he is commissioned in the Regular Navy or Marine Corps and goes on active duty with the Navy's Officers. For those who apply and qualify, immediate assignment to flight training will open careers in naval aviation.

High school seniors and graduates between the ages of 17 and 21 may apply for the NROTC aptitude test. Those who make a qualifying score will be given a rigid physical exam early in 1958. From the pool of qualified young men remaining in competition, approximately 2,000 will be selected to begin their naval careers next September.

The NROTC college training program is also open to enlisted men on active duty with the Navy and Marines. Separate quotas are established for applicants from within these services.

Application forms are available at all high schools, colleges, Navy Recruiting Stas, or from the Chief of Naval Personnel, Washington 25, D.C.

Acounting Posts Are now Available Thru Civil Service

A test for accounting clerks and supervisors has been announced by Clarence C. Knudsen, civil service representative at the local postoffice.

Copies of the announcement and application blanks are available at the post office. Persons who apply before October 9 will be admitted to the first examination, Knudsen said.

The examination will be used for hiring in government offices locally and throughout a seven-state area, making up the Ninth Civil Service Region.

Beginning pay rates are from $3415 to $4080 a year.

Three Cheers For The "B" Team

Tis oft times said in football circles that today's gridiron stars oft times from "B" team freshmen grow. It's first year freshmen like Ronnie Ueland, left, and Wayne Dahl, members of the Newfolden eight man football squad that will fill starting positions when today's juniors and seniors graduate. Today, especially in the smaller schools throughout the county where the football roster is limited, it's the freshman squad that must scrimmage with the starting eight. When this is the situation, the "A" team can be no better than the daily competition . . . the "B" team. So, when your local team chalks up another victory . . . how about a cheer for the members of the "B" team.

Optometrists to Convene Sept. 22 in Minneapolis

It's back to the classrooms for hundreds of Midwest optometrists early next week as these professional vision specialists ready themselves for their annual "refresher" course. The educational sessions are planned as feature events of the North Central Optometric Congress scheduled for September 22-23-24 at Nicollet Hotel in Minneapolis.

Instead of a lecture series only this year, the Congress is initiating for the optometrists "How To Do It" table clinics which have been a successful part of similar gatherings in other areas of the country. Six table clinics will make up the program and each participant in the Congress may enroll in three of the six clinics.

Heart Assn. No Longer in Community Chest

The Minnesota Heart association has announced withdrawal from 68 community-wide federated fund raising drives in Minnesota, including the Pennington County Community Chest.

Dr. Robert L. Parker, Rochester, association president, said the Heart Fund elected to withdraw after "long and careful consideration, and a fair and lengthy trail of the federated fund principle."

Heart association programs of research, education, and community services are being unnecessarily restricted, said Doctor Parker, by continued affiliation with federated funds.

Doctor Parker said the Heart association's board of directors unanimously adopted the withdrawal policy with regret after evaluating Heart Fund progress during the past six years. During that period, the directors noted, the Association's growth has fallen dramatically behind in those areas where the Heart Fund accepts an allocation from the local community-wide drive.

In areas where the Heart Fund conducts independent drives, however, the public has consistently shown confidence and support by contributing three times as much per capita. This comparison also is true nationally, according to the American Heart Association, which approved the Minnesota Association's action.

Minnesotans contributed more than $500,000 to the 1957 Heart Fund. Equally important were valuable educational gains made in better public understanding of the heart disease problem, Doctor Parker emphasized. He said 40,000 state volunteers assisted with this year's drive.

Tractor Accident Kills Polk Co. Man

L. E. McWilliams, 75, was injured fatally Friday in a tractor accident on his farm near Eldred in Polk county.

McWilliams was operating a tractor on his farm when the machine went into a ditch and lurched forward. He was thrown in front of the tractor, which ran over him.

He died about a half hour after being taken to a Crookston hospital.

'U' Men Say Farm Size Big Factor in Net Earnings

Farm Economists Report on Ten-year Survey in Southern Minnesota

Farm size is the biggest single reason why some Minnesota farms make more money than others.

S. A. Engene and P. H. Hoepner, agricultural economists at the University of Minnesota, base that statement on a 1945-54 study of earnings on 119 farms in southern Minnesota.

Average figures for these farms show that during the 10-year period, every extra care of cropland gave an $18 annual increase in labor earnings.

Earnings varied greatly from one farm to another, the economists report. In 9 of the 10 years studied, eight or more farmers earned at least $6,000 more than the average of the group for the particular year, while in 8 of the 10 years, earnings of at least five farmers fell $6,000 or more below the average.

The study showed that the differences in income between farms were fairly consistent. Year after year, eight of the farmers had better than average incomes and another five were better than average in nine years.

On the other hand, 14 farmers didn't earn as much as the average in any year and another 12 were below average in only one year.

In addition to farm size, other factors causing differences in earnings were differences in kinds of crops grown, crop yields, kinds of livestock, livestock efficiency, labor efficiency and control of expenses.

Prices for different farm products can vary greatly, too. If hog prices go up and dairy prices go down, for example, average earnings may change very little, although hog farmers will gain and dairy farmers lose.

While some of the differences in farm earnings are beyond the farmer's control, much of the variation is due to things which depend on the farmer's managing ability, the economists add.

We Still Like Ed Thye

Following the recent political upset in Wisconsin some of the DFL party leaders in our state have suddenly shown interest as possible candidates to oppose Ed Thye next year for the office of U. S. Senator. Lieutenant Governor Rolvaag, for instance, has discovered that Thye is a two-timer and a double-crosser of the worst kind, and entirely unfit for the office he holds.

At the present time we wouldn't give much for the chances of the Republican party in the state in that 1958 election. There is a lack of harmony at the top level, and enthusiasm among the buck privates and non-coms is at low ebb.

But beating Ed Thye is another thing again. Ed Thye has not been a strong organization man as far as the party is concerned. He has voted as an independent most of the time. On questions of farm policy he has opposed the administration more often than he has supported it.

Here in our community we have several reasons for supporting him, regardless of partisan preferences. Just a couple of weeks ago he moved fast at the request of local groups to secure an earlier settlement date for the annual payments of Soil Bank claims. His method was typical. He secured prompt action and, best of all in our book, he wasn't noisy telling folks what he had accomplished.

We still like Ed Thye for 1958.

What of Little Rock?

Reasonable people are generally agreed that there are two sides to the question of racial integration of the public schools in some areas of the South. The Supreme Court has decided that segregation is unconstitutional. Prevailing public opinion supports this decision. We may take for granted, therefore, that over a period of time segregation will end.

Those who have the responsibility for enforcing integration, recognizing the difficulties involved, have wisely decided to make it a gradual process. In Arkansas, as in most other southern states, good progress has been made in securing the voluntary compliance of school authorities.

School authorities in the city of Little Rock had adopted a program of gradual integration that had been approved by a federal court. City officials were prepared to support this program. The state had not been asked to intervene and the Mayor of Little Rock resented publicly the action of Governor Faubus in using state troops to prevent the integration that local public officials had accepted.

These appear to be the facts, and, in fairness to the good citizens of Arkansas, we may assume that integration will proceed in an orderly way. There no doubt will be regrettable "incidents" but there is no reason to believe that the situation is going to become dangerous and a threat to the peace of the country—providing the program of gradual compliance is continued.

The following editorial comment of the Little Rock Arkansas Gazette expresses the views of many leading southerners. These views undoubtedly will ultimately prevail, if, as the editorial suggests, we approach the problem with "time and patience."

> Somehow, some time the present impasse between Mr. Faubus and the Federal courts must be resolved. That is the problem, and it is an extraordinarily complex one, that faces the responsible leaders of the city, the state and the nation. We can . . . pray that they will find a way out before the final showdown of force against force which Mr. Faubus has so far invited.
>
> But is is also an inescapable problem for each one of us. Somehow, some time, every Arkansan is going to have to be counted. We are going to have to decide what kind of people we are—whether we obey the law only when we approve of it, or whether we obey it no matter how distasteful we may find it.
>
> And this, finally, is the only issue before the people of Arkansas. It is quite true that most of us would have preferred to continue segregation in the public schools. But it is equally true that we cannot do so lawfully except with the voluntary consent of the Negro people whose children have been declared legally eligible for admission to schools heretofore reserved for Whites.
>
> It is important to remember that for the most part the Negroes of this community have volunteered not to exercise the new privilege guaranteed them by Federal law. They have accepted a plan of integration that involves only a tiny handful of members of their race. They have done so reluctantly on their side, but with good will—because they have recognized that the School Board of Little Rock was proceeding in good faith to work out the best practical solution to what all parties agree is a problem that cries out for time and patience.
>
> That is the spirit in which the great majority of the White and Colored people of this community accepted the School Board plan. Only a small and militant minority of Whites urged upon Mr. Faubus the extreme course of interposing his state authority directly against the order of a United States court.
>
> The legal precedent is firm and clear. In the 1930's the Governor of Texas called out the National Guard to prevent the enforcement of a Federal law. The unanimous opinion written by Chief Justice Hughes concluded:
>
> > "If this extreme position could be deemed to be well taken, it is manifest that the fiat of a state governor, and not the Constitution of the United States, would be the supreme law of the land; that the restrictions of the Federal Constitution upon the exercise of state power would be but impotent phrases, the futility of which the state may at any time disclose by the simple process of transferring powers of legislation to the governor to be exercised by him, beyond control, upon his assertion of necessity. Under our system of government, such a conclusion is obviously untenable. There is no such avenue of escape from the paramount authority of the Federal Constitution."
>
> This then is the law as interpreted by the Court whose voice on Constitutional matters is final. It is the law that in the end will prevail—and on Sunday there must have been many who prayed that its enforcement will not increase the already heavy damage that has been done to the spirit of good will and brotherly love that prevailed before armed, uniformed men suddenly appeared unannounced on our quiet streets.

SENATOR THYE Reports TO YOU from the UNITED STATES SENATE

Budget Cuts

Shortly after the President's Budget Message last January, I began a detailed study of every request in an effort to effect a reduction so that we could have a balanced budget and some hope of tax relief.—A study of the budget is not an easy task when you must consider the element of national security and defense.—However, I concluded that the budget could be reduced by at least 3.5 billion without hurting national defense or necessary services to the public by the government.—As a member of the Appropriations Committee I sat through months of hearings on the budget. As time went on I could see that my early prediction of a reduced budget was going to be sustained.—The table of appropriations bills shows that the budget requests were reduced by 7.7% or, 4.9 billion.—It is important to remember that this reduction has been made without weakening national defense, foreign policy, or the humanitarian services of the government at home.

Much is written and spoken about "so-called billions" which go from the Federal Government into the pockets of the farmers. The truth of the matter is that many of the "billions" included in the Department of Agriculture budget do not go to the farmers as direct payments.

Take for example the appropriations for activities under Public Law 480—This is the law under which surplus commodities are moved out of our warehouses into channels of foreign export. As a result, agriculture surpluses are reduced and our national markets are improved. The United States is paid for these exports in the currency of the receiving country, and these funds are deposited to the credit of our Treasury.

The foreign currencies which we receive under this program are used to finance many operations under mutual security. Since the beginning of the program three years ago, agreements with 34 countries have been made involving a total of $2097,400 in the sale and barter of surplus agriculture commodities.—The use of the foreign currencies is wide spread and includes such items as: 1. providing military housing abroad—106.3 million, 2. payment of U. S. obligations abroad—498.8 million, 3. purchase of strategic materials—7.2 million, 4. development of U. S. markets abroad—35.0 million, 5. international education exchange program, including Fulbright scholarships—18.4 million, 6. translation and publication of foreign educational materials—3.0 million.

There are a total of ten categories of uses for these funds—An interesting illustration is the exchange of a serviceman's salary from dollars to local currency. This exchange is made out of foreign money paid to this country for the purchase of agricultural products, and the serviceman's dollars come back into the U. S. Treasury.

Public Law 480 is one of the most effective methods we have developed to reduce surplus commodities. It was my pleasure to have played a part in its formation.—It is also an example of how a program which affects the foreign policy of the U. S. and all its people somehow gets charged to direct farm subsidy.

Tax Hearings for Small Business

Significant tax hearings by the Senate Small Business Committee will be held in fifteen major cities throughout the U. S. commencing Sept. 16 in Phoenix, Arizona.—The hearings are being held as a result of a suggestion I made to the Committee Chairman and the Committee staff. I participated in similar hearings in 1952 which resulted in constructive legislation. — No one disputes the need for tax relief. The problem comes when you consider what type of relief should be granted. It is my hope that with another balanced budget and with the 4.0 billion reduction in the budget that we can have a general tax reduction program next year.—The Small Business Committee will concentrate on the possible types of relief which should be made available to small business.—Testimony will be taken on four bills which I have co-sponsored with the Committee Chairman and on various other proposed tax relief measures.—Hearings will be held in Minneapolis in mid-November. I would be happy to hear from any who are interested in filing a statement with the Committee.

Planting Spring-Flowering Bulbs

For a glamorous spring garden the spring-flowering bulbs must be planted this fall. The best time to plant them will be as soon as most of the bulbs are available, starting the first of September up until the time frost occurs. The lesser bulbs, such as crocus, Scilla, Snowdrop, etc, should be planted early in September. Plant daffodils, hyacinths and tulips later.

• • • • • •

Tulips may be planted in blocks of one color or they may be set in patterns. These designs should be planned on paper prior to planting. This will give a good idea as to the number of bulbs necessary and also the location of the bulbs in the planting.

• • • • • •

When bulbs are used in the perennial border, it is best to cluster them in various locations. Plant four or five bulbs of one variety to give a good show of color at each location.

• • • • • •

Depth of planting depends upon the soil type and also the kind of bulbs involved. No bulb should be planted less than [illegible] inches deep. The larger bulbs, such as the daffodil and [illegible], should be planted from six to eight inches deep, depending on the type of soil in which they are to be grown. If the soil is a heavy clay, they should be planted just a little more shallow than if it is in light, sandy soil.

• • • • • •

Soil should be of good tilth. Addition of sand and organic matter to a heavy soil will greatly improve the tilth. Good drainage is essential for all bulbs.

• • • • • •

Four or five pounds of a complete fertilizer per 100 square feet will improve the nutrient level of the soil and provide better quality blooms.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

While all of the operations of the Department of Conservation are of great importance to the people of our state, those of the Bureau of Fisheries command the greatest public interest and attention. In a state with more than 10,000 lakes and over 1,300,000 fishermen this is easily understood.

Management and Research

In Minnesota, the work of the Bureau of Fisheries includes both research and management. Research must be conducted to find out what the best management methods are. At present 22 investigations are in progress. One of these involves a study of the effectiveness of such management practices as now exist, such as stocking, fish removal and stream improvement. Another involves the development of improved methods of rearing fish in hatcheries. Another consists of detailed studies of life histories, natural reproduction, and feeding habits of fish.

Lake Improvement

Twenty-five lake improvement projects have been completed this year, and others are in various stages of planning and construction. The completed projects include new water control dams, carp control barriers, carp trapping sites, and channel improvements to improve the natural spawning areas. Six crews are now working on trout stream improvement.

Lake Reclamation

Three lakes were poisoned so as to destroy undesirable species of fish, and then restocked with trout. Twenty-two such lakes have been reclaimed since this program started, with six more to be treated this summer. They are all small, cold-water lakes suitable for trout.

Rough Fish

Approximately 7,500,000 pounds of rough fish have been removed from Minnesota lakes during the past fiscal year. Ninety traps were in operation this spring and early summer for the removal of carp,—64 by state crews and 26 by individuals operating under permits.

Other Activities

Biological surveys and detailed depth maps are made on about 150 lakes each year, and thus far over 2,000 lakes in Minnesota have been covered. We have greataly expanded our fish rescue operations from lakes subject to winterkill.

The Minnesota department also cooperates with the Great Lakes Fisheries Commission in efforts to control the sea lamprey. Such measures consist principally of electrical barriers which trap the lamprey as it moves upstream to spawn. Two new selective poisons have been found which appear to be able to kill lamprey larvae without injuring fish.

More People, More Fishermen

As our population increases, and as greater leisure results in more vacations, we can expect constantly increasing demand pressing on our great game and fish resources. This means that the full utilization of the best possible conservation programs in this field are becoming of increasing importance.

Fall Fertilizing of Alfalfa

Are you satisfied with your alfalfa yields? If not its worth considering fertilization. It makes little difference whether you fertilize your alfalfa fields this fall or next spring.

Soils scientists show that applying fertilizer at either time will bring about the same results.

J. M. MacGregor, soil scientist compared spring and fall annual applications of 200 pounds of 0-20-20 fertilizer on Ranger alfalfa, over a 6-year period at Rosemount Experiment Station.

In 1951, first crop year after the experiment started, fall-fertilized alfalfa yielded 3.6 tons per acre, compared with 3.25 tons from spring application — not an important difference.

Yields in 1956 were 4.45 tons per acre for spring fertilizing, compared with 4.38 tons for fall fertilizing.

During the last three years, MacGregor says, there was a slight trend toward increased alfalfa yields where fertilizer was spring applied, but the difference for the entire 6 years was very small — 25.3 tons from spring fertilizing and 24.9 tons for fall fertilizing.

Kills Weeds in Fall

Fall is a good time to deliver a staggering blow to some of the worst weeds — Canada thistle, perennial sowthistle and quackgrass.

Several chemical treatments over several years are needed to completely get rid of any of these weeds.

But fall treatment is mighty important. It's possible to get good control of canada thistle and sowthistle by treating regrowth in stubble fields now with a pound of 2,4-D ester or MCP. Sowthistle, though, is a little easier to kill than Canada thistle.

You can also give these weeds a setback by applying 4-6 pounds of amino triazole in 30 or more gallons of water per acre.

For quackgrass, it's a good idea to apply dalapon now at 12-15 pounds per acre. Use it on quack that is growing well and plow the field a week or two later. This practice has been successful in several experiments.

After a fall treatment on quackgrass, plants that weren't killed can be treated the following spring with another 5-pound-per-acre dose of dalapon. Again, plow the area two weeks after treatment. Corn, wheat, and soybeans are sensitive to small quantities of dalapon that remain in the soil.

Where any of these three weeds occur in small patches, you can use sodium chlorate — a "soil sterilant" — to kill all plant growth. Use this material at 24 pounds per square rod. Areas treated this way, though, won't raise any crops for a year or more.

Oat Peddlers

Beware of oat seed peddlers hoping to capitalize on oat variety shifts due to rust damage throughout the corn belt this year. Bill Hueg, extension agronomist at the University of Minnesota, says unscrupulous peddlers may sell seed which is low in quality and often has doubtful pedigree. And they often charge more than you'd have to pay for locally grown certified seed.

Helping themselves to health

Millions of Americans have turned to cooperation to obtain a service which is basic to the well-being of all of us . . . complete health service. This includes both treatment and prevention . . . on the high level which modern medical science can provide. Millions more recognize in cooperative organization the solution to this great national problem, and are adopting it for their needs.

Cooperation in the field of health includes prepayment, to make sure that no economic barrier stands in the way of needed service. It includes group practice under unusually favorable conditions wherein doctors can practice at their highest levels of skill and specialization.

It means organized teamwork between doctors and patients in the business of keeping healthy.

Thus, once more, does cooperation point the way to the solution of a big problem. Once more does cooperation help us meet a problem in the typical American way of voluntary self-help.

Pastures Get Improvement

Early July clipping, August spraying and September fertilizing make up the pasture improvement schedule on Art Dierck's creek bottom pasture in Goodhue county. He finds it easier to control tough pasture weeds when 2,4-D is sprayed on second growth weeds, previously mowed, then when spraying is done earlier in the season without mowing. This report comes from Arnold Wiebusch, Goodhue county soils agent.

Pastures For Beef

In establishing pastures for beef cattle, first test the soil and apply lime and fertilizer according to soil needs, advises Paul Burson, soils scientist at the University of Minnesota. Then fertilize the pasture annually. Put on about 200 pounds of ammonium nitrate each year to give grasses a boost. Don't add any more nitrogen than actually needed, though. Too much might hold back the legumes more than necessary.

Effects Of Forest Drainage

How draining wet forest land increases timber production is shown by an elm tree cross section on exhibit in the Marshall-Beltrami Soil Conservation district office in Grygla. The tree was cut when 80 years old. A count of growth rings shows the tree started rapid growth in 1914, the year a nearby drainage ditch was constructed.

Air-Tight Seal Needed

Plastic bag silos or plastic covers for convetional silos do their job only when you get an air-tight seal, says Rodney Briggs, University of Minnesota agronomist. If a lot of air can get under the plastic, the silage will spoil just as it would if not covered at all. When using plastic, cover the edges with sand bags, silage, or other heavy, wet material. Just laying boards along the edge isn't enough.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare University of Minnesota

"A New Twist"

Boys and girls nowadays have become so accustomed to commercialized, highly organized recreation that sometimes to get something really new, the best way is to go back to something old. Carolyn Pearson and her friend Patty, both fourteen, were sorely disappointed when a cold rain prevented a proposed tennis game. They grumbled, "Oh heck, nothing ever turns out right!" Mrs. Pearson, too, had been inconvenienced by the rain so the afternoon promised only gloom.

Mother mentally explored the situation, asked herself why be this way, and with a slow but sure turn to a more positive frame of mind, she recalled, "You know how we would have spent an afternoon like this when I was your age? We would have had a TAFFY PULL! Goodness, home-made taffy since before you were born."

The afternoon's fun far exceeded that of their usual stereotyped activities. There was time for exclaiming over the shiny beauty of fresh butter-scotch, its tempting odor, its delightful taste. There was interest in why the taffy behaved as it did in the pan, in cold water, in the pulling and twisting.

The most satisfying climax came to Mrs. Pearson when she heard from the ninth grade English teacher later on that Carolyn and Patty had chosen, as their topic for an oral report in speech class a fun on their taffy pull—"A NEW TWIST"—and that their envious classmates insisted upon sharing the recipe for this "new" fun.

Along with twisting taffy, there are other long remembered delights, even the quiet ones, like making daisy chains or clover braids, mumbley-peg, and gathering moss and twigs for "pretend villages." One of the oldest and wisest men in our town tells restless teen-agers that in spite of his world-wide travels one of his most memorable experiences was the time he turned over a large stone and spent an entire morning watching a colony of ants at work and play. These little ants merely gave that morning "a new twist," and he has never forgotten it.

SOREN H. STEEN, USN, RETURNS FROM ARCTIC

Soren H. Steen, boatswain's mate second class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Steen of Thief River Falls returned to Seattle, Wash., Sept. 6 aboard the icebreaker USS Atka, after completing escort duties and the resupply of the Arctic DEW-line radar stations.

During the five-week Arctic cruise the Atka blazed the trail for supply ships to the stations and conducted oceanographic research surveys, taking water temperature, salinity, profiles and bottom samples from over a mile beneath the icy surface.

While in Seattle, the Atka will prepare for her second Antarctic cruise this year which will begin in November. She will be a unit of Rear Admiral Dufek's Operation Deepfreeze III.

FISHING IS NO MODERN FAD

"Lake of the Woods has been an important source of fish for the commercial market since the 1890s," says Minnesota History, interesting and informative magazine of our State Historical Society. "In spite of the importance of this fishery to the economy of Minnesota, fed records exist of early operations," continues the article. Wilhelm M. Zippel and Alonzo Wheeler are believed to have been the first Lake of the Woods commercial fisherman, in 1885; a lake bay still bears the former name, a point near Rainy River the latter. By 1894 at least three fish-packing stations were in operation on the Minnesota shore, and from 1898 until 1902 a postoffice was maintained in the village of LeClair. An 1894 report by the Minnesota Board of Game and Fish Commissioners lists the year's fish take at 900 tons, valued at $75,000. Principal products were, in this order, whitefish, sturgeon, walleyes, and sturgeon caviar.

MAP SHOWS 1956-57 distribution of income from Common School Trust Fund by counties. Total for state: $5,926,327.00. Figures rounded off to even dollars. Counties which actually contain iron ore deposits also received additional income from local taxes.

This map gives a graphic answer to why your school taxes aren't higher than they are.

It shows the county-by-county distribution of income from the Common School Trust Fund for the 1956-57 school year. Previous to 1956, more than 83% of the common school fund came from iron ore taxes and royalties. (In 1956, the State Constitution was amended to change the distribution of the Occupation Tax on iron ore: 50% of the funds derived now go to the State General Revenue Fund; 40% to the support of elementary and secondary schools; 10% to the general support of the University.)

Minnesota's iron ore industry has contributed over $190,000,000 to the Common School Trust Fund since 1921. This amount, huge though it is, is less than half of the total revenue Minnesota has received from iron ore.

Every Minnesotan has a stake in encouraging a favorable climate for the investments needed to keep our state among the world's major suppliers of iron ore. It is important to our state economy . . . to employment . . . to you and your children's educations.

RESEARCH AND INVESTMENT CAN KEEP MINNESOTA'S IRON ORE FUTURE BRIGHT!

No Serious Slump Due, Kiplinger Declares

Current fears of a serious recession are not warranted, according to a special report by the Kiplinger organization, released today. A "normal progress" for the next five or six years is predicted by the Washington business reporting firm.

Any letdown or slump will be temporary, the editors say, a pause — not a deep slump or depression.

Then, in five or six years, a new boom will set off "the greatest era of economic growth this country has ever known." Underlying the new boom are these facts:

Population: Extra high birth rates in the '40's and '50's will produce a population bulge in the '60's and '70's of young men and women marrying or ready to marry. Marriages makes homes, homes make business.

New products, new ideas: Technical, scientific and mechanical developments of the past few years are being rushed into use, producing a crop of new products.

Government policy: Both parties and all political groups are bullish, committed to full employment and an economy going at full speed, with the government an active partner.

More Inflation

The bad news is that more inflation will accompany the boom, according to the Kiplinger report. Prices will go higher — in ten years, 15 per cent higher, in 25 years, 50 per cent higher!

Behind the inflation are three major forces, pushing hard:

Wages rising faster than productivity: A continuous push for higher wages can be expected, causing higher prices and then demand for more wages to cover increased living costs.

World-wide pressure on prices: Demand for goods everywhere else in the world is greater than the supply. Prices are going up in all countries and they affect our economy, too.

Government spending: No matter what men of either party say the pressure is to expand public spending, so deficits may plague budgets in the future. Public pressure continues to be for big spending, regardless of inflation that comes in its wake.

Not all states and localities will share equally in the growth of the next 25 years, the Kiplinger report points out. The biggest single area of growth is the "heartland" area from Pittsburg to Chicago.

Next in growth comes the Atlantic seaboard, New York to Baltimore. Then spectacular California, heading toward beating New York as number one state in population. Then Texas, then Florida, which is gaining at the highest rate of any large state.

Business Gains Spotlighted

The new boom of the '60's will bring an upsurge in housing, accompanied by further suburban growth, increased land prices, more luxury homes.

New businesses will increase. All the talk about small business being doomed is "a lot of bunk," according to the editors.

Service lines will grow fast; retailing, repair, maintenance, banking, real estate, insurance, as well as recreation, travel and vacation-connected businesses.

No Tax Relief — Incomes Up

Along with the boom and inflation will come a steep rise in incomes, until family spending doubles its present level in the '80's. Even with discounts for inflation and higher prices, there will be more family spending.

Lower income groups will decrease in number, as families move up the income scale—more middle and upper income families. And there will be increasing numbers of rich families of varying grades, a continuation of past and present trends.

Taxes will not decrease. Though federal taxes may be cut, state and local taxes will rise at a faster rate, so total tax bill will stay high.

No Big War

Total defense spending will gradually decline, perhaps to 30 billions instead of present 40 billions. First small steps toward disarmament may take five to 10 years, but total disarmament is not in the picture.

As for war, the Kiplinger organization forecasts there will be no big war. Small wars may threaten and come and go, but no world-wide conflict is likely, the report concludes.

Doctors Warn of Indiscriminate Vitamin Pill Use

The use of supplemental vitamins on top of a well-planned diet is superfluous and unnecessary, state a bulletin from the Minnesota State Medical association. Aside from the unnecessary expense they incur, vitamin pills are objectionable in a number of other ways. Overdosage may prove actually detrimental. Large amounts of vitamin D, for example, may cause serious damage to the kidneys and other structures of the body. Furthermore, vitamin pills or capsules are apt to give their users a false sense of nutritional security. They are poor substitutes for meat, milk, fruits and vegetables.

The people with the most to lose through vitamin pills, however, are those gullible enough to use them as remedies against colds, fatigue, weakness, nervousness or any of the other ailments that some advertisers claim them to be good for.

Home Accidents on Increase in State

340 Deaths Reported in State in 1957 to July 1

From January through July this year, 340 deaths occurred from home accidents, according to provisional figures from the Minnesota department of health. This is an increase of 24 home accident fatalities over last year for the same period. Of the accident fatalities reported in Minnesota homes this year, 294 were in nonfarm homes, 46 in farm homes.

Most of the fatal accidents occurred to children under 14 years of age and to men and women 65 and over.

Accidents in Minnesota homes were also responsible for injuring approximately 3500 residents.

Falls, fires, poisonings, suffocation and accidental discharge of firearms continue to be the principal cause of deaths from home accidents. Falls are still the number one cause, especially among people 65 and over; fires and burns rank second, taking their highest toll among children under five.

Though fatal accidents in Minnesota nonfarm homes were on the decrease last year, farm home accidents have been increasing for the past four years, reports Glenn Prickett, extension safety specialist at the University of Minnesota. Of the 46 farm people who died in farm home accidents, 10 were children, nine years old and under, who were killed in farm machinery accidents. Fatal accidents to children from farm machinery are included in the category of home accidents.

More attention needs to be focused on removing hazards in the home and on the farm in order to reduce the high accident toll for the remainder of 1957, the University safety specialist said. He called upon Minnesota families to keep children away from farm machinery during the corn picking and silo filling season, and to protect young and old alike against fires and other hazards that cause death and crippling injuries.

McCabe Company Burned Elevator Rebuilt at Argyle

Reconstruction of the McCabe Co. elevator annex at Argyle, which was destroyed by fire July 2, is slated for completion late in September, according to Ben C. McCabe, president of the Minneapolis firm.

A 60,000-bushel structure, the new building will contain 12 bins and will serve as a storage annex for the main elevator, which was not damaged in the blaze. The coal and storage sheds adjacent to the main structure also were undamaged.

The burned annex, a 25,000-bushel unit, was formerly the Riopelle elevator, one of the oldest in Argyle. Loss of the building and grain contained in it was valued at $40,000. James Hotten is manager of the elevator.

6,000 New Students to Be Introduced to Varied Aspects of Campus Life

Both educational and social aspects of campus life will be introduced to more than 6,000 new students during the annual University of Minnesota Welcome Week, September 22-28.

Approximately 700 of these students will begin their get-acquainted period earlier when they attend one of seven "freshman camps" Friday, Saturday and Sunday, September 20-22.

The St. Paul campus will be the scene Thursday, Sept. 26, of such activities as a barbecue, song fest and a "blue jean ball" for the new students.

Also included in the week's program are dormitory and campus tours, informal meetings with faculty members, discussions of membership in fraternities, sororities and other activities and University department displays.

City in Improved Financi[illegible] Status

Heavy Load of Bond Maturities Facing City in Next 6 Years

The city of Thief River Falls is in a greatly improved financial condition, Homer Matheson, public accountant, told members of the Rotary Club at their Monday noon meeting. The present council has adopted new accounting procedures to meet the needs of the city's greatly expanded operations. The cash position has been improved by curtailed spending and realistic taxation, he said.

A breakdown of the city's bonded debt in tabular form was given to each of the members. This statement revealed a total funded obligation of $1,382,000, due in the following annual installments:

1960	$178,000	1963	$100,000

Payments will diminish steadily from 1963 to 1979. Nearly two-thirds of the total debt, $862,000, comes due during the next six years.

A breakdown of local taxes revealed a steady increase for all purposes since 1950 when the total levy was 127.78 mills. This year's taxes were paid on the basis of a 1956 total levy of 188.35 mills.

During this period the levy for city purposes increased from 10.57 mills to 45.45 mills. In terms of tax dollars this represented a levy of $124,776.89, of which $98,806.90 was needed for debt service.

One of the factors that will enter into possible tax reduction, it was pointed out, is the cost of future construction. Councilmen Al Berge and A. B. Stenberg discussed briefly necessary improvements. "We can expect a steady street improvement program, they agreed, and street improvement will have to include adequate storm sewers. These costs, however, will be met largely by property assessments.

Urgent needs include added water system facilities, including a new tank, and enlargement of the sewage disposal plant.

Council Acts on Variety of City Matters

Votes to Buy New Plymouth Police Car from Forkenbrock

The city council at its regular September session Tuesday evening bought a new police car and the winter's supply of coal for municipal buildings, and advanced several proposed ordinances toward enactment.

Accepted was the bid of Forkenbrock Motor Co., lowest of three received, to supply a 1958 Plymouth six-cylinder special police car at a price of $920, including the trade-in of the present police car.

Five local dealers submitted bids on the winter's coal supply, and the council accepted the low bid of the O'Hara Fuel & Transfer Co. for Merry Gale stoker coal at a price of $19.95.

Following a discussion in which the opinion was voiced that setting up too many stop signs will defeat their purpose and unnecessarily impede traffic, the council approved the recommendation of Mayor O. D. Beich and Police Chief Elton Cummings that four-way stop signs be installed at the intersection of Arnold av. and First st., and to place stop signs at the four approaches to Washington school.

It was pointed out that student-operated cars and heavy pedestrian traffic in the vicinity of Lincoln high school constitute a serious traffic problem.

City Attorney Robert A. Wurst reported he had been advised that the bureau of reclamation is prepared to increase its allotment of firm power to Thief River Falls from 2,050 kilowatts to 2,250, and the council voted to accept the increase.

After hearing the third and final reading, the council adopted an amendment to the 3.2 beer sale ordinance forbidding minors from purchasing beer, thus conforming to the state law governing the subject.

At the request of the park board, an ordinance regulating the planting and maintenance of trees and grass along the city streets was given a first reading.

The council voted to call for bids to be opened October 15 on a new billing machine for the city clerk's office.

In behalf of the Pennington county statehood centennial committee, Judge Herman A. Kjos and Bill LaFave asked the council to vote funds for the purchase of a seven-acre tract at the east end of Eighth st. bridge as the site for a wayside park and historical marker to be developed and maintained by the state highway department.

Testimony Completed Monday in Kierk Case

Many Witnesses Heard at Hearing on Discharge Action

Disposition of the Christ Kierk case is in the hands of a three-member fact-finding board this week, following a public hearing held Monday to decide the outcome of a case which started with dismissal of Kierk as Thief River Falls airport manager by the city council last spring.

The hearing was held in the city court rooms in the morning and in district court rooms in the afternoon, and featured a long parade of witnesses called by City Attorney Robert Wurst.

David Morris, representing city employees' union local [illegible], was counsel for Kierk at the hearing. The board which listened to arguments from both sides was composed of G. A. Frahm, representing the city airport commission; E. A. Hamerski, a neutral member of the board; and, Mrs. Agnes Israelson, a former mayor of the city representing Kierk and the union.

Frahm was the first city witness called to testify by Wurst. Under questioning Frahm explained the set-up and operation of the airport commission, of which he is a member, as a 5-man unit, composed of two city council members and three citizens, charged with operation of the airport, subject to the authority of the city council.

Frahm outlined the difficulties with Kierk, which led to his dismissal last spring, and described the former manager as an excellent airport attendant except that he was very uncooperative.

During Frahm's testimony several documents including the minutes of some airport commission meetings were introduced as evidence of Kierk's uncooperativeness.

Also entered as evidence were letters Kierk, without authorization from the airport commission, wrote to the national Junior Chamber of Commerce castigating the local Jaycees for their actions in promoting an air show in July, 1956; and, to North Central Airlines, requesting that Chester Matthews, station manager here until last spring, be discharged because, the letter stated, Matthews had interfered with Kierk's operation of the airport.

Frahm also revealed that on at least one occasion when a meeting was called by the com-

Business Women's Week Is Proclaimed by Mayor O. D. Beich

Mayor O. D. Beich today signed a proclamation calling on local citizens to observe the week of September 22-28 as National Business Women's Week, sponsored by the local Business and Professional Women's club and its national organization.

In signing the proclamation, Mayor Beich stated:

"I am happy and proud to have the opportunity to extend greetings to the Business and Professional Womens Club of Thief River Falls and also throughout the nation.

"Your theme, "Salute to Women Who Work" paying tribute to all women who are such an important part of our labor force as well as those who are leaders in public and business affairs, is one I can sincerely endorse.

"Nationwide, working women are bringing about a visible change in private and government enterprise. Their enthusiasm and energy is fast becoming one of our nations greatest resources. They have carried along with them their instinct for moral values and spiritual ideals, which make them good homemakers, into their business and professional work.

"As a businessman and employer, as a public servant, and as a husband, I salute you all."

ASC Officials State Curbs by Congress Limit Flood Relief

Farmers of the flooded areas of Minnesota have been encouraged by Senator Hubert Humphrey and DFL state officials to believe that special relief funds have been made available to them by Congress through the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation organization. State ASC officials agree that funds are available to flood-stricken areas, but for limited purposes, and that under the restrictions imposed by Congress, these funds cannot be used for some of the purposes suggested by local ASC committees.

Waterlogged farmers in northwestern Minnesota have been hopeful that relief might be made available in the form of special grants for plowing-under crops destroyed by floods. County ASC committees, speaking for the farmers of this area, requested such grants. They have now been informed by state ASC officials that the funds appropriated by Congress may not be used for such purposes.

"We would like to point out that, even though there was some additional money appropriated by the last Congress for Emergency ACP, there were no changes made in the eligibility requirements, or in the program itself. In fact, it has been pointed out to us, that Public Laws 85-58 and 85-170, which appropriated funds for this program, are considerably more restrictive with regard to types of eligible cost-sharing measures than legislation providing emergency funds for previous programs.

"Generally, in the case of floods, for example, eligible measures would include only such measures as removing debris, filling and stabilizing gullies, shaping eroded lands and restoring drainage ditches and irrigation ditches damaged or destroyed by the flood."

This would indicate that purely cultural practices, as recommended by several counties would not be approved. There is also no possibility of using this program as an added income or relief measure, because the rate of cost-sharing for a practice may not exceed 80 percent of the

Connie Alberg Married To James Kolden Sept. 1

[illegible] of white gladioli [illegible] candelabra Sunday [illegible] September 1, Miss Connie Louise Alberg became the bride of James Allen Kolden in the Evangelical Lutheran church [illegible] Hilaire. Pastor Eldon C. [illegible] performed the double [illegible] ceremony in the presence of approximately 200 guests.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Alberg of St. Hilaire, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thorval Kolden, also of St. Hilaire.

Miss Faye Torkelson of this city, friend of the couple, presided at the organ for a prelude of nuptial music and the traditional wedding marches. She also accompanied Mrs. Clarence Wentworth of St. Hilaire, friend of the couple, who sang "O Perfect Love," "The Wedding Prayer" and the "Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor length gown of crystalette, which she designed and made herself. The gown was princess style, fashioned with long tapered sleeves which formed points over the wrists. The scalloped neckline outlined a net insert which extended to a tiny stand up collar edged in lace. Tiny covered buttons were featured down the back and at the wrists. The full skirt was fashioned with inverted pleats of lace edged net [illegible]. Her fingertip veil fell from a crown of lace and pearls. She carried a bouquet of all white carnations and mums and white satin ribbon. Her only jewelry consisted of tiny pearl earrings. She also carried out the traditional theme of "something old, new, borrowed and blue."

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her cousin, Miss Janice Finstad of St. Hilaire. The bridesmaids were Miss Janet Kolden, sister of the groom, and Miss Elinor Gustafson, friend of the bride, both of St. Hilaire. Their identical dresses, which they made themselves, were of turquoise crystalette fashioned with fitted bodices, short sleeves and a slight scoop neckline cut in V's in the back. The bouffant skirts fell to waltz length. Their headbands were of lace and ribbon in white and turquoise, as were their wrist gauntlets. Pearl earrings were their only jewelry. They carried bouquets of yellow and white mums and carnations with turquoise [illegible].

[illegible] as flower girl was An[illegible], of Austin, niece of the groom. Her street length dress was of white crystalette fashioned with a fitted bodice, scalloped neckline and puffed sleeves. The double skirt was of scalloped edged crystalette over turquoise net. She wore a headband of matching lace and ribbon, and carried a basket of yellow and white mixed flowers with turquoise ribbon.

The groom was attended by his brother, Floyd Kolden of Seattle, Wash., as bestman. Groomsmen were Clifford Swanson of St. Hilaire and Del Ray Sanders of this city, both friends of the groom. They all wore white dinner jackets and black trousers. The groom wore a white carnation boutonniere while the attendants wore boutonnieres of turquoise carnations.

The ring bearer was Charles Dinsmore of Chisholm, Minn., nephew of the bride. He was dressed identically to the attendants and carried the rings on a lace edged white satin pillow with turquoise ribbons.

Serving as ushers were Joe Poole of this city and Harlan Hallstrom of St. Paul, both friends of the groom. They wore light blue suits with carnations boutonnieres.

Mrs. Alberg, mother of the bride, chose a navy blue dress with white accessories for her daughter's wedding. The groom's mother also wore a navy blue dress with matching accessories. Their identical corsages were of pink and white roses and mums.

Following the ceremony, a reception was given by the couples' parents in the church parlors. Approximately 200 guests were present. Acting as hostess was Mr. Theodore Bjorge of this city, friend of the couple. Those serving in the kitchen were Mesdames Russell Thune, Jesse Skaaren, Anton Torkelson, Melvin Torkelson, Edwin Nelson and Gust Gustafson. Their turquoise nylon aprons were gifts of the bride. Waitresses were Mrs. James Froseth, Miss Marilyn Gunderson, Cherry Johnson, Betty Rude and Marilyn McCrum, all friends of the bride. They wore white organdy aprons trimmed with turquoise net, gifts of the bride.

Nine Persons Fined in Court Here Monday

Monday was a fairly quiet day in municipal court with only nine persons being brought before Judge H. O. Chommie for hearings on traffic and other offenses.

The presence of two charged under a like number of game law violations by Game Warden Carl Sundstrom was an unusual event but, perhaps, a portent of things to come with the opening of hunting season approaching.

John D. Loyland, Goodridge, pleaded guilty to fishing without a license and was fined $15 plus $4 costs, while Edwin Broughton, city, was charged with keeping a protected wild animal, a raccoon to wit, as a pet without a permit. After his guilty plea Broughton was fined $10, which was suspended, and $4 costs, paid.

There were two highway patrol cases. June H. Johnson, Goodridge, pleaded guilty to driving without a license and her $25 fine was suspended after imposition. She paid $4 costs.

Also brought to court by the patrol was Julian Rodahl, rt. 2, who pleaded guilty to failure to stop for a school bus in the process of discharging or taking on passengers. His fine was $25, of which $15 was suspended, the balance paid along with $4 costs.

Only four city police cases were recorded, one of which forfeited bond for not appearing on a careless drivng charge. Laverne E. Israelson, cty, forfeited the $2 bond for non-appearance at the Monday court session.

Charles P. Kruse, Red Lake Falls, pleaded guilty of failure to heed a stop light and drew a $5 fine plus $4 costs. On a charge of improper parking he was also fined $5 after his guilty plea.

Orrin J. Thompson, rt. 2, city, charged with the same offense also pleaded guilty and was fined $10, which was suspended, since he had the noisy muffler repaired after being tagged for the offense.

Congressional Restrictions Limit Flood Aid

At a meeting of the Pennington County USDA Disaster committee held on August 5, four resolutions were adopted suggesting a four-point relief program for farmers in the flooded areas. At a meeting held August 27 this committee adopted resolutions requesting an expanded program, including a proposal for reimbursement for the plowing under of flooded fields. The cost of this program was estimated at $220,000. Other counties in the distress area of northwestern Minnesota proposed similar programs.

It is these proposals that the state ASC authority says cannot be approved because of the limitations on the use of funds prescribed by congress.

Testimony Ended Monday in Kierk Discharge Case

mission to resolve the difficulty between Kierk and the airline station employees. Kierk did not attend, although requested to do so.

Frahm said that the airport commission meeting of March 6, 1957 was when it was recommended that Kierk be dismissed and that the recommendation was passed on to the city council, which concurred and took the recommended action.

Morris, in cross-examination of Frahm, questioned Frahm's authority in making decisions affecting operation of the airport and at several points the discussion between Morris and the witness became quite heated.

Morris was reprimanded by Hameraki at several points for improper questioning, after objections by Wurst. At some length Morris made his point that Kierk was perhaps working under too many bosses and that actually he acted in good faith. Frahm agreed to the latter part of this statement.

The hearing was adjourned until 1:30 when it reconvened in the district court rooms in the courthouse. Witnesses called by Wurst in the afternoon session included A. B. Stenberg, city councilman, Chester Matthews, former airline station manager here and now at Brainerd, Orin Green of the local Jaycees, Bob Carlson, city councilman, and Mayor O. D. Belch.

Testimony brought out difficulties in detail between Kierk, the airport commission, and various organizations and individuals. All witnesses agreed that Kierk was a good airport attendant but that his uncooperativeness was a major liability warranting dismissal.

The only witness called to the stand for the plaintiff by Morris was Kierk himself. Two documents were entered as evidence, both letters commending Kierk for his past good services.

Under questioning Kierk refuted testimony of previous witness on several points. His testimony was brief and he was not cross-examined, with Morris resting his case after concluding his questioning of Kierk.

The outcome of the hearing will not be announced for some time, Hameraki said today.

He stated that Mrs. Israelson left for a west coast vacation immediately after the hearing and that it will take some time for the panel to arrange a meeting to discuss the hearing and review points of testimony after her return, so that an announcement concerning the board's findings will not be made until after such a meeting is held.

Council Acts on Variety of City Business Tuesday

The two men stated that the county board had voted $1,500 to the committee, and suggested that the city supply $2,000. The council deferred action on the matter, owing to only four aldermen being present at the meeting.

Sig Quam, in behalf of the Chamber of Commerce, asked that the municipal Auditorium be kept open Saturday if possible for the convenience of persons wishing to use the restroom facilities. The council agreed to study the matter.

Arrangements were made for a meeting of the council with City Engineer Douglas Stewart Friday night to consider the assessment roll for the street work getting under way this fall on the east side, and to arrange for a hearing of the matter.

PUBLIC OPINION

Did you know that Minnesota is celebrating its 100 years of statehood in 1958? Let's make it a memorable event!

One way we can do this is to do our part in helping the Goodridge grade school put on an authentic pioneer display at the school.

Wouldn't you like to take an old-fashioned buggy ride again or see someone spin in an old pioneer kitchen? This can be done if we all will be on the look out for pioneer relics around our homes.

Ladies and menfolk, when you're busy housecleaning and yardcleaning this fall, be watching for old clothes, utensils, tools, furniture, implements, and pictures that will help make this display of a typical pioneer home.

Marshall Co. Red Cross Met Tuesday

Walter Waldorf Heads Disaster Committee

Walter Waldorf, chief accountant at P.K.M. Electric Cooperative, Inc., in Warren was appointed disaster committee chairman of the Marshall County Red Cross chapter at a meeting of chapter officers and chairmen held at the State Bank of Warren Tuesday night.

Chapter officers began making plans for the 1958 Red Cross fund campaign which will be directed by Duane Nielsen, as county campaign chairman. The county will be divided into six separate districts with a chairman to be appointed in each. The districts will follow commissioner district lines with the fifth district, which covers a large area, being divided into two units.

Executive officers of the chapter will contact individuals in each of the six districts to serve as chairmen and with the help of these chairmen will select campaign workers in each township and village.

The chapter failed to reach its 1957 quota and if the activities, including the water safety program at Old Mill State Park are to be continued, it will be absolutely necessary that the 1958 drive be successful, it was pointed out.

Mrs. C. Lambert Lund who recently accepted an appointment as nursing committee chairman, attended the session and reported that steps will be taken during the fall to inaugurate home nursing classes in the county. This is a part of the chapter program in the civil defence program being instituted in the county.

Over 200 Attend Washington PTA Meeting Monday

Teachers Are Introduced, Lions Quartet Sings and New Building is Inspected

Over 200 parents and teachers attended the first meeting of the Washington school PTA unit in the new building Monday evening. The meeting opened with the audience singing God Bless America, followed by devotions by Olaf Dahlen. The Lion's quartette sang several selections, and John Elsbrener, principal, introduced the teachers and two custodians. The teachers were presented with corsages from the PTA by Mrs. Robert Abbott, hospitality chairman.

Irvin Wilson, President, introduced the officers and committee chairmen. The fall PTA conference to be held Oct. 12 at the Washington school in Thief River Falls was discussed, and it was voted that the four officers, Irvin Wilson, Mrs. Olaf Dahlen, Mrs. Silas Hanson and Mrs. Dayton Kjonaas serve as Washington's official delegates. It was decided again that room pictures of students be taken by the Kavanaugh Studio, as done in past years.

A discussion was held on safety of children in going to and from school, particularly the crossing by the Hartz warehouse and the Great Northern railway crossing, and on Frist Street. Bruce Hall was appointed chairman to check on this, and he will have Ray Bren, Walter Thomas and Ormond Johnson on his committee. They are to report their findings at next PTA meeting in October.

Kermit Eastman introduced Supt. Irwin Mickelson, who responded with a brief talk.

An inspection of the handsome new building was made, and many favorable comments were heard. The membership committee signed up 212 parents and teachers as members for the coming year.

Big Attendance at Knox PTA Meeting

Sid Lieberman Presides in Absence of Lee Ihle

The audience enjoyed three numbers presented by the Lions club quartet.

Following the program, lunch was served and the parents were invited to visit the various grades in which their children are enrolled.

A feature of the evening was an interesting display of the procedure book. This book records all activities and information of the Knox school and has been compiled by Mrs. Albert Lafrenz, who is in charge of this project.

Wild Oats

It may be too wet to combine but some fields which were in grain can be disked. Shallow cultivation of fields already harvested will encourage wild oats growth. Why encourage wild oats growth? Well you can't shoot a rabbit you don't see. You can't kill wild oats that haven't germinated and started growth.

Each year the wild oat problem gets worse. In a wet cool fall we can cripple up this villian pretty bad if by shallow cultivation a disk, one-way drag, or as a matter of fact any implement that will stir up the soil will help to control wild oats.

After the wild oats has started growth it may take one more cultivation prior to harvest or if not headed out let the frost wipe it out. Any seed you can get to grow this fall will not be there to bother you another year.

Remember it took many years of accumulation of seed to be a serious wild oat problem. Some of those seeds need to be dormant one year or more, others grow soon after shattering. So we can only kill a definite percentage every year. There in lies the problems of wild oat control.

Sow Diet

He points out that tests in recent years at the University of Minnesota show that pig survival is highest when sows get a normal, adequate diet.

In tests conducted in 1955-56, pigs from sows fed low-protein rations (10.7 percent) were compared with pigs from sows fed normal rations (14.5 percent protein.) It was found that when the pigs became sick, there were higher death losses among pigs from sows on low-protein diets than from sows that had received normal diets.

Ninety-two percent of the pigs farrowed by sow fed higher protein levels survived to weaning, while only 77 percent of the pigs from low-protein rations lived to that age.

According to R. J. Meade, University swine nutritionist, the difference was due principally to higher death loss from disease among litters on the low-protein lot.

A similar experiment was conducted during the past year to confirm results of the first study.

Rainy Weather Continues in Area

Freezing Temperatures Predicted for Tonight

Rain, rain, rain—and more rain, was the story of the weather in northwestern Minnesota the past week, but despite the unpleasant clouds hanging over the area, the KTRF rain gauge showed only .39 inches fell here Wednesday.

(The Times weatherman suspects the KTRF rain gauge has sprung a leak!)

Residents of the area were treated to clearing skies Thursday morning, along with a breezy low temperature of 35. The high temperature for the week so far was a damp 66 Tuesday, while today's 35 was the low.

The forecast is for continued cool temperatures with occasional light rain or drizzle, possibly mixed with SNOW today. It will be clearing and cold with frost or freezing temperatures tonight. The expected high today is 45 and lows tonight will be in the lower 30's.

Jail Escapee Is Identified as Bad Check Artist Here

Positive identification has been made of a jail escapee who cashed several stolen payroll checks in this city some two or three weeks ago, Sheriff Charles Richards announced here today.

Richards said the man has been identified as Perry Kalkbrenner, about 28, who escaped from the Olmsted county jail at Rochester Aug. 20. Identification was made through photographs shown to bad check victims by the forgery division of the Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension, Richards said.

Kalkbrenner left a swath of forged payroll checks from Duluth to Grand Forks in his travels through the area, authorities report. He has had a forgery record from the past, they added.

So far he is still at large since passing the last batch of checks in this and other areas.

COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS, BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS, PENNINGTON COUNTY, MINN.

Sept. 6, 1957

Pursuant to Order for Final Hearing on County Ditch [illegible] the County Board met in the [illegible] Courthouse, at 2:00 P.M. (C.D.S.T.) Sept. 6, 1957.

Members present: Anderson, [illegible] [illegible]

Moved by Anderson seconded by Lindberg that meeting adjourn to convene at 2:00 A.M. Sept. 10.

At 2:00 P.M. the Board took up the matter of the Final Hearing on County Ditch No. 73 pursuant to Order for Final Hearing.

There were [illegible] interested landowners present. Engineer Seidel gave the Engineers final report in detail and the meeting was thrown open for discussion.

After consultation, Engineer Seidel recommended the design of the ditch be amended as follows:

1. The crossing for Clarence [illegible] be an inverted ramp instead of a 60 in. culvert.

2. The location of the ditch through the South Half of the NE¼ be relocated along the North and South line between the SW¼NE¼ and the SE¼NE¼ Sec. 13, T153N, R43W. (Hickory Twp.)

3. That an additional 48" culvert be installed through CAR 21 at the North end of ditch.

4. That 66 ft. right-of-way be provided along the North-South quarter line of Sec. 1-153-[illegible]

In order that the Board may study the proposal the meeting was adjourned upon motion by Hanson seconded by Anderson to convene at 9:00 A.M., Sept. 10, 1957. Carried.

Glen Taus, Chairman,
Pennington County Board.

Attest:
C. W. Rodekuhr, County Auditor & ex-officio, Clerk of the Board.

Sept. 10, 1957

Only One Traffic Mishap Occurs in County This Week

Another relatively quiet week was reported on area highways and city streets by local law enforcement agencies.

Only one mishap was reported, that by Sheriff Charles Richards of an accident that happened near St. Hilaire Monday evening.

Louis Srnsky, rt. 5, city, escaped serious injury when the gravel truck he was driving left the road and overturned about a mile southeast of St. Hilaire on county road 24 about 7:35 p.m. Monday.

According to Richards a doctor and ambulance were called but their services were not needed by Srnsky, who, although knocked unconscious in the accident, escaped with a mere shaking up. He was not thrown from the cab, Sheriff Richards said.

Neither the city police nor highway patrol had accidents to report.

Prowlers to Play at E. Grand Forks Tonight

When the Prowlers take the field against Harold (Snooks) Sullivan's East Grand Forks Little Green Wave, in a 31st district conference football game, at Grand Forks on Thursday, coach Joe Mrkonich will lineup the blue-and-gold with Dave Hanson and Ken DeLap at the ends, Larry Gausen and Skip Litstrom at the tackles, Ken Bauve and Ken Jones at the guards, and Jimmy Nelson at center. The backfield will have Phil Hanson at quarter, Dave Rasmussen at left half, Lynn Nicholson at right half, and Jim Bennes at fullback.

On the defense, the Prowlers will shift their personnel, with DeLap, Gausen, Jones, Nelson, Bauve, Litstrom, and Hanson on the front line. Line backers will be Nicholson, Froehle, and Jorstad; and back at safety will be Bennes and Rasmussen.

The Prowlers having been training diligently this week in preparation for their usual bruising tussle against the East Siders. Coach Sullivan's club will follow their customary pattern on offense, with a massed or "wedge" attack leveled at the tackles. These punching tactics are aimed at picking up three or four yards at a thrust, and the Prowlers must halt this driving attack if they are to mark up their second conference win.

Kickoff time for the game, and local fans should make a note of the fact that the game will be played on the University of North Dakota's Memorial Stadium field, will be at 7:30 p. m. on Thursday night.

Lions Hear Talk on Disaster Rescue

Quentin Jones Tells of Experiences in Maryland

In connection with the observance this week of National Civil Defense Week, Quentin Jones, local disaster chairman with civil defense, told members of the Lions club at their luncheon meeting Wednesday of the national school for rescue work which he attended recently at Olney, Maryland.

Introduced by Dr. George Martin, program chairman, Jones told of his participation in rescue work demonstrations at Olney, describing them as being highly realistic.

He said the aim of civil defense is to train workers for service in time of natural disasters or war, and to prevent demoralization of the public. He also solicited the cooperation of local citizens when the work of completing the local rescue teams gets under way shortly.

Also speaking briefly were James Kriegl, North Central Airlines station manager in Thief River Falls, and Henry Thiele of Minneapolis, sales representative for the company.

Cancer Fund Drive Hits Peak in State

Pennington Ranks 51st Among State Counties

An all-time record high of $547,777 was raised in the 1957 Crusade of the Minnesota division, American Cancer Society, it was reported today by Edward W. Asplin, Minneapolis, state campaign chairman.

"This record of 104 per cent of the goal of $525,000 represents $44,000 more than was raised in 1956," Asplin said, "and is the result of the generous support of the people of Minnesota for the Society's research, education, and service program, the largest concentrated effort in the United States in the fight against cancer."

Some 10,000 volunteers in Minnesota took the society's life-saving message to every corner of the state in its appeal for support.

Asplin said that "Minnesota can be proud of the fact that due to the outstanding program of research in this state, primarily at the University, more funds are spent here than are raised."

Maurice H. Strothman, Jr., Minneapolis, vice president, Federal Reserve Bank, has been named crusade chairman for 1958.

Plummer Defeats Gonvick 18 to 6

The Plummer Cardinals opened their 1957 football season by scoring an 18 to 6 win over Gonvick in a game played at Gonvick last week. The Cardinals tallied in each of the first three periods, with Jay Martell scoring a pair of touchdowns, and Roger Howard scoring one touchdown. Gonvick scored their six points in the third period.

On Friday, Sept. 20th, Oklee will play at Plummer.

Mrs Christine Johnson Awarded 100 Silver Dollors

Mrs. Christine Johnson, 109½ East Third St., a teacher in the Thief River Falls public schools, was announced Monday afternoon by the Chamber of Commerce as the winner of the 100 silver dollars offered as the grand prize in the Treasure Hunt successfully sponsored by local merchants last week. Eligible to take part in the drawing were all persons who had won lesser prizes in the various business places.

Aldo Ray and Robert Ryan singe the screen with their explosive banter. They play a cast-iron lieutenant and a killer-old sergeant in United Artists' "Men In War" at the Falls Theatre Friday and Saturday.

Fish and Fishing

While the upland game-bird prospects, and the season opens on Saturday, are so bleak and damp that the local nimrods haven't been able to generate any great amount of enthusiasm, the city's anglers have had plenty of excitement. It's been years and years since the walleyed pike fisherman have had it so good. Below the dam, that is.

Venturing a conservative estimate, there must have been fifty or sixty walleyes taken out of the pool on Sunday. While Sunday was the "big" day, numerous limits were taken on Saturday, Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. And these fish had some size, too, for several of the walleyes tipped the scales past the six-pound mark. The four and five pounders were common.

The most successful method of catching these fish appears to be by using a minnow and tiny spinner, and allowing the lure to drag along the bottom of the river. The lure does get "hung up" on snags much of the time, but the walleyes are bottom feeders and you have to get the minnow down there at the risk of being snagged.

There's been plenty of conversation about these walleyes. Where they originated, etc. Some opinions are that they are Clearwater lake fish, while others maintain that the high level of Red lake, and the overflow at the "rock dam" on the Reservation, has allowed these fish to come downstream, and that they are now trying to return to Red lake. That sounds reasonable.

In the big fish category we'll report that Bob Farmes, the state biologist, returned from a fishing trip to Ontario's Eagle lake with a 21-pound musky. That's the largest fish reported by a local angler this season, and it's the first musky to be brought into town this year. He made his catch by casting a pikie minnow lure. Bob stated that he had several "follows" by a musky that would have topped the 21-pounder by ten or fifteen pounds.

The Week of Decision

It is apparent that the National league baseball race will be decided next week, on Sept. 23rd, 24th, and 25th, when the St. Louis Cardinals invade Milwaukee's County Stadium to do battle with the front-running Braves. The games on the 23rd and the 24th are are light affairs, while the game on the 25th is an afternoon tilt.

And the pitching? You can wager that the Braves will have southpaw Warren Spahn and righthanders Bob Buhl and Lou Burdette primed for that series. And the Cards will put their reliance on Herman Wehmeier, Vinegar Bend Mizell, and Larry Jackson. This series should provide the Milwaukee fans with more solid baseball than the World's Series.

The Prowler 'B' Team Schedule

The Prowler 'B' team, coached by Dick Edlund and John Matchefts, will play the second game on their six-game schedule on Tuesday night, Sept. 24th, when they meet the East Grand Forks 'B' team on the local field. Kick-off time will be at 7:30 P. M.

On Tuesday, Oct. 1st, at 7:30 P. M. the Prowlers 'B' team will play the Grand Forks Central 'B' team here. On Tuesday, Oct. 8th, the Crookston Central 'B' team will meet the Prowlers 'B' team here.

The final two games on the schedule will be "on the road," with the locals playing at East Grand Forks on Oct. 15th, and at Crookston on Oct. 22nd.

Miscellany

Lloyd Harney, a championship flight golfer here several seasons ago, won the annual American Legion state nine-hole golf tournament played at Alexandria on Sunday. Lloyd, who was registered out of Willmar, and who won the Willmar city title a year ago, scored a 1-up win over Jerry Burn of Hastings in the finals.—

Don Green, captain of the 1949 football Prowlers, was in the starting lineup of the Concordia College Cobbers, at a guard position, and was a factor in the Cobbers' 47 to 0 win over N. D. A. C. on Saturday night. Don, who was a guard in his high school days (he did play a bit at fullback in his senior year) is a senior at Concordia.

Seek Reduction In Accidental Deaths

'Emergencies Don't Wait' Week to Open Saturday

The annual effort to help reduce the high toll of deaths and injuries from accidents will get underway Saturday, with the beginning of "Emergencies Don't Wait" week.

Spotlight of this year's drive is aimed at the home, wherein 1956—more than 4,200,00 persons were injured, three times as many as were hurt in all the nation's automobile accidents. Deaths topped 28,000 second only to highway fatalities.

Governor Orville Freeman and mayors of more than a score of Minnesota cities, including Mayor O. D. Belch of Thief River Falls, have issued proclamations calling on the public to help reduce accident hazards, and to increase knowledge of basic first aid.

Richard D. Laska of St. Paul, president of the Minnesota State Pharmaceutical association, is state chairman of the week, sponsored by the state's thousands of druggists and Johnson and Johnson as a public service.

Error Is Made in Driver's Identity in Mishap Report

In the Monday edition of the Times an automobile accident was incorrectly reported. The report stated that a car driven by Mrs. Andy Williamson was damaged to the extend of $45 when scraped by a car driven by Mrs. Milton Hanson. The correct name of the driver of the damaged car was Mrs. Andrew Williams.

At the time of the accident the Williamson car, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Williamson and their sons, was many miles from Thief River Falls headed for Northfield where Daryl is now enrolled at St. Olaf College.

Local Men Hurt in R. L. Falls Mishap

Laverne Rambeck, Harold Berg Suffer Injuries

Two Thief River Falls men remain hospitalized today from injuries suffered in a one-car accident in Red Lake Falls earlier this week.

Laverne Rambeck, 38, and Harold Berg, suffered cuts and bruises and other injuries when their car crashed into a light standard on the east side of Red Lake Falls Tuesday, according to officials in that city.

They were taken to St. John's hospital in Red Lake Falls where Berg was treated for bad cuts and Rambeck for bruises and internal injuries.

Mrs. Rambeck said today her husband took a terrific blow in the abdomen from the impact of the crash but she gave no indication of his present condition. Berg, however, appears to be much improved, she said.

The car in which they were riding was badly damaged in the crash, according to Red Lake Falls authorities.

'57 Trapping Seasons Are Announced Today

The 1957 trapping seasons on mink, muskrat, badger and raccoon were announced today in St. Paul by Minnesota game and fish officials.

Mink may be trapped in the northern zone from November 2 through December 1, both dates inclusove, and from November 9 through December 8 in the southern zone.

The boundary between the two zones is a line beginning at Breckenridge on the western border, and running easterly over Route 210 at Aitkin; south on U. S. 169 to its junction with Route 66; and then east to Isle; then east on Route 66 to its junction with U. S. 61; then south on U. S. 61 to Hinckley; then east on Route 48 to its terminus on the St. Croix River.

There is no limit on the number of mink that may be taken.

Muskrats may be trapped in the northern zone from November 2 through November 24, both dates inclusive, and from November 9 through December 1 in the southern zone.

This year's season on muskrat represents a marked increase over last year's season of five days. Furbearer expert Don Balser of the Department's staff explains that "open water trapping will be in effect this year and may result in a reduced catch until trappers catch on to the knack of it." In addition, a new commissioner's order this year prohibits trapping within six feet of a muskrat house.

Mr. Balser states that "muskrats are short-lived animals which cannot be stockpiled and must be harvested when they are present. Even with intensive trapping not more than 75 percent of the 'rats are usually taken. It is unusual when a satisfactory seed stock is not left following the trapping season. Bank 'rats supply a good share of the seed stock and are not readily taken during a December season. Muskrats have a high breeding potential and usually produce four or five young for each adult 'rat, and production may be as high as twenty young 'rats per adult in a season."

The season on badger coincides with mink and there is no limit on the number that may be taken.

Raccoon may be trapped in the northern zone from November 2 through December 31, both dates inclusive, and from November 9 through December 31 in the southern zone.

Alertness Called for as Fall Arrives

Car Drivers Warned of Seasonal Hazards

The safety division of the Minnesota highway department has warned motorists to take extra care with cooler nights moving in.

"The greater variations in temperature and humidity," the warning stated, "often cause condensation or fog on windshields and mirrors. Take the little time needed before you drive off in the morning to wipe the moisture from your windows, particularly the rear window and any outside mirrors. Obscured vision is responsible for too many accidents."

The warning further pointed out that the time is here to plan a date for conditioning your car for winter driving: "Being prepared well in advance is not only money saving and good common sense, it involves the safety factor also. Stalled cars which dot the streets after the first hard freeze cause a definite hazard to other motorists."

The warning went on to remind drivers that falling leaves, leaves blowing about the highways and piled in the streets all are conditions requiring added caution on the part of the state's motorists:

"Remember, frost is coming and frost mixed with leaves on the highways can produce some unexpected slippery spots. Don't find yourself the victim of an unexpected change in road conditions."

The report concluded with a strong reminder that "Defensive Driving means preservation of life."

North St. Louis Co. Wins Firearms Safety Honors

North St. Louis County won the coveted Governor's firearms safety award at the firearms safety conference held September 7 in Minneapolis.

The award, given for "outstanding contributions to the youth of Minnesota through support of the youths firearms safety training program," was received by Roy Nyberg, county director, on behalf of the county's volunteer firearms instructors.

Each county submitted a report of their activities during the year. These reports were judged by Lee Killuvar, assistant director of firearms safety for the state.

In accepting the award Mr. Nyberg paid tribute to the "hard work of the many volunteer instructors in north St. Louis County who made the winning of this award possible."

Brakes and Lamp Adjusting School in Minneapolis

The highway patrol recently announced the opening of an official brake and lamp adjusters school at Dunwoody Institute in Minneapolis. The school for brake adjusters will be held from October 28 through November 1. The fee is $15.00.

"Lamp adjusters school will convene November 4 and close November 8 with a fee of $12.50," the patrol said.

"Only those adjusting stations with a certified adjuster graduated from the official school will be considered for certification as an official state adjusting station."

Second School Bus Warning Is Issued

Motorists Told to Watch for Bus Warning Signals

Reports of an automobile accident involving a school bus brought out a second warning to motorists throughout the state to be on the watch for school buses.

"We sometimes forget when the evidence isn't constantly before us," the warning from the highway department said. "Schools are now open throughout the state and consequently their buses are in much greater evidence on streets and highway."

"The law is quite definite on school buses," the safety division warned. "Motorists upon approaching a school bus should watch for the warning signals which show that vehicle is loading or discharging its passengers. These are the flashing red signals and the signal arm extending at right angles from the body of the bus. Drivers seeing these signals are required to come to a full stop until the bus has completed its stop and the signals are cleared. This applies equally to drivers meeting the bus or overtaking it from the rear."

The report further cautioned motorists to watch for the school traffic control signals in use in some parts of the state. "The school traffic signal is set to give an amber flashing signal during school hours signifying that intersection is used by school children. Drivers should use extra caution when driving in these areas.

"When the red signal is lighted, all motor vehicles must observe the standard law and stop," the report concluded.

Robena Mine of U. S. Steel Co., the biggest deep mine in the nation, produced 4,873,683 tons of coal in 1956 or more than one-third of the total coal production of Greene County, Pa., where the mine is located.

Nine of the nation's leading electric utilities mined 11,697,203 tons of coal for their own use in 1956, or a little more than 2 per cent of the national coal production of 500,000,000 tons.

Don't 'Jump the Gun' 1st Day of Season, Duck Hunters Told

Game and Fish Director Warns Shooting Will Open at Noon Saturday, Oct. 5

Duck hunters who jump the noon hour opening on Saturday, October 5, and start shooting early can expect to find themselves in trouble, announced James W. Kimball, director of game and fish, today following a meeting with game warden supervisors from around the state.

"I have instructed our game wardens to make a concerted effort this fall to pick up 'sooners'. We expect to augment our warden force with deputies, composed of division personnel who hold deputy warden commissions. These men will aid the game wardens in apprehending 'early shooters,' and also in patrolling for upland game hunters who will be afield at that time."

"This early shooting is not only illegal but bad sportsmanship, bad manners and selfish," said Kimball, "and penalizes the honest hunter."

"When a 'sooner' starts shooting on a marsh he sets up a chain reaction, and soon even an honest hunter feels as if he too must shoot if he is to get any ducks at all."

"The noon hour opening is purposely set to allow all duck hunters equal chance to get into their shooting site on opening day. Those hunters who can't wait until the appointed time to shoot are very apt to find their hunting stopped altogether."

"We are going to crack-down hard on these offenders," concluded Kimball, "and are asking for the support of every duck hunter in putting a stop to 'sooners'."

Game Bird Limits in Canada Listed

More Restrictive Export Limits on Ducks and Geese

Minnesota sportsmen planning trips to Canada this fall to hunt ducks, geese, and other migratory game birds must comply with certain requirements when bringing such into the United States.

Shipments from Canada must be accompanied by tags or permits if required by provincial or dominion law.

As a result of the adoption in July by the Canadian government of more restrictive export limits on migratory game birds, the department of the interior has modified the United States regulations this year so that import limits on ducks and geese will conform to Canada's export limits.

Effective during the 1957 hunting season, a seasonal import limit of 25 ducks and 10 geese taken by American hunters in Canada can be shipped from the provinces of Alberta, British Columbia, Manitoba, and Saskatchewan. For the remaining provinces and territories of Canada, imports will be limited to 15 ducks and 10 geese per calendar week beginning on Sunday.

The present limitation of 10 ducks and 5 geese per person per calendar week will remain in effect on importations from foreign countries other than Canada.

In 40 years the volume of coal produced by surface mining operations in the United States has risen from less than one-half of one percent to nearly 25 per cent, according to recently published statistics of the Bureau of Mines.

"The law of worthy life is fundamentally the law of strife. It is only through labor and painful effort, by grim energy and resolute courage, that we move on to better things."
—Theodore Roosevelt

Heroes In the Making

Jesse James and his gang of desperadoes may have to move over and make room on the pedestal of fame for another group of well-meaning but misunderstood outlaws. A few more sob-sister stories by the Minneapolis Tribune will definitely establish the murdering O'Kasicks as really great and good people who went bad merely because they had to live in a dirty apartment. Thus are heroes made.

Bad to Better

Maybe we worry too much about our race problems and the adverse effect they have on the thinking of other nations. At any rate we can get a little encouragement out of knowing that other nations have similar problems.

In India, last week, there was a clash between Untouchables and caste Hindus that brought death to nine persons and resulted in the destruction of more than 100 houses.

There is no magic formula for transforming hatred and prejudice into love and understanding. The most we can hope for in the foreseeable future is a gradual change from bad to better.

Testimonial To A Leader

The victory of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is a victory for good government everywhere. Good government, basically, is good management, and under the direction of the Adenauer administration the affairs of West Germany have been well managed.

The Adenauer government has been a stern taskmaster. It has not courted the favor of its people by a liberality it could not afford. It has encouraged individual and group effort with the promise of future rewards—prizes that must be earned and secured before they can be enjoyed.

The people of Germany now are beginning to enjoy the fruits of years of sacrifice and effort. Their reward is coming to them in the form of a higher living standard, a standard that promises to continue to rise.

In our country we enjoy the world's highest living standard. As in Germany, that high standard is the result of sacrifice and effort. The difference behind that cause-and-effect process in Germany and in our country is mainly a time factor.

Our high standard is the result largely of the sacrifice and effort of several generations of good people. We owe most of what we have to the generations that preceded us.

The Germans are in the unique position of being able to say, with considerable truth, that this higher standard which they are now enjoying is due to their own sacrifice and effort.

That is the story behind the Adenauer victory. It is a fine testimonial of an intelligent people to a truly great leader.

One More Little Drink

Big business and big labor are saying nasty things about each other as being responsible for inflation. Neither will admit being partly to blame. The only thing they seem to be in agreement on is that inflation is evil.

From our seat on the sidelines we are satisfied that big business and big labor are jointly responsible for the fact that our dollar has lost buying power. A deceitful government, justifying a borrow and spend program with the false assurance that debt is not a thing to be concerned about, is, of course, the real robber.

Inflation has progressed to the point where fixing the responsibility for the evil is now a question of only academic interest. The important problem now is not who is responsible for the mess we are in but what are we going to do about it.

We know from exeprience that inflation is fun. It is a stimulant that makes us feel richer than we actually are. That is why our politicians are in favor of it. They are always glad to go along with the idea that we should have one more little drink. That one more little drink postpones the hangover.

But we can't postpone the hangover indefinitely and the headache is ahead of us. The sooner we adjust back to sound practices the less painful will be our recovery.

Presidents and Play

Art Suel, editor of the New Prague Times, does not worship at the same shrine politically, as we do, but strangely, it is seldom that we do not agree with each other on fundamentals. Which proves, of course, that Art Suel is right most of the time too.

In this spirit we are glad to pass along the views that he expresses in the following observation on our presidents and their need for relaxation:

> Most emphatically, the Times does not go along with that rather disturbing trend noted in recent weeks whereby exponents of both his own and the opposition party appear to downgrade the President of the United States.
>
> It can result only in lessening the standing of our national government both at home and abroad.
>
>
> The burdening cares, the arduous tasks and the exacting responsibilities of the presidency demand that our chief executive gain relaxation, recreation and rest in whatever manner may suit his personal choice.
> Less than a year ago, President Eisenhower was re-elected to a second term by an overwhelming majority of the American citizens voting in a national election. By constitutional mandate, unwise as it may prove to be, he cannot serve more than two terms. God grant him the health, the strength and the vigor to serve out the more than three years remaining of his term of office and thereafter to enjoy many years of peaceful contentment in the warm affection and gratitude of his people.

Helene Bertsch, close friend of the bride fashioned the dress. She wore a pearl necklace and pearl earrings, a gift of the groom and she carried a bouquet of red roses with white carnations shaped in the form of a cross, on a white prayer book.

Potato Controls Ok'd in RRV Referendum

The Agriculture Department in Washington Monday authorized regulation of the sale of potatoes grown in the Red River Valley of North Dakota and Minnesota.

The area to be regulated includes the North Dakota counties of Pembina, Walsh, Cavalier, Towner, Grand Forks, Nelson, Steele, Traill, Cass, Richland and Ramsey and the Minnesota counties of Kittson, Marshall, Red Lake Polk, Pennington, Norman, Mahnomen, Wilken, Otter Tail, Becker and Clay.

The order will go into effect today, Thursday, the USDA stated.

A referendum among potato growers and handlers in the Valley was completed Sept. 5 and the results were since compiled and considered by the USDA.

Ninety-three per cent of the growers in the valley balloted in the referendum. The order issued Monday covers 94 per cent of the potato producing area in the Valley.

The marketing agreement authorizes regulation of potato shipments by grade, size, quality, maturity, variety, container and pack.

A Valley committee of 14, to be appointed by Secretary of Agriculture Benson, will administer the program. The committee will be selected from nominations presented by the producers.

Centennial Heads Meet in St Paul September 27-28

A two-day conference of Minnesota Centennial county organization chairmen will be held September 27-28 in Hotel St. Paul, St. Paul. Judge Herman A. Kjos, Pennington county chairman, is planning to attend.

Tom Swain, Centennial executive director, explained the purpose of the meeting as a "one-shot assembly of key county Centennial organization leaders and state staff members to discuss local and county plans for Centennial participation next year."

The meeting will include welcoming remarks from Governor Orville Freeman and State Representative Peter Popovich, commission chairman. The core of the meeting, however, will be discussions or organization, historical publications and preservations, Centennial pageantry and special events promotions.

Sheep Prospects Promising for '58

University Economists See Favorable Outlook

Where sheep flocks fit into the farm business, they could be equally as profitable in 1958 as they are this year, according to County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk.

Ermond Hartmans and Hal Routhe, extension agricultural economist at the University of Minnesota, says reasons for the good sheep outlook are higher lamb prices, plenty of feed in the nation and a continued government incentive program on wool.

There is about the same number of sheep on farms around the nation now as a year ago, and little change is expected for 1958. The lamb crop is 3 percent lower this year, but commercial slaughter from January to June was also down—4 percent below last year.

So far this year, lamb prices have been higher than in 1956. Prices for August were $1.50 to $2 above the same month a year ago.

Sheep pastures are better in dry areas this year, meaning lambs will come off pasture weighing around 60 pounds, compared, to 40-50 pounds last year. This will be closer to desirable market weight and flock owners will need less time to finish the lambs in feed lots. As a result, feeder lambs will be marketed earlier this year and price prospects for early lambs aren't as good as for lambs sold later.

Wool output for the nation is expected to be 226 million pounds, down 3 percent from 1956. This will be the smallest wool output since 1950. Government incentive prices on wool will continue at 62 cents per pound.

Cow Test Group to Hire Supervisor Tuesday Evening

DHIA Group Board of Directors to Meet in Court House at 8 p. m.

Tuesday, September 24 is the date set for a Dairy Herd Improvement association (DHIA) meeting in the courthouse at Thief River Falls. It will start at 8:00 p.m., states Dale Svendsgaard, secretary-treasurer.

The DHIA is an official dairy testing program. The local association which will start operation October 1 is set up to cover Pennington and Red Lake counties although dairymen in Marshall, Polk, and other counties may join the association.

The purpose of the meeting Tuesday, states Svendsgaard, is to hire a supervisor, who will have charge of weighing, testing, and record keeping for the association. Men now training at the University of Minnesota will be applicants for this position.

A meeting of all the members signed up with the association will be held at Plummer high school, October 9. Ramer Leighton, extension dairyman, will be present to explain in detail the operation of the DHIA. Further details of this meeting will be announced later.

Marshall Co. Land Judging Team in Winona Contest

The Marshall county land judging team consisting of Richard Shager, Gatzke, and Larry Anderson, Richard Miller and Dale Newton of Grygla, as well as Mr. Martini, Marshall-Beltrami soil conservation district farm planner, and Fred Heck, soil conservation agent, arrived home Sunday from Winona county.

The team got a total score of 374 points which placed it in the medium scoring range. Both McMartin and Heck feel that the boys did well as they were greatly handicapped in having had no hilly land to judge. Many of the farms which the boys looked at are called "two story" farms, as some of the farm land lies in the valleys while parts lie on top of steep hills about 300 to 400 feet above the valleys.

After the land judging was completed, one of the Whitewater Soil Conservation District farm supervisors took the team on a tour of the area and pointed out the various conservation practices used. Of these, good crop rotations, proper fertilization, terracing and contour strip cropping are heavily used. Water erosion control is one of the main area problems.

LOST BOY

Dry those tears, Sonny. The Law has brought you home.

But when you're grown up, don't get lost then—for the Law won't be able to bring you home!

Sure, grown-ups often get lost. They choose the wrong road, they take the wrong turn, they depend on the wrong ideas, they seek the wrong aims. And some of them get lost again and again.

Why can't the Law bring them home, too? Well, when a grown-up gets lost he generally does a lot of harm to himself and others. And then it's the job of the Law to protect people from the harm he is doing.

But, Sonny, when you grow up you're not going to get lost. We have thousands of churches for youngsters like you—and for your parents, too. Churches teach us to find ourselves before we have a chance to get lost.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Report on Viking News of the Week

Mrs. Arne Samuelson, Viking

First PTA Session of Season Held

The first PTA meeting of the year was well represented last Monday night. Rev. T. J. Weltzin, president called the meeting to order. Several items of business were discussed. Here are a few of the high lights:

A complete PTA committee was appointed for the coming year. They are as follows: Publicity, Mrs. Halvard Anderson and Mrs. Arne Samuelson; Membership: Clarence Tangquist and Arne Samuelson; Hospitality, Mrs. John Peters and Glenn Halvorson; Procedure Book, Mrs. LeRoy Sustad; Recreation, Mrs. Alvin Grandstrand and Mrs. Paul Erickson; Pianist, Miss JoAnn Ness.

Delegates to the fall conference held at T.R.F. were Mrs. Ernest Melvie, Rev. J. Dokken and Miss LeRoy Sustad.

As the PTA had as their project last year to raise money for a new piano, the school board offered to pay the balance. A committee was selected to investigate the prices, type and qualities of different pianos and report back to the PTA at the next meeting.

Percy Stokke brought up about school insurance for the school children. It was decided that the PTA would pay the premium, if the majority were interested.

A fine program was given consisting of home talent. The teen-age code was read by several people.

Judging by this meeting and its results, we believe that this year PTA achievements will even be better than last years. At the next meeting on October 14 everybody is cordially invited and urged to attend. At the meeting, the school board will present an annual report of the financial standing of the district as well as other things of interest including the cost of the school building. They will also auction a few items that they have no further use for.
